'BIG 5' MUFFLE VIEWS ON NAVIES AT 1ST SESSION

Generalities Prove Chief Topic.

The Day in London

Here are some of the highlights on the first plenary session of the London naval conference from The Tribune's correspondents and press services:

Mr. Steele covers opening proposals of five naval powers at first plenary session.

Mr. Wales describes grand reception to all delegations by city of London in ancient Guildhall, marked by pomp and tradition of centuries.

Mr. Henning reveals British have captured publicity on conference, giving out news to suit own policies.

"Big Five" delegates outline general views of their nations. Make no concrete proposals.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—After the first day's hours of the five power naval conference it is apparent that it will not be known as a "hush, hush" parley, as first seemed probable, but an Einstein conference. The shibboleth of all delegates is relativity, and it is evident that few of them know any more about it than is known of Einstein's relativity theory. Perhaps some naval or political metaphysician may be found who will be able to translate the doctrine into a language understood by plain men before the conference ends.

Apart from this, it is also apparent that very close poker is still being played. Few cards have been disclosed. As a matter of fact, it is learned that Prime Minister MacDonald, before today's plenary meeting, asked the delegates to abstain from going into figures and details at the first meeting, but to confine themselves to generalities.

Britain Bit Careless.

Several speeches had to be hastily revised, and some heartburning occurred, when it was disclosed that Mr. MacDonald exposed Great Britain's case in greater detail than had been expected.

The plenary session began promptly at 10 o'clock this morning in Queen Anne's drawing room in St. James's palace.

Mr. MacDonald presided, and the arrangement of the delegations at the horseshoe table was the same as at the opening session in the house of lords. The first business was organization of the conference, and Sir Maurice Hankey, secretary of the British cabinet, was unanimously elected as chief secretary and given charge of organizing the secretariat. It was also decided that when Mr. MacDonald was unable to preside his place would be taken by the chief delegates of other nations in English alphabetical order using the names of their countries. The chairman then invited the delegation heads to make statements, so far as possible, at this stage on their naval ideas and claims.

Simson First Speaker.

American Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who spoke first, confined himself to generalities, declaring the requirements of national defense of the various nations were altogether relative to the general conditions of the world. He added that the requirements of the United States for equality in naval power with Great Britain, to which Prime Minister MacDonald had agreed, were well understood.

Premier André Tardieu of France was a little more precise, but he also avoided the sacred word, declaring, after he had set forth all the reasons why France should have a big navy, that international agreements for security might convert these positive requirements into relative ones.

It was when Mr. MacDonald rose to speak, however, that the full potency of the magic formula became apparent. In his first sentence he said that Britain was alive to the difficulty relating to national need, and that naval strength must always be a relative one. He also pointed out that Great Britain needed a British navy strong enough to enable its kith and kin to keep up interrelations with the outside world.

Grandi More Precise.

Dino Grandi, Italian minister of foreign affairs, was also most relative. He was quite precise about what he meant by relativity, and somewhat to the dismay of other philosophers said flatly that Italy must have as strong a navy as any other continental power. Having gone that far, he was

Six Plans Started to Rescue City

HOPE TO SELL TAX LOANS TO UTILITIES TODAY

South Parks Fail to Find Bond Buyers.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Six emergency remedies were under consideration yesterday to relieve the financial distress of the Chicago and Cook county governments. Chief among them was the proposal of Chairman Malone of the state tax commission to sell tax anticipation warrants to railroads, utility companies, and large manufacturers. Other developments which indicated the increasing acuteness of the local governments' financial troubles were:

1. The south park commission failed to receive any bids for a proposed bond issue of $1,500,000.

2. Another pay day of the 3,862 county employés went by without delivery of their salary checks.

3. Today is pay day for 13,220 school teachers, but they will receive no checks.

4. Two coal contractors notified the school board that their bills have been running too long and inquired when payment would be made.

Malone Talks to Railroads.

Mr. Malone acted immediately on his suggestion that large business organizations be induced to buy tax warrants. He talked with Alfred E. Patten of the Burlington railroad, F. A. Hogberg of the Illinois Central, and J. B. Angell of the Rock Island lines. They expressed a favorable attitude but made no commitments. The railroads entering Chicago pay $11,356,347 in taxes on their property in Cook county.

Chairman Malone has an engagement to see Samuel Insull this morning. Mr. Insull phoned a favorable comment on the Malone relief plan and if he and other utility operators agree to buy the warrants, it was believed that this program will be set under way today.

The citizens' committee headed by Silas H. Strawn continued working on their plan which is similar to Mr. Malone's. They would have a pool and a managing committee, which would deal out the money obtained from sale of the tax warrants to the agencies where they deemed it most needed. A definite statement on this plan also may be expected today, if certain commitments are obtained and the legal features of the program are approved.

Four Other Relief Plans.

There were four other relief proposals under discussion.

Civil service employés of the school board, some of them in straitened circumstances, decided to petition the board today for permission to borrow their own pension funds.

Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, suggested that tax anticipation warrants be sold to the public, just as Liberty bonds were peddled during world war times.

City Controller Schmidt has still another plan involving a delicate legal question by which the city can obtain a relatively small amount of money now and more later. Mr. Schmidt declined to outline his plan until its legality has been passed on.

President Cermak of the county board is also working on a plan by which he hopes the county can obtain a limited amount of cash, perhaps enough for pay rolls. He desired to think it through before making it public.

Politicians Turn to Governor.

In addition to all of these remedial plans and suggestions, certain politicians would appeal to Gov. Emmerson for a special session of the legislature. But there seems to be little hope of more cash in that direction at present. Mr. Strawn asserted that "it is useless to go to Springfield until a definite and agreed plan of relief has been obtained."

It is regarded as improbable that any local government—except possibly the city and school board, and they only with difficulty—can make a showing that they need added taxes above what might be supplied by the local assessors and board of review. None of them can now show that they have exhausted local facilities to gain added income.

The board of assessors and the board of review are in session daily. They have the power to decrease or

MERCURY RISES AS COLD WAVE RELAXES GRIP

The cold snap which has clutched the northern states for the last 72 hours, was relaxing its grip last night. Unsettled and moderately cold weather was predicted for today in the central region.

Following a third morning of sub-zero weather in Illinois, lower Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin, the thermometer rose sluggishly yesterday under pressure of a bright sun and a southwest breeze. With evening it began to fall, however.

In Chicago, a minimum of 4 below zero prevailed from 8 to 9 a. m., with the mercury spurting 4 degrees upwards before 10 o'clock. A maximum of 9 degrees was maintained from 2 to 5 p. m., then the mercury declined slowly. Early this morning it had turned upward again and at 3 a. m. an unofficial reading was 10 above.

The mercury fell to an official 6 below zero at dawn yesterday in Quincy and Carbondale, Ill., while marks of to 15 below were unofficially reported elsewhere in central and southern Illinois. Harrisburg reported an official reading of 10 below, and at Mount Carmel, Ill., the mercury slid to 7 below at 7 a. m.

TWO HANDBILL OFFICES BOMBED IN RACKET WAR

Within a ten minute interval last night labor racketeers touched off bombs at the plants of two handbill distributing agencies a mile apart in the Des Plaines street police district.

At 9:35 p. m. a black powder missile burst in the front doorway of the Chicago Circular Advertising Service company, 417 South Green street, shattering windows in it and neighboring places and wrecking some of the office furniture. Anthony Clark, an employé, who heard the blast in his hotel room at 428 South Halsted street, told police the company maintained an open shop.

At 9:43 p. m. another black powder bomb blew away the front door of Stone's Guarantee District service, circular distributors at 1249 West Van Buren street. The bomb squad began a search for Burton Stone, owner of the place, and for officers of the Circular Distributors' union, whose headquarters at 1010 West Madison street were found closed.

Arrest 40 as South Bend Opens Drive Against Vice

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Launching a campaign against vice, Chief of Police S. J. Lenon sent three police squads through a dozen resorts here late tonight, arresting nearly 40 men and women. The raid is the largest of this character here in years.

Flood Victims' Only Hope Is Help by Air

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Relief from the air is the only succor possible for marooned families, many ill, and more entirely or virtually out of food and fuel in the ice-locked flood-lands of southwestern Indiana.

This became certain tonight with the continuance of below zero temperatures in the areas where flood refugees, cooped up in the second stories of buildings on comparatively high ground, are waging a desperate battle for existence.

Further surveys by airplane today increased fears that a number of flood victims are dead beneath the ice in Decker township, Knox county. At least eighty-five rural inhabitants of that neighborhood have not been heard from.

No Signs of Life Seen.

An Indiana National Guard airplane this afternoon surveyed the Wabash valley below here as far as the junction of the Wabash and White rivers at Griffin. No signs of life were observed at any farmhouse.

Two army planes and a squadron of Illinois National Guard aircraft tonight prepared to drop food and medicine at high ground depots, with volunteers then to attempt distribution from them by small boats. Yesterday an army plane made a forced landing after dropping supplies in the Claypool hills district but succeeded in taking off again.

Because of the controversy between Palestine, Ill., unprotected by a levee, and Riverton, Ind., on the opposite side of the Wabash above here, about what should be done regarding a great ice gorge there, President Hoover tonight ordered a special and immediate investigation by United States army engineers already on the scene. The investigation was requested by Gov. Emmerson and Senator Glenn of Illinois.

Ice Gorge Is Menace.

The Wabash now is six feet higher above the main gorge than below, pushing the river above Riverton to the highest stage ever known there. If the gorge does not break soon Palestine and surrounding country, even though on relatively high ground, will be threatened further.

Griffin, completely destroyed by the 1925 tornado, may be the worst hit of any Indiana flood area, the National Guard flyers warned tonight, as the town, which has 800 inhabitants, appears to be out of food and fuel.

It is feared here the family of H. J. Hall of Gordon Hills, downstream from Mount Carmel, Ill., has perished. The Halls' houseboat was swept from its moorings and no trace of it has been found since.

Doctor Reaches Sick Folk.

Two motor boats left Vincennes today carrying supplies to Decker chapel. Dr. E. F. Small accompanied one boat to treat sick persons and to take measures to prevent further spread of pneumonia, now prevalent among flood refugees.

Rescue crews managed to remove fifteen families from their floodbound homes near Palestine and doctors waded through two feet of water to treat patients in the tuberculosis sanitarium on the outskirts of the town.

Physicians, however, have not been able to reach the home of the Conklin family near Princeton, where seven persons are reported ill of smallpox.

2 Franklin Men Drowned.

Franklin, Ind., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Two of a party of five prominent business men here were drowned early today when the swift current of flooded Sugar creek carried their rowboat 500 yards downstream and over a dam at Furnas Mill. The dead are Clark Prather, 42, and Amador Wyrick, 48.

Relief Funds Asked.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Distress of one thousand families driven from their homes by the flooding of the Wabash and Little Wabash rivers today impelled Gov. Louis L. Emmerson to appeal to the public of Illinois to respond to the Red Cross relief program by immediate contributions.

Dr. Schireson Guilty; Act to Cancel License

Dr. Henry Junius Schireson, self-styled dealer in beauty to fading womankind, was found guilty yesterday by the state medical committee on charges of fraud, character unbecoming a physician, and gross malpractice.

The committee unanimously recommended the revocation of Schireson's license to practice medicine in the state of Illinois.

Every Charge Sustained.

Every charge made against the physician by Harry A. Ash, first assistant attorney general, was sustained by the committee. Mr. Ash undertook the revocation proceedings against Schireson at the direction of Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, who acted on complaints that repeated charges of misconduct against Schireson had always been hushed up and finally quashed. Stating that his office always stood ready to protect the public against medical quackery, Mr. Carlstrom authorized Mr. Ash to proceed with the inquiry.

The verdict of the medical committee, which has yet to be affirmed by Michael F. Walsh, director of the department of registration and education under Gov. Emmerson, is the first direct action against quackery in Chicago, in the opinion of Attorney General Carlstrom, who said last night that he hoped this case would pave the way to a campaign to rid Chicago and the state of medical charlatans who prey upon the gullible.

Five Doctors Sign Verdict.

The five members of the medical committee, all of whom signed the finding against Schireson, are Dr. M. L. Harris, chairman, who is president of the American Medical association; Dr. John R. Neal, Dr. Arthur H. Geiger, Dr. W. H. Gilmore, and Dr. Gilbert Fitz Patrick.

The verdict follows a trial which extended over several weeks, during which many witnesses were called. Dr. Schireson has become known the country over from his escapades in other states, and through his operations on theatrical people, including Fannie Brice, Truly Shattuck, Sophie Tucker, and Peaches Browning.

In a fifteen page report the committee found Dr. Schireson wholly responsible for the case of Miss Sadye Holland, both of whose legs were amputated following an operation for bow legs. Schireson displayed "a woeful lack of ordinary medical knowledge," the committee stated. The committee also found that the physician had obtained his license through fraud and misrepresentation in the first instance.

His Character Under Fire.

In sustaining the first charge brought by Attorney Ash, which was that Schireson, at the time of obtaining his license, was not of good moral character, the committee reported as follows:

"The defendant [Schireson], subsequently to his alleged graduation in 1906, succeeded in obtaining, by one means or another, licenses to practice medicine in several states—some nine or ten. His licenses were revoked by several of the states on the grounds of false representations, fraud, and deceit.

"It may be reasonably inferred that his purpose in obtaining licenses to practice in so many neighboring states was to enable him to practice in the several states by means of the unethical, advertising, quack institute which he organized, with headquarters in New Jersey.

"He admitted that he was the practical owner and manager of the said quack institute and that he had some 200 employés engaged in the work in

COURT CROWDS JOYOUS AS JURY ACQUITS WIDOW

Tells Her Story of Husband's Killing.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mrs. Genevieve O'Brien was acquitted of the murder of her husband last night. It took a jury 3 hours and 25 minutes to find her not guilty of the murder of William J. O'Brien on Nov. 20.

The case went to the jury at 7:15 o'clock and the verdict was brought in at 10:40 o'clock in the court of Judge Harry B. Miller and read before a crowd which had filled all available standing space in the courtroom since afternoon. Additional crowds stood in corridors throughout the jury's deliberation.

Howard Dorr, Mrs. O'Brien's reputed paramour, was convicted of the murder of O'Brien by a jury in the same courtroom last Saturday night. The jury recommended life imprisonment. It was largely as a result of Mrs. O'Brien's statement to the police naming Dorr as the killer, that he was convicted.

Judge Warns Spectators.

Hoping to avoid the tears and fainting and hysteria demonstrated in the courtroom at the time Dorr was found guilty, Judge Miller warned spectators against any demonstration before the verdict was returned last night. Mrs. O'Brien, her face pale, her blue eyes round, faced the judge, awaiting the verdict. She stood between two bailiffs.

With the reading of the verdict, however, she gave a cry of joy, and immediately similar outbursts seemed to come from every feminine throat in the courtroom.

Mrs. O'Brien then was led back to a cell, but not before she was thoroughly congratulated by scores of women. She posed for photographers with various expressions of joy and relief on her face.

She murmured she was glad it was all over, and said that her two best friends were her attorneys, Charles Dougherty and Sam A. Hoffman. She said she would go away for a long rest. At that juncture one fashionably dressed woman rushed up and urged the acquitted woman to let her take her to Florida in her private car.

Pays Last Visit to Jail.

Mrs. O'Brien then paid a farewell visit to the county jail, where Dorr is held, and she was formally released. Her younger brothers, Ray and Eugene Keegan, waited for her with Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman.

Five ballots were taken before the verdict was returned, it was reported, the first three showing an eight to four vote in favor of acquittal. The fourth ballot was eleven to one. The dissenting juror declared he would stay there all night if necessary, but he was won over to the majority.

The prevailing argument used by the acquittal advocates, it was reported, was to the effect that O'Brien, who worked days in the county recorder's office and nights as a street car conductor, getting four hours' sleep in 24, was to blame for the whole thing. The reasoning was that he should have been at home rather than holding two jobs, it was reported.

While the jury was deliberating Mrs. O'Brien was surrounded in her cell by several women, including a police matron, who told the latest jokes they'd heard in an effort to keep up her spirits. She smiled wanly, but did not appear so shaken as she did after the verdict.

O'Brien's Father Satisfied.

Don O'Brien, father of William J. O'Brien, who attended all of her brief trial, as well as Dorr's 17 day trial, approached the prosecutors, Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Walker Butler, after the reading of the verdict and said:

"Well, I am satisfied. She's had punishment enough and she has a lot more to come."

Mrs. O'Brien expects to become a mother soon.

Mrs. Don O'Brien, clad in deep mourning, was with her husband. She thanked the state's attorneys for their labors and said they "did the best they could."

The prosecutors declined to comment on the verdict other than to say that if that was the jury's choice they could not object. Joseph C. Fanta, 5942 Fillmore street, jury foreman, as well as other jurors, said merely, "The verdict speaks for us."

The court throng seemed exultant. Many women while the jury was deliberating were heard to say militantly: "Well, I wonder how those prosecutors would feel if that was their sister they were prosecuting."

Demands Guilty Verdict.

Four pleas by lawyers—two prosecutors and two defense attorneys—preceded the submission of the case to the jurors.

"Genevieve O'Brien can't get away from it—her husband was killed in his own home by her paramour, whom she was shielding," Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne said in the state's closing argument, which was completed at 6:45 o'clock. "The law demands a conviction where evidence proves beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty. The fact that she is a pregnant woman has no bearing on her guilt.

"Don't let sympathy, the only way the defendant can walk out a free woman, creep into your deliberations. Gentlemen, the state trusts in you."

Charges She Aided.

Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler in the state's opening argument alluded to Mrs. O'Brien's "perfect coöperation" with Howard Dorr when she told her husband that the first shot fired was "only an electric light bulb bursting."

"Those words signed the death warrant for Bill O'Brien," Walker said. "If Genevieve O'Brien had had only the slightest feeling that any one would have for a fellow being, if she had shown any sympathy whatsoever for that husband who worked day and night, she would have cried to him to run from the apartment. Or she would have told him to come in her bedroom and would have locked him in.

"But no, she didn't give him the break that she gave Dorr. On that morning Genevieve O'Brien was not an object to provoke pity or sympathy. On that morning she was cold, utterly cold and pitiless. She closed the door on her husband's one chance of escape, his one chance to live."

Defense Plea to Jury.

Attorney Sam A. Hoffman, defense counsel, followed Prosecutor Butler's 45 minute argument with a longer one in which he alluded to Mrs. O'Brien as "this little woman" and "this little girl," and addressed the jury as "gentlemen of this American jury."

Although Mrs. O'Brien had appeared upset and weeping during the state's opening argument by Prosecutor Butler, the softer words of Attorney Hoffman apparently stirred her less, although many women in the room wiped their eyes.

"It was an unfortunate occurrence there at 7328 Maplewood avenue," said Mr. Hoffman, "but to say the evidence proves Genevieve O'Brien guilty beyond a reasonable doubt is ridiculous. I doubt the state's attorney's sincerity when he says that. It is ridiculous to assume that opening a door to an adulterer is an affirmative act of an accessory before the fact."

Has Faith in Jurors.

His voice rising to a dramatic pitch, then, a smile on his face, and his hands outstretched, Mr. Hoffman cried:

"Genevieve has faith in these twelve American jurors!"

A remark that sending her to the penitentiary for three months would be equivalent to sending her to the electric chair was objected to by the state and was stricken from the records. Then Hoffman said:

"Genevieve O'Brien is going to bring a fatherless child into the world. If you men send her to prison that child will have an added disability," he said. "You are now participating in a human drama. You hold the scales of justice in your hands. It will be up to you to decide the fate of the prisoner."

Attorney Charles S. Dougherty for the defense followed Attorney Hoffman.

"The ancient law of Moses of an eye for an eye is not the law today. The essence of the law today is not vengeance. Only when reasonable evidence convinces a jury beyond a reasonable doubt of the guilt of a defendant is conviction proper," he said.

Genevieve O'Brien, he said, was "the victim of a man's lust," and was "in no way responsible for Dorr's actions."

Attorney Dougherty closed with a poem entitled "The Land of Beginning Again." Genevieve, he said, with the aid of the jury, was "about to enter a new world—that of motherhood."

MRS. O'BRIEN'S STORY

Earlier in the day interest was centered in the appearance of Mrs. O'Brien on the witness stand. The state rested its case as soon as court convened in the morning, and Mrs. O'Brien was sworn in and questioned by Attorney Hoffman, defense counsel. She answered in almost inaudible tones. She was the only defense witness.

Q.—Please state your name. A.—Genevieve O'Brien.

Q.—You are now incarcerated in the county jail? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Where did you live before taken to the jail? A.—At 7328 Maplewood avenue.

Q.—And were you ever alone with Mr. Dorr on those trips? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—When did you first go with him alone? A.—In August or September.

Q.—Did Mr. Dorr ever tell you he loved you on those trips? [Objection overruled]. A.—He did at times, yes.

Q.—Did you ever have intimate relations with Mr. Dorr?

An objection from Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne was overruled.

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—When was the first time? A.—The first part of September or latter part of August.

Q.—Did you have any relationships with him at any other time? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—When?

At that point Mrs. O'Brien's face twisted and she whispered, "The night of the shooting," and began to cry.

Q.—Do you want to take a rest? A.—Please.

JUDGE MILLER—All right.

She was led from the stand by Police Matron Mary Boyd and her cries could be heard from the anteroom.

The jury was then ordered from the court. After ten or fifteen minutes Mrs. O'Brien was returned to the stand and direct examination by Attorney Hoffman continued.

Q.—Mrs. O'Brien, what is your condition now; are you pregnant? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—When did you become pregnant? A.—In July.

Q.—Prior to that time did you ever have intimate relations with Mr. Dorr? [Objection overruled.] A.—No, sir.

Q.—Where were you on the evening of Nov. 19? A.—At my father's.

Tells of Meeting Dorr.

Mrs. O'Brien then told the story she had related in her statement to police concerning her meeting with Dorr after she left her father's house. He went with her to buy groceries at a delicatessen and then a short distance from her home she left him and returned to her home by the rear entrance.

Q.—What did you do then? A.—I put the groceries on the kitchen table and Mr. Dorr came up.

Q.—Then what occurred? A.—We played the radio and talked in the living room.

Q.—Then what did you do? A.—I went to bed around 12 or 1 o'clock.

Q.—In what room? A.—In my bedroom.

Q.—Did you and Mr. O'Brien occupy the same room? A.—No, sir; he slept in the back bedroom.

Q.—How long had you had that arrangement? A.—About a year.

Q.—And who came in your bedroom that night, if any one? A.—Mr. Dorr.

Q.—And then he went to bed with you? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—How long was that after you went to bed? A.—Not very long; 10 or 15 minutes.

Questioned About Dorr.

Q.—Had Mr. Dorr slept in that room before? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Was Mr. O'Brien home at that time? A.—No, sir; he was at work.

Q.—Did you hear him when he came home? A.—I didn't hear Mr. O'Brien come in, but I heard him get up.

Q.—What time was that? A.—Between 7 and 7:30.

Q.—What did you do at that time? A.—I heard him go into the bathroom and I got up and talked to him. I was going away when he opened the door and told me he would give me a dollar if I would leave 50 cents on the dining room table. He gave me money every morning. Then I went into my bedroom and got the money and Mr. Dorr got up. I went into the dining room and put the money on the table and when I went back in the bedroom Mr. Dorr was not there. I thought he had gone downstairs.

Story of Shooting.

Q.—And what occurred then? A.—I got back into bed. I was there just a few minutes, and then I heard that awful noise. Bill came running out of his room. I asked him what was the trouble and he said, "I don't know—something almost blinded me." I told him it must have been an electric light bulb bursting, never thinking he would go back into the bedroom; but he did, and the second shot was fired, and he came running out holding his face.

I went back into my bedroom and shut the door [Mrs. O'Brien went on]. There were more shots, two or three—I don't know how many. When I came out Mrs. Dorr was there and Bill was down on the landing. I went to the phone and called the police—just yelled "Police!"

I went back and Mr. Dorr had the gun and was trying to use it. He wanted it for himself, but there weren't any more bullets. And Mrs. Dorr was saying, "Daddy, the babies! The babies, daddy!" And I said, "Give me the gun," and Mrs. Dorr said, "Yes, give her the gun." I grabbed it and rubbed my hands all over it, so only my finger prints would show. Then I went in to Bill. He was up from the—the landing. I said, "I'm sorry I did it." He said, "You didn't do it," and he took the gun away from me. And then the police came.

Denies Murder Conspiracy.

Q.—Mrs. O'Brien, did you ever conspire with Howard Dorr to kill your husband? A. [more loudly than she had spoken so far, and pleadingly]—No, sir.

Q.—Did you ever aid him in killing your husband? A.—No, sir!

Q.—Did you ever encourage him to kill your husband? A. (with rising crescendo)—No, sir.

Q.—Did you ever advise him in killing your husband? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you ever have any knowledge he was going to kill your husband? A.—No, sir!

Q.—Did you ever discuss with Mr. Dorr the matter of killing your husband? A.—No, sir!

Q.—Directing your attention to the week before, when you took poison, what did Mr. Dorr say to you? A.—He told me he wasn't going to have me acting this way, something would have to be done about it—(long pause) —if he had to get rid of both of them.

Q.—And what did you say? A.—I didn't believe him. I didn't want to believe him. I said he must be crazy or something, that he was talking radical.

"That's all," Mr. Hoffman closed.

SHE IS CROSS-EXAMINED

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne in cross-examining the defendant addressed her as "Genevieve" throughout.

Q.—Genevieve, did you have a talk with Mr. Dorr in the living room the night before the shooting about your husband?

[Mr. Ditchburne referred to a part of her statement to the police, which she omitted in her story, in which she said he spoke of having to do away with O'Brien as they talked that night.]

"I don't remember any particular conversation," Mrs. O'Brien replied.

Q.—Well, now your story is pretty much what you said in your statement except for that. Didn't you tell the truth in the statement? A.—I tried to tell the truth.

Q.—Well, so far as you know now did you tell it? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—All right. Now, just what conversation did you have the night of the 19th? A.—We played the radio and——

Q.—Well, when you let him in that night did you talk about the radio? A.—No, sir.

Admits Dorr to Home.

Q.—He knocked at your door and you let him in? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you say good-night when you got out of his car? A.—No, sir.

Q.—And you didn't know he was coming to your apartment that night? A.—No, sir. But I wasn't surprised, because he came that way once before.

Q.—Then you knew he was coming to bed with you? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—When was the other occasion when he came in your bedroom? A.—In August or September.

Q.—And did your husband come home in the middle of the night then? A.—Yes, sir.

A recess was taken, then cross-examination was resumed. Mrs. O'Brien said that she first had seen the gun with which O'Brien was killed a year previous, in the Dorr flat.

Q.—The last time Dorr was in bed with you was some time last September? A.—That was the first time.

Q.—And on that occasion was he fully clothed when he left your room? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—So that there was that much difference between that time and this morning of the shooting, when he left his clothes hanging in your closet? A.—I didn't know that until after it was all over and he went to get them when Mrs. Dorr was there.

Reads from Statement.

Prosecutor Ditchburne then, in an attempt to show that the defendant knew Dorr was in the flat when she went back to her bedroom after talking to her husband, read from her statement a passage stating that when she returned to her bedroom his hat and coat were in her closet so that she didn't know whether he had gone down the front way or where he had gone.

Q.—So you didn't know when Bill was in the bathroom that Dorr's hat and coat were in your closet? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—When you heard that noise, Genevieve, didn't you know that Dorr was back there shooting? A.—No, sir, I didn't.

Prosecutor Ditchburne then read from Mrs. O'Brien's statement to the police, in which she said Dorr had said he "would have to get rid of them both," meaning O'Brien and Rose Dorr, his wife.

But Mrs. O'Brien didn't remember making that remark.

Q.—What did you think he meant, then, when he said he would have to "do something about it"? A.—Divorce.

Q.—You didn't love Howard Dorr, did you? A.—I did then, yes.

ASK BRITAIN AND NORWAY TO HELP BYRD OUT OF ICE

Food Short, U. S. Appeals for Whalers' Aid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.] — Acting Secretary of State Joseph P. Cotton today called upon the governments of Great Britain and Norway to aid the United States in rescuing members of the Byrd south pole expedition, now marooned on the Great Ross ice barrier without means of returning prior to the opening of the winter season.

Unless relief measures are expedited, Mr. Cotton advised the two governments, the Byrd party may be forced to spend the winter in the antarctic without a sufficient food supply. In asking the help of the state department, Admiral Richard Byrd reported that several of his men would not be able to survive another winter on the barrier as the food supply already is virtually exhausted.

Should Hasten Relief.

In notes addressed to the two government, Acting Secretary Cotton asked them to use their good offices in inducing Norwegian and British whaling vessels, now in the antarctic, to push immediately to the Byrd base at Little America and bring off the members of the expedition. He advised that to assure success a relief party should be on the way by Feb. 5 and safely out of the danger zone by Feb. 15.

Four Norwegian ships and one British vessel are in the neighborhood of the Byrd expedition. All are believed capable of breaking through the ice pack which thus far has frustrated the efforts of the vessels of the Byrd expedition struggling to get through the ice pack in order to bring out the exploring party.

Acting Secretary Cotton said today that the department itself was doing everything in its power to expedite action. The time when rescue work can be successfully prosecuted is so short, state department officials said, that it is impracticable to send American vessels to the danger zone.

Byrd Aid Discredits Peril.

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The New York Times tomorrow will quote Capt. H. H. Railey, personal representative of Rear Admiral Byrd, as saying there is no immediate prospect of a food shortage in the Byrd expedition in Antarctica.

"While it is true that the expedition is not fully equipped to spend another winter in the antartic," Capt. Railey's statement says, "there is no immediate shortage of the food supply. There is ample fuel for heat and for the operation of the radio. The men are not on reduced rations. There is no immediate prospect that they will be. They are well clothed, comfortably housed.

"Admiral Bryd's present position is exactly that of a cool, wise commander taking preliminary precautions for the safety of a numerous and important expedition."

LEAGUE WARNS PARAGUAY AND BOLIVIA END WAR

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Jan. 22.—The league of nations took direct action tonight following news of serious clashes on the Bolivian-Paraguayan frontier. Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general, telephoned the council's acting president, August Zaleski. As a result of their conversation, it is understood that messages were sent to both the Bolivian and Paraguay governments, reminding them of their obligations under the league covenant.

Captive Is Identified as Leader of Bandit Gang

George F. Brennan, 30 years old, arrested yesterday in a north side apartment by Lieut. William Cusack, was identified last evening at the detective bureau by Harry H. Cherry, manager of the Northwest Jewelry company, 1286 Milwaukee avenue, and by two clerks, as the leader of three bandits who robbed the store of $7,000 in gems last Nov. 7. Harry Weed, who was seized with Brennan, was not identified in the robbery.

Woman Asks $700,000 of Durant and Ungerleider

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A suit has been filed in the Supreme court against W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer, and Samuel Ungerleider, co-directors of the Ungerleider corporation, by Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson, former wife of Percy K. Hudson, wealthy broker. Mrs. Hudson, it was learned today, charges that last October she lost $700,000 through her holdings in the corporation.

SEEK TO LEASE LOOP TUNNELS AS DICKERING FAILS

City Controller Schmidt was directed yesterday to advertise for lease the tunnels under the loop streets operated by the Chicago Tunnel company, but now the property of the city. The action was taken at a joint session of the council committees on finance, local transportation, and gas, oil, and electric light following the failure to reach an agreement with the tunnel company on a settlement of its debts to the city.

The city claims that $674,000 is due from the tunnel company under its franchise, which expired last year, and approximately $600,000 from the Chicago Terminal and Warehouse company, which operates the tunnel terminals. The latter company denies the city's claim on the ground that the city does not own the terminals, which are on private property.

The aldermen tentatively have turned down an offer to settle both claims for $700,000, with the condition that the city give the tunnel company a new franchise. In the new franchise the company wants a lower rate than 12 per cent on the gross receipts now charged by the city. The aldermen have promised that money paid by the tunnel company on the city's claim will be applied to the police and fire departments.

Book in Pocket Saves Life of Bandit's Target

A metal-covered order book in the coat pocket of Philip Mrzruchy, 26 years old, 855 North Sacramento avenue, a truck driver, saved his life last night when a bandit who robbed him of $200 and $100 in checks fired one shot at him. The bandit had forced Mrzruchy to drive him in Mrzruchy's truck from 2020 Webster avenue to 2124 Lyndale avenue, where an accomplice was waiting. After robbing Mrzruchy, the robber drove away with his companion, taking a parting shot at the truck driver. The bullet glanced off the cover of Mrzruchy's order book.

MEXICO BREAKS WITH RUSSIA ON 'INSULTS' BY REDS

Orders Envoys in Moscow to Return Home.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 23.—The Mexican legation to Russia has been ordered withdrawn from Moscow, it was announced tonight by Genaro Estrada, acting minister of foreign affairs, as a protest against recent communist demonstrations before Mexican embassies in Washington, Buenos Aires, and Rio de Janiero.

Reciting efforts of the Mexican government to work with the Russian representatives and the alleged violation of rules in international relations and diplomacy, Senor Estrada said the government was compelled to break with Russia, adding that the Mexican minister had been ordered to leave Moscow several days ago.

Not even a chargé d'affaires was left in Russia, and only a minor official in charge of records of the Mexican office remains, the Mexican administration announced.

The acting foreign chief stated that Mexico was determined to prevent Russian consular agents and other officers from spreading further anti-Mexican propaganda in Mexico and other nations, "as the soviet representatives have been doing systematically for years." He characterized the attitude of soviet representatives in Mexico as insolent, discourteous, and contemptuous of Mexico's sovereignty, nationality, ideas, and institutions.

Objects to Alien Intrigues.

"The Mexican government has the full right to refuse to allow foreign elements to mix in its politics and to object to these foreigners making Mexico the theater of their machinations and intrigues against Mexicans, and we are determined to protect ourselves against them," said Senor Estrada. "We have tried to maintain friendly relations, but Russia has not appreciated the effort. It has produced a situation which is neither possible nor decorous to continue tolerating."

In his statement the foreign chief made no comment on the status of the Russian minister to Mexico. Alexander Makar, Russian minister, refused to be interviewed. Official circles said he would undoubtedly withdraw.

FILIPINO SLAIN; 7 CALIFORNIANS HELD AS RIOTERS

Watsonville, Cal., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Seven white men were arrested late today as business men of the Watsonville district joined with officials to put down the race difficulties which reached a climax late last night with the killing of a Filipino. The mob also wrecked the interior of a number of Filipino homes.

The seven were charged with rioting. Fred Majors was released under a $2,000 bond, and the others, R. Smith, George Barnes, Ramon Davis, George Sias, Charles Morrison, and Ted Spanger, lodged in jail at Salinas.

Fermin, Tehera, 22, a Filipino, today was found shot to death in a bunk house on the Murphy ranch near here.

Fill Jury to Try Woman Who Fired at Judge Haas

A jury was selected yesterday in Judge Jacob Hopkins' court to try Mrs. Ida Dembo Burt who fired three times at her attorneys and at Municipal Judge John F. Haas last summer when a decision in a garnishment case was rendered against her. Judge Haas escaped being killed only through the action of his bailiff in disarming the woman.

COAL MERCHANTS RATIFY CONTRACT WITH TEAMSTERS

Chicago retail coal merchants last night ratified a two year wage agreement which their labor committee negotiated with officials of the Chicago Coal Teamsters and Chauffeurs' union.

Terms of the contract, which is retroactive to Jan. 2, give the chauffeurs and their helpers a 40 cents a day wage boost. Based on a 10 hour day, the chauffeurs will now receive $8.50 and their helpers $6.50 per day. Hikers' pay for shoveling is increased from 10 to 15 cents per ton. A number of minor technical changes were made.

Edward Foley was chairman of the merchants' labor committee and Milton Booth, union president, represented the 9,000 chauffeurs and helpers and coal hikers. A banquet at the Hotel La Salle preceded the meeting. History of the agreement dates back to the first of this year when the merchants refused to deal with the union unless the labor organization ousted George Barker, ex-convict and gunman and labor racketeer, as business agent.

Action of the merchants, they stated, was prompted by State's Attorney John A. Swanson's pronouncement against racketeers who had resorted to gun play to "muscle" into labor unions. The union replied that it would choose leadership without dictation from the coal merchants, and Chicago faced a coal strike. Then the state's attorney announced he had been misunderstood and that he did not know about Barker. The merchants, who said their objections to Barker had come from the prosecutor's office, reopened negotiations for a new wage contract, a two year one, the first ever consummated for that period.

START 6 PLANS TO RESCUE CITY IN CASH CRISIS

Hope to Sell Tax Loans to Utilities Today.

increase the tax valuations. They apparently can expedite the reassessment or string along the job for an indefinite period.

Igoe Doubts Assembly O. K.

Still another deterrent to a special session of the legislature at present was a comment from Michael L. Igoe, minority leader of the house. He said:

"It is gossiped around that the desired plan is to get authorization from the legislature to issue bonds without a referendum, then to substitute these bonds for tax anticipation warrants outstanding. It is doubtful that the legislature will approve of such a plan, unless public sentiment and all the newspapers supported it. That support would have to be exhibited before favorable action could be predicted."

The Chicago Seminar, composed of public school district superintendents, principals, and other educators, last night sent a telegram to Gov. Emmerson urging him to call a special session of the legislature to "work out an immediate and permanent solution of public school financing." The message was signed by Aaron Kline, president, and Edward H. Stullhen, secretary of the Seminar.

Banks Refuse Further Loans.

The discussion of legislative relief has been given impetus by the refusal of the banks to purchase any more tax warrants. The county already has failed twice in efforts to sell $7,000,000 in tax anticipation warrants, and has also been unable to dispose of $500,000 worth of forest preserve bonds. The city has found no bidders for $625,000 in tax warrants of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium.

On top of that are the $185,000,000 floating debts of the city, county, school board, and other government al agencies. Also in the last six weeks the city, county, and school board have failed to pay salaries to 40,182 public employés. The total salary debt is estimated at $11,276,157.

County Employés Unpaid.

Yesterday was pay day for the 3,862 county employés. There was due them $377,833, but the treasury was empty. These employés have received no compensation since they were paid for the first half of December.

Today is pay day for 13,220 school teachers, but they will not get a dollar. The number involved and the compensation due them are shown in the following tabulation:

Superintendents	75	$ 16,733
Principals	400	80,000
Teachers	12,045	1,615,972
Substitute teachers	700	80,000
Totals	13,220	$1,792,705

The school teachers, according to the sentiment at the board rooms, will "stick to the job, pay or no pay, as long as requested." But some fear was expressed regarding the constancy of the coal dealers. They have been delivering coal daily to the schools but have received no pay since last October, when there was a threat to close down on coal unless some money was forthcoming.

School Coal Bills Pile Up.

The school board owes about $80,000 in coal bills for November, approximately $200,000 for December and about the same amount for January. Three contractors make the deliveries. The Consumers Coal company has the contract in five districts, the Reiner Coal company in one district and the Farr Brothers Coal company in the final district.

The Reiner company phoned to the board rooms yesterday to say that it could not continue to deliver much longer without part of the money due it. This company has district No. 5, which includes all the schools between 35th and 69th streets, the river and the lake.

The Consumers company also phoned John Howatt, chief engineer of the schools. The company said its bill is getting alarmingly large and inquired when payment will be made. It was reported that the board owes this concern $339,000.

The big shock of the day, however, was the failure of the south park board to get a bid on its $1,500,000 bond issue. This park board has enjoyed an excellent reputation for paying its debts promptly since it was organized in 1869. Never has it defaulted on bond payments or interest.

Only President Kelly and Commissioners Michael L. Igoe and John Bain were present at the meeting. They called in the secretary and asked the financial status of the board. The secretary said the board now has $1,110,000 on hand, but will require $225,000 for its pay roll on Feb. 1 and about $5,000 for other operating expenses; and in addition the board will then owe $625,000 in bond redemption and interest.

The secretary indicated that on Feb. 28 the board will be about $500,000 in the red. Accordingly, the commissioners ordered cash conserved for pay rolls and the discontinuance of payment of bills.

"This failure to get a bid," said Commissioner Igoe, "stops the work preparatory to the World's Fair. If money is not obtained about $6,000,000 worth of permanent improvements must be temporarily placed on the shelf."

Sees Park Service Curtailed.

President Kelly said that the board will attempt to get contractors to accept bonds in payment for work already done or in the process of completion. He said that the lack of funds will curtail the park services next summer unless relief comes. He explained that 52 per cent of the tax revenue of the board is obtained from property north of 39th street, the taxable value of which has been reduced $238,000,000 by the reassessment.

Mr. Bain, who controls fourteen banks, gave it as his opinion that "the assessors and reviewers are purposely delaying the reassessment."

Mr. Strawn spent two hours yesterday with the board of assessors and board of review in an effort to get them to speed up the reassessment.

Cutmore Assails His Critics.

Later Harry S. Cutmore, director of appraisals in the reassessment, let loose a blast against his critics. He asked that the state's attorney, the Association of Commerce, and impartial civic leaders make an investigation of the loop assessment.

"Let's have some results, not all rhetoric," Cutmore said. "Let us have the facts instead of vituperation. Let's subpoena the gentlemen who make one appraisal for taxes and another for real estate bond issues. Let's find out how Chris Paschen [city building commissioner] can talk one way when he is appraising property for financing and another way when he is talking for the mayor.

"I hold no brief for the loop property owners. It is up to them to fight their own battles, and they are well equipped to do it. Let some of the gentlemen come in who are evincing great interest in the progress of the community. Let us hear them talk on the reassessment.

"I'll stand up, but why should all the politicians in the county building and city hall be jumping on one poor engineer?"

Country towns were protesting against tax valuations before the board of assessors. In the rooms of the board of review the objectors of Hyde Park were holding forth. They were headed by John A. Carroll, Louis P. Orr, and Charles E. Fox. They suggested that $47,598,329 be cut from the $190,393,315 land valuation of Hyde Park.

"The man who placed a value of $140,000 on the northeast corner of 79th street and East End avenue is a jackass," said Mr. Carroll, the banker.

"In 1928 I paid $70,000 for the northeast corner of 50th street and Ellis avenue," said Newton B. Lauren, a real estate dealer. "The board of assessors has assessed me on the basis of $110,000. I'll give 5 per cent commission to any one who will sell the property for $70,000 or even $65,000."

Litsinger Makes Reply.

"This is a frightful situation," commented Edward R. Litsinger, member of the board of review. "We do not propose to stand the abuse and odium that is heaped upon our heads. Those responsible are trying to shift the responsibility. The board has never uttered a word in opposition to this reassessment."

CITY CLERKS' UNION WOOS COUNTY AND SANITARY EMPLOYES

An effort to enlist the clerks of the county and the sanitary district in the Office Employés' association, a union of city hall clerks, was made last night at a meeting in the Capitol building. Union organization was presented to the audience of 150 as a protection against the elimination of their jobs from the governmental budgets.

"The clerks have always been the goats when a retrenchment program is in force," said James Flynn, president of the city hall clerks' union. "Due to organization, however, all the clerks in the city hall who are members of the association were provided for in the budget. In the county building a number of clerkships have been eliminated by J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency engineer. Jacobs now is working in the sanitary district."

The county budget, placed on a ten months' salary basis for 1930, was assailed by John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor. The ten months' idea, he said, was a vicious thought written into the budget despite President Hoover's plea that employment be left undisturbed.

Application slips for membership in the association were distributed to the county and sanitary district workers as they left the meeting.

POLICE WON'T COLLECT LOAN SHARK DEBTS

Deputy Police Commissioner Alcock announced yesterday that the police department will not assist "loan sharks or money lenders" in collecting loans advanced to policemen during the present financial stringency of the police department. The statement was issued with the approval of Commissioner Russell. It said:

"The police department will take no steps to compel members of the department to pay any money they may borrow from loan sharks or money lenders, but if banks or legitimate merchants, such as grocers, butchers, coal dealers, and real estate agents or owners, desire to extend credit, the department will do everything in its power to see that these legitimate bills are paid when the department receives its back pay from the city."

PRESS INQUIRY IN LAKE COUNTY, INDIANA, AFFAIRS

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 23.—(Special.)—Disclosure of more illegal and irregular transactions by Lake county, Indiana, officials, will be made soon, it was declared here tonight by Lawrence F. Orr, chief examiner of the state board of accounts, on his return here tonight from upstate. Four examiners have already discovered alleged over payment of $250,000 by the Lake county commissioners, he said. After his personal investigation, Mr. Orr said the number of examiners will be increased to ten and the investigation will include all governmental units in the county.

The investigation in several governmental units in Lake county will show other startling illegal and irregular transactions hitherto unreported," Mr. Orr declared. "They will be made public in the next month or two. In our work we are having the cooperation of Lake county citizens."

BUSINESS BRISK AGAIN, LEADERS ASSURE HOOVER

Young, Lamont, Pierson Say Outlook Is Bright.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Evidences of growing activity in the general business situation throughout the United States were reported to President Hoover today by the executive committee of the national business survey conference. Owen D. Young, Thomas W. Lamont, and Lewis E. Pierson of Chicago were among the 18 members of the executive committee which called upon the President following a closed meeting today.

"The figures for industry presented at the meeting showing the status of production and consumption up to mid-January were all encouraging," the committee stated in a formal report. "It was the consensus of all the members of the committee that the situation had become so far normal that no unusual methods need be considered for the stimulation of business beyond the policies of progress which ordinarily mark American industry.

Current Situation Encouraging.

"The facts are now available for the last quarter of 1929 and the opening weeks of 1930. A canvass of these facts shows that in the last months of 1929 there was, as is known, a recession of business, more than seasonal, from its previous high level of activity. This recession, due to causes other than those involved in the business structure, has left no major problems to be solved. There are now evidences of growing activity and the current situation is favorable."

The members of the committee, including some of the best known bankers and industrial executives in the country, refrained from discussing the business situation individually, either prior to or following their meeting. Mr. Pierson presided as chairman of the committee in the absence of Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the conference, who was unable to come to Washington due to the death of his mother.

Davis Backs Hoover Up.

As the committee was finishing its deliberations, Secretary of Labor Davis issued a statement supporting with the latest reports available in the labor department, President Hoover's statement two days ago that the employment situation was on the upgrade. The statement apparently was intended as an answer to attacks on the President's appraisal of the employment situation made yesterday in New York by Frances Perkins, New York state industrial commissioner.

Secretary Davis said his figures were based on reports for Jan. 6, on which date, he said, the first tangible evidence of returning employment was shown. He also asserted that a preliminary survey for Jan. 13 showed the automobile industry as gaining 3.5 per cent in employment in the previous week.

Farm Board Issue Studied.

Formulation of a policy on the part of business interests toward the federal farm board was in progress today at a meeting of the agricultural service department committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The question at issue was weather the organization will back up the criticism of farm board politics which was expressed recently by Julius H. Barnes, grain exporter and chairman of the board of the chamber. Grain exchanges have been up in arms over the policy of the farm board with respect to loans on grain and other matters which have been held to be socialistic. Resolutions by the Kansas City board of trade and other grain exchanges denouncing the farm board have been forwarded to the chamber of commerce.

Alexander Legge, chairman of the farm board, and several other members were luncheon guests of the agricultural service department committee today and discussed the entire situation. The conferences will continue for two more days. Walter L. Cherry of Chicago, chairman of the agricultural service department committee, is presiding.

"Kidnaped Co-ed's" Identity Bared

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Miss Susan Albright of Buffalo, N. Y., a junior at Smith college and daughter of J. J. Albright, millionaire power project developer, was the girl who was kidnaped and held prisoner for two hours Tuesday night, a reliable source here revealed tonight. Moreover the girl knew who her captors were.

Miss Albright, whose father gave Buffalo its million dollar Albright art gallery which now holds close to $2,000,000 worth of paintings, was the "victim" of two young men and a girl who turned her refusal to join their party into a joking "abduction" which soon palled, according to a checkup on all angles of the strange case.

President William Allen Neilson of the college declined either to confirm or deny the identification tonight, but said:

"The girl's abductors very apparently meant her no harm. They were very obviously under the influence of liquor and had no definite plan in seizing her. Therefore they soon got cold feet and let her go."

INDIANA WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH AT STEGER

Cook county's 1930 motor toll was increased to 39 last night when Mrs. Charles Kirchoff, 30 years old, wife of a railroad claim adjuster of Crown Point, Ind., was killed, supposedly when the automobile in which she was riding alone collided with a hit and run motorist at 33d and Halsted streets in Steger. A village policeman found her body in the wreckage which lay at the roadside.

Ernest Schroeder, 57 years old, 3942 South Hamilton avenue, a clerk, was probably fatally injured yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Ernest Smiglewski, 8004 Avalon avenue, at 84th street and Cottage Grove avenue. Schroeder was waiting for a street car with his wife, Mrs. Pauline Schroeder, when he was struck. The driver was arrested on a charge of assault with an automobile.

AUBURN

FIRST!

It is perfectly natural when a new kind of automobile is introduced, as radical as the front drive Cord car, that it should serve as a model for imitators. But it should be remembered that behind the Cord car are many factors that contribute to its value; the years of experience on the race-track; unhurried years devoted to research and experimentation; freedom to pick and choose from all previous practice; and first call upon the world's leading front drive engineers. And now, the Cord has the backing of several thousand owners, whose judgment is based upon 10,000 to 30,000 and more miles of driving.

GERMAN TRUST FOUND BACKING SENATOR KING

Campaign Gifts Revealed at Lobby Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(Special.)—A sensation rivaling the exposure which resulted in the censure of Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], occurred before the senate lobby investigating committee today when it was disclosed that an official of the German dye monopoly interested in low tariff duties contributed $2,000 to campaign funds of Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah], a member of the senate finance committee.

Samuel Russell, Salt Lake City attorney and formerly King's secretary, testified that in 1922 Dr. Eugene B. Pickrell, Washington lobbyist for Herman A. Metz, New York dye importer and reputed American agent for the German I. G., or dye cartel, gave him $1,000 in cash. The money was for King's 1922 campaign, Russell said, and was given to Samuel A. King of Salt Lake City, the senator's brother and campaign manager. The senator, Russell added, was told that Metz was contributing to the fund.

Letter Regarding Check Read.

A second contribution by Metz, when King was a candidate in 1928, was disclosed in a letter produced by Russell and written to him by Pickrell on Nov. 22, 1928. It stated:

"Col. Metz sent his personal check to Senator King on Oct. 18 for $1,000 and addressed the letter 'Salt Lake City.' Since he has had no acknowledgment from the senator, he has made inquiry at the bank and has been advised that the check has not been returned."

Senator King, seen directly after the committee meeting, denied having heard of the 1922 contribution, but admitted receipt of the 1928 check, which, he asserted, Metz intended for use in defraying the expenses of the general Democratic campaign in Utah. The senator declared the check was not used and he produced two torn fragments, one of which bore a signature purporting to be that of Metz, as evidence that the check had been destroyed.

First Statement Corrected.

At first King said he notified Metz by letter that the check had been destroyed. A few minutes later he corrected himself and declared he met Metz "in the east" several weeks after the 1928 campaign had closed and told him the check had been torn up. The senator offered no explanation of why he saved only two pieces of the check, neither of which shows its date, nor the amount for which it was drawn.

Investigation of the reports of campaign fund receipts and expenditures for 1922 and 1928 filed by King with the secretary of the senate in accordance with the federal corrupt practices act disclosed no mention of contributions by either Metz or Pickrell. The 1922 report lists a contribution of $1,504, credited to the senator's brother, and in the same report Russell is credited with a $400 contribution.

Robinson Presses Case.

Senator A. R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.], the one regular Republican member of the lobby committee, who insisted upon calling Russell to substantiate charges that Pickrell, well known as a representative of German dye interests and American chemical importers, made King's senate building office his headquarters both during the 1922 and the current tariff revision fight, announced he will demand the appearance of Metz, Samuel A. King, and Pickrell before the committee.

Robinson declared that if their testimony substantiates Russell's story he will not hesitate to report the affair to the senate, following the same procedure adopted by the coalition majority to inspire adoption of a resolution censuring Senator Bingham for employing as a personal tariff adviser a representative of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association, who attended secret sessions of the senate finance committee during tariff deliberations.

Tears Brought by Questions.

The Indiana senator sprang his surprise upon the committee dramatically. He allowed Russell to tell how Pickrell was almost constantly in King's office during the preparation of the 1922 tariff bill; how the dye lobbyist had a key to the senator's office, and how he and Pickrell collaborated in writing speeches for the senator to deliver in the senate and before committees.

Then for more than an hour, while Senators T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], and J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] jabbed away at Russell, thundering at him for answers to trivial questions and ridiculing the answers when obtained, Robinson sat quiet. Once during the ordeal Russell broke down and wept as he told of the disagreement with King which ended finally in his leaving the senator's service in September, 1928, after 25 years of friendship.

Finally, when Caraway, Blaine, and Walsh had wearied of baiting him, Robinson calmly asked Russell to produce whatever papers or memoranda he had brought in response to the committee's subpoena. Taking the first letter in the batch handed him, Robinson began to read Pickrell's letter of Nov. 22, 1928, telling of Metz' $1,000 contribution which King had not then acknowledged.

"There let them laugh that off," said Robinson.

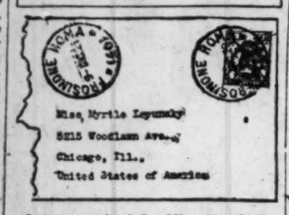
From Frasione, Italy



Letter received by Miss Myrtle Lepunsky, 5215 Woodlawn avenue, Chicago.

Frasione is the survival of the ancient settlement of Frusino, a town of central Italy on the Cosa, an affluent of the Sacco river, 48 miles southeast of Rome. It has a population of about 10,000 and is picturesquely situated on a hill 955 feet above sea level. Little of its ancient splendor remains when it was an important point along the Via Latina. Only a fragment of its old city walls can be traced. Its amphitheater has entirely vanished, though a ticket to this has been found. It was conquered by Rome about 306-303 B. C. and became a prefecture of the expanding empire.

SENATORS SPLIT ON TARIFF DUTY ON HIDES, SHOES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(Special.)—Senatorial groups were badly split today on the question of duties on hides, leather, and shoes following a second day of debate. The senate defeated an amendment by Senator Steck [Dem., Ia.] which provided that duties on leather and shoes should be fixed at the exact figures which might be computed by the tariff commission, as representing compensatory rates for whatever duties are fixed on hides.

Senators favoring protective duties on leather and shoes in addition to compensatory rates protested that the effect would be to prejudge the case of the leather and shoe interests. The amendment was rejected without a roll call.

When the senate adjourned for the day it was about ready to vote on an amendment by Senator Oddie [Rep., Nev.], providing a higher duty on hides than the 10 per cent rate approved by the finance committee and carried in the house bill. Senator Oddie modified his amendment to provide for a duty of 5 cents per pound on green hides and 9 cents on dry hides instead of 6 and 10 cents as proposed yesterday. The Oddie amendment would provide a duty nearly four times as great as the 10 per cent rate.

Senator Barkley [Dem., Ky.], who was one of the speakers during today's debate, opposed any duty on hides. Senator Steck favored a duty on hides but fought the leather and shoes rates.

"BARON" FACES CHARGE OF THEFT FROM U. S. MAILS

Baron Henri De Ginsberg, 36 year old West Madison street pin and needle seller, who declares that he is a French nobleman with a heroic record of adventure, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker yesterday on a charge of stealing from the mails. When he explained that he had taken a package from a parcel post box in a moment of absent-mindedness, the case was continued to Jan. 30. He was released on this plea when arrested on a similar charge a month ago.

The baron recited a colorful history to the court, stating that he was sentenced to death by Gen. Dullard during the Boer war after blowing up an English troop train, saved by the French government and later sentenced for life to the French penal colony on Devil's island.

When Assistant United States Attorney James Leaton attempted to talk to him in his native language, the baron deluged the attorney with a stream of voluble French. The baron was arrested after postoffice inspectors had seen him take a package left on top of a mailbox at Halsted and Madison streets.

Gets 35 Years for Killing Intruder in His Love Nest

Pawnee, Okla., Jan. 23.—(AP)—B. O. Shepherd, 34, Tulsa real estate man, today was sentenced to serve 35 years in prison for the slaying of Robert Hatcher, 22, of Webb City, Mo., last Aug. 23. Hatcher was shot to death in the Tulsa apartment which Shepherd had rented for his stenographer, Miss Alice Andrews, 23, Hatcher's sweetheart.

CALL STRIKE ON BOARD OF TRADE BUILDING WORK

Following a business agents' meeting yesterday afternoon, the Chicago Building Trades council ordered a strike, effective this morning, of all building workers employed in finishing the interior of the Chicago Board of Trade building at Jackson boulevard and La Salle street.

Refusal of a group of boiler makers to work for a nonunion boiler concern resulted in the strike order. It was explained that such procedure was taken to bring the dispute to a climax and to compel an adjustment within a few days. Completion of the building is scheduled for May 1. Controversies of this kind are usually adjusted by a joint committee of building trades leaders and officials of the Building Construction Employers' association.

Both builder and labor members of this committee are now at Tampa, Fla., where an effort is being made to set up a tribunal for adjustment of jurisdictional strife in the building trades.

BUGS MORAN AND PAL AGAIN SEE INSIDE OF CELL

Seized in Loop Hotel, but Without Gun.

Some of the detective bureau heat was wasted yesterday on George Bugs Moran, the leader of the north side gang of which Dean O'Banion, Earl Weiss, and Schemer Drucci are unsurviving members and which was reduced by seven memberships through the massacre of Valentine day. Bugs and his sharp eyed body guard, Leo Mongoven, were hot enough over the wrong being done them.

They sauntered into the Hotel Sherman lobby, where it seems they are unwelcome, and were welcomed by Sergts. William Drury and John Howe, who arrested them there two weeks ago. The usual pawing over for revolvers brought only a smile from Moran.

"We don't have to carry guns any more," he informed Drury, but Drury wasn't interested.

Taken to Headquarters.

"You're pinched, anyway," the detectives informed the lobby strollers.

Just as if they weren't known, Moran and Mongoven were sent through the bureau of identification, where Moran's record was shown to be:

Sent to penitentiary for burglary, Sept. 17, 1910; paroled June 18, 1912; wanted for violation of parole, Oct. 18, 1912; discharged from parole June 26, 1927. Served in the penitentiary from 1913 to 1917 for burglary and larceny in McLean county. Dec. 19, 1917, forfeited a bond on two robbery charges. Sentenced to Joliet May 24, 1918, on a plea of guilty to robbery. March 16, 1921, out on bonds pending appeal to Supreme court, which affirmed sentence on Dec. 1, 1922. Returned to penitentiary Feb. 1, 1923, and paroled on the same day.

Had "Pull" in 1923.

The last entry interested the detectives. It indicated that Moran had money and political influence back in 1923 when both would count.

Within two hours there was a writ of habeas corpus for Moran and Mongoven, and after another two hours in cells they were released when Moran tendered two $100 bills for bail pending their trial this morning.

JEWEL BROKER LEAPS TO DEATH FROM HOTEL ROOM

Jacob R. Ripstein, 41, jewelry broker, of Milwaukee, Wis., committed suicide yesterday by leaping from his room on the tenth floor of the Sheridan-Plaza hotel, Sheridan road and Wilson avenue.

The police found a note addressed to Mrs. J. Ripstein, 920 Newhall street, Milwaukee. In the note he asked that she be notified. He gave no reason for his act.

The body was removed to the Coombs funeral parlor, 4506 Sheridan road, where an inquest will be held today.

Family in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ada Ripstein, widow, and two children, Shirley, 17, and Joel, 15, today learned of the death of their father, Jacob Ripstein, in Chicago. They could offer no reason why he should have ended his life. The children are pupils of Riverside High school.

The family came to Milwaukee from Montreal, Canada, last December.

COUPLE RETURNS TO TRY AGAIN IN MILWAUKEE!

After four days of hitch-hiking in the cold weather in search of jobs and a wedding, Eleanor Jones, 19, of Kilbourn, Wis., and George Zsido, 21, of Milwaukee, were on their way back to Milwaukee last night, still jobless and unmarried.

Zsido and the girl, who was clad in men's clothing, were arrested yesterday when neighbors saw them in the vicinity of the home of Col. Noble Brandon Judah, former ambassador to Cuba, at 740 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, and telephoned the police.

They told the police the girl lost her job as a waitress in Milwaukee two weeks ago, and as Zsido already was jobless they took her capital of $11.35 on Monday and started for Gary in search of work. They reached Blue Island on Tuesday and the police held them there until word was received from the girl's father, Anthony Jones, that he had no objections to his daughter's peregrinations.

The Lake Forest police held the couple long enough to thaw them out and then put them on a North Shore train for Milwaukee, where the girl said she would support Zsido by working as a waitress until he finds work.

CHARGES AGAINST CUSTOMS MEN LAID TO POLITICS

Drys Got 'Evidence' from Ousted U. S. Employe.

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The furore created by the filing with President Hoover of affidavits accusing customs and other officials here of neglect of duty and conspiracy to defraud the government of revenue, abated today, in the face of clarifying statements, until the accusations appeared mainly a political maneuver to prevent the reappointment of Col. Arthur F. Foran as controller of customs at this port.

Summarized, the situation appeared to be as follows:

The Rev. James K. Shields, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of New Jersey, and G. Rowland Munroe, its counsel, desiring to block Col. Foran's reappointment, obtained information through Ernest S. Braidwood of Somerville, N. J., a discharged government employé, upon which were based affidavits by the Rev. Shields and Braidwood, alleging that Col. Foran and other government officials had failed to collect $16,000 in penalties due the government from Herbert L. Pratt, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of New York, for liquor smuggled into this country for him by the Go-Bart company.

Peeks Through Window.

Braidwood, in his affidavit, also accused Col. Foran of having a bar, slot machine and quantities of liquor at his hunting lodge at Mount Airy, Hunterdon county, N. J., through the windows of which he peeked as an employé of "a political organization" other than the Anti-Saloon league, but according to Braidwood, likewise headed by the Rev. Mr. Shields.

Over in Newark William J. Calhoun, prohibition administrator of New Jersey, told the Associated Press it was Mr. Shields who asked that the Foran lodge be raided. Mr. Shields previously had denied this. He said he did not know he was sending his men to raid the lodge of the controller, but believed it was a speakeasy.

Col. Foran called on Assistant Secretary Seymour Lowman during the day and declared he was the victim of a political and religious plot.

Henry Alan Johnston, attorney, to whom Mr. Pratt referred questioners, said there was no case against Mr. Pratt, as a purchaser of liquor was not liable under the Volstead act and there was no evidence of smuggling against Mr. Pratt. Mr. Johnston blamed the whole affair on "a disgruntled former government employé."

U. S. Indicts 7 in Plot."

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle admitted that Mr. Pratt's name was among those submitted to him in connection with his investigation of the activities of the Go-Bart company which already has resulted in the indictment of seven persons for violation of the prohibition laws.

WIFE DIVORCES SANFORD OLSON, SON OF JUDGE

Mrs. Marie E. Olson, 947 Gould avenue, yesterday won a divorce before Superior Judge Sabath from Sanford Olson, son of Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court. Mrs. Olson charged cruelty.

The Olsons were married Feb. 13, 1925, in an elopement to Waukegan. Mrs. Olson was Mrs. Marie Flake, a divorcee, of Cincinnati. They separated last Jan. 5. Mrs. Olson testified that her husband had beaten her twice and caused her great mental suffering by using obscene language.

Mrs. Olson waived alimony. She was represented by Attorney George Crane, who announced that a settlement of $1,000 had been made out of court and that Olson had agreed to complete payments on an automobile for her.

BERLIN ASKS U. S. AID IN FLOOD OF SPURIOUS NOTES

Counterfeit $100 Bill Is Cleverest Yet Seen.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The American embassy today associated itself with a German police investigation of a European counterfeiting ring that has been specializing in American notes.

Alfred Kliefoth, second secretary, conferred with the chief of the counterfeit section at the Reichsbank and with the chief of the city detective bureau at police headquarters. Though no information was given out after the conferences, the embassy said that Mr. Kliefoth had been sent to secure a full report on the police investigation of the counterfeiters.

Find Batch in Switzerland.

Reports have been received in Berlin that additional batches of counterfeit dollars have been found in Switzerland. The German press is devoting a large amount of space to the investigation in an effort to put German banks and the public on their guard. The banks have been informed of the characteristic marks of the bills.

Officials of the Deutsche bank and the chief of the counterfeit section of the Reichsbank said that the counterfeited $100 bills were the cleverest work that had ever come to their attention. They declared that the discrepancy between the genuine and the counterfeit bills was virtually invisible to the naked eye.

Enlarged photographs made by the bank showed that the chief characteristic of the counterfeit bills was in the top border of Franklin's head, which on genuine bills is smooth but on the counterfeit shows a zig-zag line.

Suspect Huge Plant.

The investigators said that only a huge organization, possessing a large printing shop and employing expert printers, photographers, etchers, and engravers, was capable of achieving such results. They believed that the paper had either been secured through bribes or manufactured by a large paper mill.

The police think that the headquarters of the counterfeiting ring is in one of the Austrian succession states. Many of the counterfeit bills have been traced to one of these states.

Franz Fischer, alias Voigt, whom the police suspect of circulating the bills, frequently visited Austria of late before his disappearance.

Former Policeman Jailed for Truck Theft of Meat

James Sherry, 4941 Potomac avenue, a former policeman, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail yesterday by Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen in the South State street court on a charge of stealing four steaks and a 20 pound suckling pig. Sherry was arrested by a policeman who saw him take the meat from a supply truck in front of a restaurant at 139 North Clark street.

But when he began talking of "Sweet Cookie Emma" she left him. The judge granted her temporary alimony of $5 a week pending final disposition of the suit.

DORAN TO BARE ALCOHOL FLOW IN CHICAGO AREA

House Wets Compel Dry Chief to Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Wets in congress continued today to take the aggressive in the prohibition controversy. They forced action by the house committee on expenditures in executive departments requesting Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran to furnish detailed information on all alcohol withdrawals in the Chicago district.

Two wets, Representatives Emanuel Celler [Dem., N. Y.] and William I. Sirovich [Dem., N. Y.], made speeches in the house. Another wet, Representative Loring M. Black [Dem., N. Y.], assailed recommendations of the Wickersham commission tonight in a radio debate with Senator W. J. Harris [Dem., Ga.], a dry, who, while supporting the commission's program, said that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon had failed to make a serious attempt to enforce the prohibition law.

Schafer Wins His Point.

The house committe on expenditures in executive departments, which has under consideration the administration bill to transfer the prohibition bureau from the treasury department to the department of justice, dealt with the question of alcohol withdrawals in a closed session.

Following the session it was announced that the committee unanimously agreed to request Prohibition Commissioner Doran to give all information as to names of concerns and the quantity of alcohol withdrawn in the Chicago district for the last two years. This action was taken at the insistence of Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.], a wet, who brought up the matter while Prohibition Commissioner Doran was a witness before the committee yesterday. Representative Schafer, heretofore, was refused access by Dr. Doran to data relative to withdrawals by the W. T. Rawleigh company of Freeport, Ill.

Drys Rule Out Free Debate.

Although the house committee decided to ask for the alcohol information, the drys on the committee won out on a motion to devote future hearings exclusively to the prohibition bureau transfer bill and to rule out discussion of the merits of prohibition.

Representative Celler in the house said he hoped "the day will soon come when prohibition is driven out of congress, out of the country and out of the statute books." Mr. Celler asserted large quantities of corn sugar are being used to make corn liquor.

Representative Sirovich continued his attack upon the use of poisonous denaturants in industrial alcohol. He quoted Commissioner Doran to the effect that the prohibition bureau considered oil compounds more effective as a denaturant and less easy to remove.

Flays Wickersham Plan.

Representative Black, in his radio speech, criticized the Wickersham commission's proposal for the disposition of petty prohibition cases by commissioners of United States courts without trial by jury.

"The eighteenth amendment being out of line with the basic thought of the constitution, it was but natural to expect therefrom consequential violence to the entire constitutional scheme," said Mr. Black. "Such violence is presented in the Wickersham plan for nonjury federal trials.

"There are many objections to the plan. For instance, a person stands on his rights for a jury trial, and, although originally called a petty offender by the prosecutor, he becomes in the eyes of that official and the law a felon. He is found guilty of a petty offense. He goes before a jury to be tried for a felony on the same facts, having been prejudiced by the declaration of the commission that he is guilty of such facts.

Break Down Constitution.

"Court congestion is most dangerous, but the breaking down of constitutional safeguards is pregnant with far more harm to our country's future. Court congestion can be relieved by additional district judges and courts, by repeal of the eighteenth amendment, or modification of the Volstead act."

Senator Harris defended the Wickersham proposal for trial of petty cases before commissioners, the scheme being similar to one embodied in a bill which he introduced in the last session.

Dry Calls for More Money.

"The ratification of the eighteenth amendment in 1920 radically changed the laws of our country which had been in effect for more than 130 years and in the short space of 10 years it could not be expected that prohibition would be anything like 100 per cent effective, especially since congress has not appropriated sufficient funds to enforce it," said Senator Harris. "So far as I know, none of the friends of the measure feels that Secretary Mellon has made a serious attempt to enforce the law. I believe that with ample funds the prohibition law could be made as effective as the laws against murder and other crimes.

"If, with the President and practically two-thirds of both houses of congress in favor of prohibition, we fail to do something constructive at this time, the opponents of the law will continue their propaganda, so as to make it unpopular."

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] permitted it to be known today that he had received an oral report making sensational charges of "corruption" among some of the highest officials of the United States government charged with enforcement of prohibition, customs, and immigration laws on the Niagara frontier. He has asked that the charges be made in writing.

Open Hearings Today.

The house judiciary subcommittee will conduct hearings tomorrow on bills to increase the powers of United States commissioners to try casual and slight offenders of the prohibition law.

The civil service commission announced that tests conducted for prohibition agents in the last two years have resulted in the elimination of 1,300 who failed to meet the requirements.

HALBERT O. CREWS APPOINTED PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR HERE

Halbert O. Crews of Wilmette, a former newspaper man and for seven years director of public relations for the Chicago Surface lines, was appointed public administrator for Cook county yesterday. The appointment was announced from Gov. Emmerson's office at Springfield.

Mr. Crews succeeds Percy B. Coffin, one of the chief aids of former Congressman Fred Lundin. His selection has been expected for several months following his service in both the primary and election campaigns of last year as general adviser in publicity matters for Emmerson.

He became a close friend of Gov. Emmerson when he was managing editor of an afternoon newspaper at Springfield and later superintendent of department reports under Gov. Lowden. He will enter upon his new duties today.

When BABIES are upset

Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

DRYS WIN AID OF LANDLORDS IN U. S. CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Members of the Washington real estate board have decided to engage in a war to exterminate bootlegging in the capital.

Today the board promised District Attorney Rover to report to him all information available about persons on their properties violating the prohibiton laws, with a view to obtaining a basis for ejecting them.

John A. Petty, executive secretary of the board, announced the decision. It was preceded by a conference between Mr. Rover and officials of the organization, which comprises most of the real estate dealers in the District of Columbia.

Records Supplied Prosecutor.

These officials accepted Rover's offer of assistance in obtaining witnesses and evidence necessary to secure ejection of Volstead offenders from hotels, apartments, business buildings and other properties under control of the board. The real estate dealers placed at Rover's disposal their comprehensive records of realty transactions, to aid the tracing of correct owners of properties whose occupants are suspected of liquor violations.

The district attorney said the promised coöperation would be of great value.

Aim to Save Reputations.

The policy of the real estate men was believed in Washington to be unprecedented. The board's statement said the decision was made in order to protect the values of properties, the reputations of law abiding owners who might become victims of disreputable tenants, and the characters of innocent tenants who might become involved in court proceedings through mistakes in location and ownership of questionable premises.

DENVER OPERA SUES RAISA AND HER HUSBAND

The precipe of a $25,000 damage suit was filed in the Superior court yesterday against Rosa Raisa, dramatic soprano for the Chicago Civic Opera company, and her husband, Giacomo Rimini, baritone, in behalf of Arthur Oberfelder, head of the Denver Civic Opera company. The action is brought for an alleged breach of contract.

The opera stars had contracted to sing in that city last fall at a civic concert, according to Mr. Oberfelder's attorneys. They failed to appear after thousands of tickets had been sold. Subscriptions had to be returned, which caused the Denver opera company trouble and loss of money. The law firm of Bull, Lytton & Olson, representing Oberfelder, suppressed the suit with the intention of serving the singers before they could learn of the suit.

SUSPECTED RUM RUNNER IS SHOT BY BORDER DRYS

Officers Say He Ignored Orders to Surrender.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The shooting of a boatman in the Detroit river off Wyandotte last night by a customs border patrol inspector was defended by the officer and his companion today. They claimed the man was attempting to land liquor.

The boatman, Walter Grund, 27, was in Wyandotte General hospital tonight with a bullet wound in his stomach which may prove fatal. He was shot by Clare B. Hopper of the border patrol, who with his companion officer, William H. Redford, was awaiting a fleet of smugglers' boats at a wharf at the foot of Maple street in Wyandotte.

Grund was found lying in his rowboat when it came ashore three miles from the scene. The man that the officers said was in the boat with him had disappeared. Before losing consciousness, Grund told Wyandotte police he had no liquor but had been cruising in the river with his companion in search of a missing motor boat.

Claim Orders Ignored.

Hopper and Redford appeared before Ward Culver, assistant prosecuting attorney, this afternoon and made statements regarding the shooting. Hopper told of sighting the approaching craft making for the wharf where a lookout was posted. He said that he and Redford ran to the spot and the lookout fled. The men in the boat ignored orders to surrender.

"We turned our flashlights on them and saw burlap sacks filled with bottles piled in the bow of the boat," Hopper said. "Redford fired a couple of shots ahead of the boat and the man at the oars dropped them and made a move toward his hip. Then I fired and he fell over."

Hopper said they did not fire again as they saw the man was wounded. His companion then took the oars and pointed the boat out into the stream again. The two officers went to the Grosse Ile police station and reported the shooting.

Find Drys Were Murdered.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 23.—(AP)—A coroner's jury late today held that George W. Moore, alleged bootlegger, murdered two federal prohibition agents, killed last Saturday when they attempted to search the Moore home for liquor.

Immediately after the verdict of the jury, which stated that Robert K. Mocure and F. R. Patterson died from gunshot wounds "inflicted by George W. Moore in an act of murder," Justice T. M. Rickart announced he would issue a warrant holding Moore for the grand jury.

The defense bitterly contested the case throughout the inquest, bringing witness after witness in an attempt to prove that the agents had attempted an illegal search after nightfall with a daytime warrant.

Big Searchlight Aiding Drys.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The United States government literally threw light on the liquor smuggling situation tonight. The coast guard placed in operation for the first time its 2,500,000 candlepower searchlight installed today on the roof the customs house here, directly opposite the Bridgeburg, Ont., liquor docks.

Rum runners, checked in activity by a blizzard, rubbed their eyes when gleams from the 2,500 watt bulb swept the American side of the Niagara river. The 24 inch lens, with its reflector, magnifies the power of the bulb 1,000 times. The light has a range of two miles and is movable horizontally and vertically.

Townley, Candidate, for Government Liquor Sale

Minot, N. D., Jan. 23.—(AP)—A. C. Townley, former head of the National Nonpartisan league, today announced he would seek the Republican nomination for congress from the Third North Dakota district on a platform of "government control and sale of liquor at cost, under proper restrictions." He will campaign the state on the question of repealing the prohibition provision of the state constitution.

HOLD SCHIRESON GUILTY OF FRAUD AND MALPRACTICE

Doctors Recommend He Lose His License.

the several branches; that he was arrested, indicted, convicted, and served a term in prison in New York on account of maintaining a nuisance with his institute; that he was arrested, indicted, convicted, and served a term in prison in Pittsburgh, Pa., in connection with a branch of this institute which he maintained in that city, and that he was indicted and a warrant was out for his arrest in Utica, N. Y., when he fled the state."

Going to the second charge of the attorney general, which was that Schireson was guilty of fraud in procuring his license, the report stated:

"In the application filed by the defendant there were attached to it two affidavits certifying as to his good moral and professional character. One of these affidavits was obtained by deceit and Dr. Khamis, who signed it, said on his direct testimony that 'he had never known or seen the man when he signed it and that he was swindled in doing it.'

Didn't Know Schireson.

"The other affidavit was signed by Dr. Duplantis, who recently signed a statement after being shown a photograph of the defendant that he did not know him, but subsequently when on the witness stand said he had met the defendant when he [Duplantis] was a clerk in a drug store along about 1921 or 1922 and that he had forgotten it when he made the statement.

"In his application the defendant stated that he had had four years of medical education, giving dates, in a medical school recognized as in good standing by the department as required by the laws of Illinois. It was shown by defendant's testimony that he had matriculated in one college which he was supposed to be attending during the day and in another in which he was supposed to be attending during the night while he held a third job during the day.

"In this way he said he got two years in one, which is something distinctly unrecognized by the law. This must certainly be construed as an attempt at deception."

Malpractice Charge Upheld.

Upholding the third of Mr. Ash's charges, which was one of malpractice, the report stated:

"The testimony shows that the patient, Sadye Holland, having read in his advertisements of the great skill of the defendant in removing scars and other physical defects, went to the office of the defendant for the purpose of inquiring about the removal of a scar which she had on her arm.

"While there attention was called to the condition of her legs, which were said to be affected with what is commonly called 'bow legs.' The defendant told the patient that the correction of her bow legs was of much greater importance to her than was the operation on her arm. Miss Holland said that she had to work for a living and that if there was any danger whatsoever that she could not take the chances.

Boasts of His Record.

"He informed her that he was the greatest plastic surgeon in the world, that he had operated on many such cases successfully, that many school teachers came to him to have their legs corrected during vacation time, that it was a simple operation, and that there was no risk or danger connected with it.

"With this assurance she consented to have her legs operated on and agreed to pay the defendant $500 for operating on her legs and $300 for operating on her arm, which sums were paid in advance.

"The defendant states that no x-rays were taken of the legs, but that he had photographs taken of her legs as she stood up. The photographs were submitted in evidence and were viewed by two orthopedic surgeons who testified as experts that the photographs did not substantiate a condition of bow legs. The photographs were viewed by each of the members of the committee, all of whom are medical men of experience, and they concur in the opinion that they do not substantiate the statement that there is any bowing or curving of the bones of the legs.

Call Diagnosis Careless.

"The surgeons who testified as experts were unanimously of the opinion that the only reliable way of diagnosing the presence and location of abnormal curves of the bones in cases such as this is by the use of the fluroscope or the x-ray. The evidence therefore, is to the effect that the diagnosis was carelessly and negligently made.

"So far as the operation and its disastrous results are concerned the defense of the defendant seems to resolve itself in an attempt to shift the responsibility to some one else, Dr. Zaph. It is clear from the evidence that the defendant was the principal in this case and was responsible for it throughout.

"The X-ray pictures taken of the legs after the operation showed that there was no curving or bowing of the bones and that there had been no change in the line of bones by the operation. The operation, therefore, was entirely unnecessary, as it not only did no good, but subjected the patient to the risks and dangers attending such operations.

Demands Much More Skill.

"Counsel for the defendant claims that ordinary skill and ability is all that was required of the defendant in this case. It is true that that is all that the law requires of the average physician, but when the physician proclaims himself one of the greatest and the most skillful plastic surgeons in the world [see exhibits] the law demands a much higher degree of skill and ability than is exacted of the average physician.

"When the defendant was asked to explain, if he could, the cause of the gangrene he mentioned several conditions which he said might have caused it, but when asked to tell what those conditions were and how they might have affected the patient, he was unable to do so, and it is here that he demonstrated to the members of the committee his woeful lack of ordinary medical knowledge."

Under the law Dr. Schireson has twenty days in which to present objections to the report in writing to Director Walsh, who is then required to act upon the report, either revoking the license or ordering a rehearing.

WHAT PRICE GLORY? FINED $20 FOR RULES BROKEN SAVING LIVES

BREST, France, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Because he was in too much of a hurry to bother with customs regulations while hastening to the rescue of a ship in distress, Skipper Malbert of the salvage tug Iroise was fined $20 today for violation of the rules of the port.

Capt. Malbert's tug had already saved a number of vessels, but, having broken all his tow ropes, he put into Brest for new ones. Customs formalities required that these be properly declared, but Capt. Malbert, hearing the call of other distressed craft, threw the rules to the wind and hurried out to the rescue.

Customs officers complained and the court held today that despite the humanitarian mission Capt. Malbert must pay for the violation of the laws.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT
To all consumers of
KRAFT WRAPPING PAPER

A VICIOUS situation has developed in the kraft wrapping division of the Paper Industry.

Saturday, January 18th, announcements went out from New York by certain manufacturers of a drastic cut in kraft wrapping paper prices.

Manufacturers, converters and jobbers of kraft tonnage throughout the United States are bewildered by the situation. All realize that with a cut in price, consequent cuts in quality usually follow and the question now is "Where and when will this debasement of quality stop?"

Mosinee meets the price situation, but—The Mosinee Paper Mills believe it opportune to advise the trade that they will adhere strictly and without deviation to their permanent policy of QUALITY STANDARDIZATION. This means more quality at less cost.

In spite of all price cutting in the past three years, the demand for MOSINEE at its stabilized price is increasing.

More Yards Per Pound—
Less Cost Per Yard

For, MOSINEE is always the most economic paper to use. Remember it is not the price per pound that determines value—it is the uniform strength of the individual sheet that proves its economy. What the consumer saves in yardage by using MOSINEE, more than makes up for any slight difference in the price per pound.

COL. RANDOLPH'S OPPORTUNITY.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph has taken office as president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Under his leadership the valuable service which the association has rendered the commercial and industrial life of the region will, no doubt, be expanded as well as intensified.

The election of Col. Randolph we regard as a fortunate one. No one in Chicago knows better than he that the basis of Chicago's growth and prosperity is its location at the crossroads of the nation's trade routes. Our level terrain presents no serious obstacle to rail or road building. The lakes offer economical transport to the ore deposits and grain fields of the north and to the consuming markets of the east. The Mississippi riverway, nearly completed, promises similar advantages in communication with the gulf, with Minneapolis, Pittsburgh, and Omaha. Col. Randolph may be counted upon to organize support for the completion of the Illinois waterway and also to defend Chicago's priority in transportation as expressed in rate schedules.

The rate structure is continually threatened by those who wish to relate rates only to mileage. They wish to make the same charge for a haul of 100 miles over the continental divide as for a haul of equal length over the Illinois prairies, where costs of railroad construction and operation are relatively negligible. Vigilance in defense of rates which express our natural advantage is continually required. It is also important to guard Chicago industries against ill advised attempts to upset rate schedules within the Chicago zone itself, attempts which, if successful, might result in serious disorganization and loss.

Col. Randolph's interest in transportation, it is to be hoped, will lead him also to seek to hasten the electrification of the Chicago terminals and the erection of adequate terminal buildings. The association has long been identified with the agitation for both these improvements, but we believe there is room for a more vigorous pressing of the issue with the railroad managements and the city authorities.

NEIGHBORLY AIR RACES.

Milwaukee will participate in the national air races to be conducted from Chicago next fall. Gov. Kohler and a number of Milwaukee citizens contributed to the underwriting of the races and elected Col. Clarence Falk to represent the city in the Chicago Air Race corporation. Special Milwaukee features, including a race between Chicago and Milwaukee, are planned during the eight day program.

Although the start and finish lines of the races will be in Chicago airports, the arena will stretch hundreds of miles in all directions from Chicago. All the cities within this range have a proprietary interest in the event, and Chicago will welcome their participation in it. The participation of Milwaukee is indicative of the day of even greater neighborliness between Milwaukee and Chicago, the day when communication for every one between the cities—brought nearer to realization by the recent reduction in flying rates—will require less than an hour. This closer intimacy of the cities in the central states should be advanced by the air races in Chicago.

FOOTNOTE ON THE YOUNG PLAN.

The Young plan has been accepted now by all the interested powers. The acceptance of the arrangement is hailed as the end of the war. One of the terms authorizes the allied powers to invade Germany if Germany does not pay on schedule. Here is one more evidence of the wholehearted acceptance of the principle of the Kellogg pact outlawing war. The powers have repudiated the use of armed force as an instrument of national policy except when national policy seems to require the use of armed force. The war may be liquidated, but war is not.

TOWBOATS VERSUS CHICAGO.

Chicago bridges were raised 122,772 times in 1929, a figure more than 17,000 higher than in 1928 and nearly 28,000 higher than in 1925-'26-'27. Thus, heavy increases in motor, street car, elevated, and pedestrian traffic are accompanied by greater interference. The vexatious problem of transportation here is aggravated and threatens to be still more seriously aggravated by the opening of bridges. Much of the nuisance may be blamed on harbor tugs, scows, and other craft engaged in negligible commerce. Against the imposition of this inconsequential shipping the citizens of Chicago demand relief.

More equitable regulations should be adopted before the navigation season opens in the spring. Judging from the experience of the last two years, the bridges will open more frequently this year unless the movement of harbor boats is supervised for the protection of the citizens. By projection it is not fanciful to anticipate the time when the bridges will be up longer than they are down. Before that day arrives there must be a correction of the injustice whereby a towboat is permitted to maroon thousands of busy men and women.

One solution would be the requirement that tugs and miscellaneous harbor craft be constructed for a lower clearance. Tackle for lowering stacks and spars could be installed and the superstructure shaved with far less hardship to a tug owner than the hardship a single citizen suffers each year from the bridge openings. Enterprising and considerate shippers have already adjusted their boats to the bridge clearance in the Chicago river. What they have done voluntarily others should be required to do. The war department is charged with the protection of water commerce, but it is also authorized to regulate water traffic in the interest of the public welfare. Congressman Britten may be depended upon to seek relief if the Chicago city council enters a protest at Washington. In charge of Mr. Britten Chicago's grievance would not longer be ignored by the federal government.

CAUSE AND CURE.

There is evident in the present crisis of our local government two schools of thought. One is concentrated on the immediate predicament and immediate means of relief. The other is not willing to forget causes in trying to escape temporarily from their result. The one is so alarmed by the symptom that it ignores the disease. The other proposes to take advantage of the crisis to get rid of its cause. The one appeals for funds to meet the immediate need, though it gives new money to the men who have wasted the public funds, thus assuring the perpetuation and aggravation of the conditions they have brought about. The other demands as a prerequisite of any further exaction the retirement of the wasters and the creation of a responsible government.

The public has shown that it follows the latter view and has refused to vote any more money to the gang which has betrayed the city and brought it to its present deplorable condition. It refuses to pour more money into a bottomless hole or be stampeded by the conditions created by the city hall gang into giving more money to perpetuate the gang's power and opportunities for plunder. In this the public is following its instinct of self-preservation.

If money is raised from the larger taxpayers on tax anticipation warrants, a condition should be imposed that the money be expended for the relief of the essential public services and not for the benefit of the machine that has wrecked the city finances.

RECOVERING PUBLIC MONEY.

The recent exposure of the Gleesonite graft in past times has had a resounding effect upon the community. At a time when exposure after exposure of graft, corruption, incompetence, and ruthless waste of public funds has followed upon each other's heels public opinion is being stunned and each exposed wrongdoing escapes its full measure of public indignation amid the confusion. This is the corruptionist's opportunity. He must be reached another way, and there is another way, as THE TRIBUNE has exemplified in its suit for the recovery from responsible officials of the experts' extortions. The Citizens' association should sue responsible officials for the recovery of public money wasted in political contracts. The civil suit for recovery of public money is a formidable weapon and should be used from now on. It will not only recover money to the public. It will put restraint upon grafters and wasters and bring some sense of responsibility to officials.

HOSPITAL PRISONS.

We are informed that the practice of committing convicted criminals of "mental deficiency" to the Dixon state hospital is causing grave concern in that institution. The hospital is not equipped for prisoners. There are no guards, no walls, no cells. Consequently vicious inmates, we are told, are escaping at the rate of one each day. Neighbors of the hospital feel the greatest anxiety, but it is every one's problem when our defenses against persons of criminal intellect are so seriously weakened.

If authorities in good faith are sending criminals to Dixon they are acting under mistaken policy. The theory is, we suppose, that mentally inferior criminals should not suffer the same penalty as competent thugs. The clinic and not the prison is indicated. We have no quarrel with experiments on the criminal bump, but until we have greater evidence of a cure we prefer that the treatment be applied in the prison hospital. There may not be adequate hospital facilities in penitentiaries. Then it is better for the incompetent criminal to suffer the injustice—if it is injustice—of confinement in a cell. The alternative—relieving the criminal of all restraint—is a grave injustice to society.

Legislation framed to provide safer commitment procedure has been declared unconstitutional. In the absence, therefore, of suitable regulations for the assignment of prisoners, it should be the policy of the authorities to resolve all doubts in favor of the immediate protection of the community.

Editorial of the Day

REAPING THE WHIRLWIND.

[Columbus Dispatch.]

Chicago, bankrupt, threatened with further curtailment of the police and fire departments and with the closing of the public schools, is reaping the whirlwind. For more than a dozen years Chicago's "good citizens" have supinely remained away from the polls and allowed gangster methods of government to prevail; have seen the money of city, county, and drainage district wasted by millions; have watched the growth of underworld power and are now paying the penalty.

Remedies were in the hands of the voters at all times. The fact that the "good citizens" were too disgusted with the Thompson-Crowe-Deneen organization fights and feuds to go to the polls makes it difficult to accept their own definition of "good citizens."

With a program of public improvements running toward one billion dollars under way and the public schools threatened with closure, which would throw more than half a million children into idleness with the certainty of augmenting the crime forces, the situation no longer is one for Chicagoans to laugh about, regardless of the farce comedy of its political organization.

REALLY SERIOUS.

Doctor—Have you any difficult cases in your practice?

LIVING WITH YOUR LIVER.

L. S. M. writes: I should be very grateful if you would write an article on the care of the liver in middle life.

REPLY.

Thanks for the suggestion. Most people in middle life need to know more than they do about the liver and its care. For that matter, they need to know more than the doctors do on this subject.

The liver, like the weather, has always been talked about but nobody did anything about it and, for that matter, nobody knew enough about it to guide anybody. Within the last ten years some accurate knowledge of this, the largest, most important and most frequently diseased of all the bodily organs, has been accumulated. Ten years from now your question can be answered with reasonable certainty that the answer is, say, ninety per cent correct. Then, when that answer becomes general information and is made a part of the people's habits, the liver will have an easier row to hoe. As it is, the liver has a multitude of trials and tribulations because of sins for which it is in no wise responsible. In order to spare their livers people of middle life should follow these rules:

First, they should avoid the use of alcoholic beverages. This applies to beers and fermented liquors as well as the distilled ones. There are those who hold that the only partially fermented products of the former are even more harmful to the liver than the aromatics and flavors of the latter.

Second, eliminate condiments from the diet, or greatly limit them. This applies especially to mustard, horse radish, peppers, cloves, cinnamon and bottled sauces. Many apply it to sugars. Certainly it would apply to the excessive use of sugar with the food, though most would allow sugar in the coffee and similar moderate uses of sugar as a condiment.

Third, eat no heavy meals. The allusion particularly is to banquets, many course dinners and overfeeds generally. Heavy festival dinners such as those of Thanksgiving and Christmas are especially harmful.

Fourth, eat a light evening meal or none at all. At this evening meal especially eat very little fat or grease of any sort and little or no meat. There are conditions under which many physicians would advise eating considerable fat and with some frequency.

Fifth, do muscular work or take muscular exercise proportionate to the amount of food consumed.

Sixth, maintain proper bowel habits by diet and exercise.

Seventh, for biliousness, skip a few meals, play a game of golf, but avoid cathartics.

MORE ABOUT ASTHMA.

A reader writes: I read your piece about asthma and want to tell you of our experience last summer.

My son had a terrible cough. We did everything possible for it. One day I noticed his undervest or shirt was a reddish yellow. I went to see a doctor and he gave him a course of medicine, quinine and a tonic. He was in bed over a week and the yellow ceased. He got up and it came back.

One night I remembered that on his vacation he had bought a new tube of shaving cream and box of powder. I also knew that after a bath he shook this powder down the front and back of his undershirt. I decided that this might be the trouble. I had him scrub his chest and back and put on a freshly laundered shirt and cut out the powder. The cough soon stopped and no more yellow undershirts.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

COKE IMPROVES CONDITION.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—[Friend of the People.]—The building adjoining ours in the 3100 West 16th street is two stories high. Ours is three stories high. The smoke from the chimney of the adjoining building clouds our rooms. The owner has refused to erect taller chimneys because his building was built before ours. What can be done? J. T.

Complying with an order sent by this department to abate this nuisance, the owner has supplied coke for the hot water heater. Several reinspections have been made and it was found that the operation of the heating plant is conducted without creating a nuisance to the adjoining building.

FRANK A. CHAMBERS,
Deputy Smoke Inspector in Charge.

INTERPRETING CONTRACT.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What is your interpretation of the following in a contract:

"This contract becomes automatically canceled if the purchaser's payments due on the first of each month are not made on or before the first of the following month; and, in such event, the company will refund the amount theretofore paid, less or plus, as the case may be, the difference between the contract price and the market bid price of the fifteenth of the month preceding." J. S.

The material wording seems to be "becomes automatically canceled if the purchaser's payments . . . are not made on or before the first of the following month; and in such event the company will refund . . . [as] of the 15th of the month preceding." Under this wording it would seem clear that default in the payment due Nov. 1 would cause automatic cancellation Dec. 1 and "the 15th of the month preceding" would be Nov. 15.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MAY STAY AND BECOME CITIZEN.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—[Friend of the People.]—An alien girl was naturalized here in 1920. In 1924 she married an alien who had entered the United States illegally in May, 1921. Is the husband still subject to deportation? Could the husband become a citizen? M. N. M.

Please be advised that persons entering the United States prior to June 30, 1924, illegally, cannot be deported for that reason alone; however, they are not entitled to obtain United States citizenship unless they execute form 659, which provides for the registry of aliens here illegally prior to June 3, 1921. Forms for this purpose can be obtained at this office.

The wife did not lose her citizenship because of her marriage to an alien, here illegally, in 1924. S. D. SMITH,
District Director of Immigration.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

ONE OF THE DULLEST DAYS ON RECORD—

was yesterday. It must be the zero weather. Maybe the news freezes up. There is a small army of American newspaper correspondents in London ready to tell us every move the navy conference makes, but if any one of 'em had the nerve to charge up three shillings sixpence on his expense account yesterday he's trying to obtain money under false pretenses.

The only piece of real news that came out of London yesterday was a fire in the Tower. Probably that's why the delegates to the conference didn't sink any battleships; they all went to the fire. Secretary Stimson has turned into a regular clam. It's hard now for a correspondent to get him to say "good morning"; he's afraid of committing himself.

Then the correspondents go over and ask Charley Dawes if France is going to give up her submarines, and Charley takes 'em out to the back yard and shows 'em his Chow dogs that just got out of a six months' quarantine. Think of sending a highly paid and expensive correspondent all the way to London to find that out.

And over here it's just about as quiet as it is in London. Congress passed a bill appropriating six million and a half for bigger and better jails. And some of the congressmen who have mean memories thought back to the days ten years ago when the Drys promised that if we had prohibition we wouldn't need any jails. Anyway, we don't believe that six million and a half will build enough jails for our bootlegger Max. He's in jail and out again all the time. And he's only one bootlegger. How in the world would they get enough jails to take care of all the bootleggers? What they'll have to do if this thing keeps on will be to build rubber jails. But that wouldn't do, because the bootleggers then would just bounce out, and they get out quick enough as it is.

WISTFUL CERTAINTY.

It's not at all as if I didn't know
(Time will not pause, however lips beguile)
That love like this lasts but a little while,
That love needs finer nourishment to grow
Than we can give to ours, which feeds on things
Fragile and fair and fleeting, while it may,
Careless and debonair, takes life today,
And neither weeps nor sighs at all, but sings.
So there'll be small excuse for me to weep,
If weep I do, and small excuse to grieve,
When from dull life this small but gay reprieve
Shall go in time to its eternal sleep.
It's not at all as if I didn't know,
And quite well, too, the way such matters go!

SHEILA STUART.

ALL THESE front page stories about the city and the county being broke, and beggging for coin, and going to the poorhouse, and everything, are commencing to wear us down. Our nerves are getting ragged and we're seeing things. Yesterday morning on Rush street a tattered object came up to us and suddenly stuck out its hands and said, "Gimme a dime, mister, fer a cuppa Java." And we jumped back and gasped, "Who are you, the County of Cook or the City of Chicago?"

THE DOGWATCH.

Mr. Hoover has started a night shift of stenographers at the White House. Then there ought to be a "dogwatch," too, that comes on at 2 o'clock in the morning and stays until the regular force comes on duty at 8, or whenever the regular force comes on at the White House. Mr. Hoover will find that the night shift always get somewhat peevish and a little cross during the early morning hours, when there's not much doing, and then's when the dogwatch comes in. The dogwatch reads detective stories, smokes a pipe, plays solitaire, and sleeps soundly, tilted back in an easy chair with its feet on the desk. But it always hears the telephone. Any time the night watch doesn't hear the telephone it gets fired. Oh, Mr. Hoover, you must put on a dogwatch. If for nothing else, the dogwatch is good for the other shifts to slip the buck to. If every other alibi around an office fails they always say, "Well, the dogwatch didn't say anything to me about it." The dogwatch, strange as it may seem, is always the goat. Put on a dogwatch!

"IT MUST BE pretty soft being a column conductor," writes J. Q. J. "Suppose you dash off your work in an hour or two and then loaf around the movies and the other shows, or loll about in your club in front of the fireplace." You're all wrong, J. Q. J. After our toil for the day is o'er we love naught else so much as walking on our hands down the Boul Mich. It is good, clean sport, and it keeps us healthy and happy. And now, J. Q. J., you can go and wash the back of your ears.

DEATH OF A POET.

Hushed are the lips and the hands;
The trivial breath is now stilled.
A peace that is newer commands the furious flame that has chilled.
Yet, tranquil, unquenched by the dark that is death, let the spirit arise swift with joy as an April-mad lark who soars to exult in the skies.
And there in the wideness may you discover a beauty as sheer, unresting and mortally true
as deftly you uttered here,

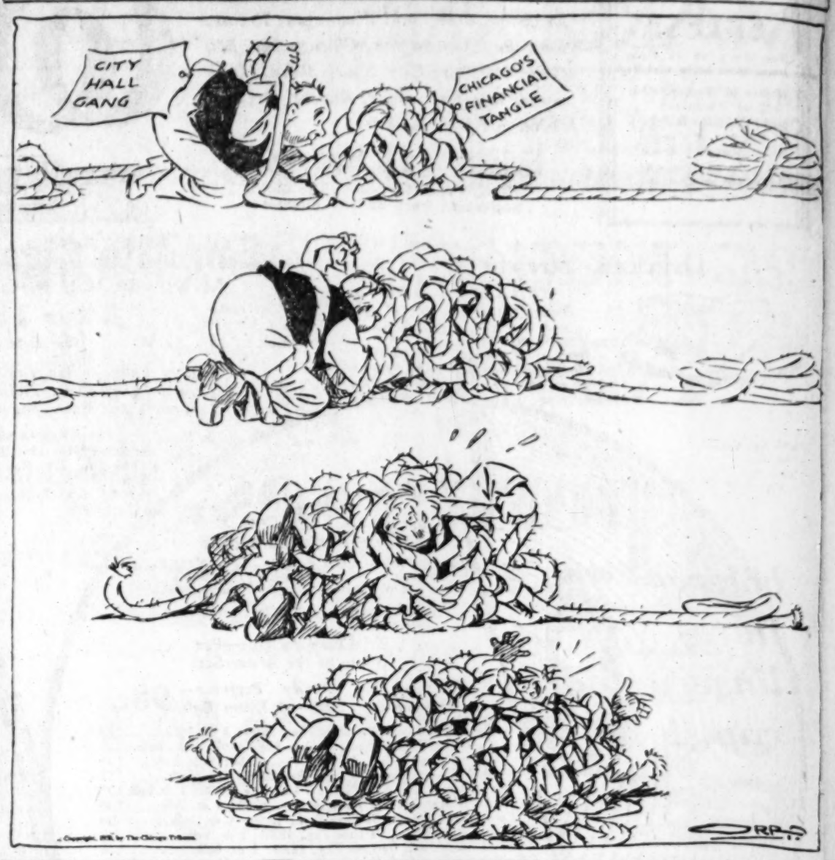
UNTYING THE GORDIAN KNOT



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 24, 1865.

NEW YORK.—A Philadelphia dispatch says that it is learned by the arrival of a steamer that the entire federal force of Gen. Terry has advanced toward Wilmington, and has been reinforced by a heavy column of veteran troops from the south, believed to be under command of Gen. Howard. Light draft gunboats were moving cautiously toward Wilmington, fishing for torpedoes.

CAIRO, Ill.—New Orleans papers arrived on the steamer St. Charles. It is reported on apparently good authority that Gen. Forrest is collecting a large force at Houston, Miss., and intends to make his long promised raid into Memphis.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The senate has ratified the treaty with the northwestern bands of the Shoshone Indians and established peace, the several bands stipulating that hostilities and all depredations upon the immigrant trains and the mail and telegraph lines shall cease.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The resolution offered in the senate to request the members of congress from Illinois to advocate and support the amendment to the constitution abolishing slavery passed by a vote of 16 to 5.

CHICAGO.—Charles M. Waterbury of Geneseo and Miss Lou Moakley of Chicago were married on Jan. 22 by the Rev. Z. M. Humphrey, D. D.

CHICAGO.—The world renowned John B. Gough will deliver the first of a series of three lectures before the Young Men's association on Monday, Jan. 30.

CHICAGO.—Lady directors of the Protestant Orphan asylum desire us to acknowledge receipt of $20 from Allan Pinkerton and five barrels of flour from Mrs. P. L. Yoe.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 24, 1900.

LONDON.—The great battle by which the fate of Ladysmith is to be decided in all probability is on at this writing in the vicinity of Spion Kop, the key to the Boers' position. The belief is based on an official message from Sir Redvers Buller, dated Jan. 23, stating that "an attempt will be made tonight to seize Spion Kop."

CHICAGO.—Edward A. O'Conner, secretary of the Metal Workers' union, was stabbed to death with a stiletto by Julius A. Menzel, a nonunion workman at Winslow Bros.' ornamental iron works, where there is a strike.

CHICAGO.—Baron von Holleben, the German ambassador to the United States, will be the guest of honor today at the University of Chicago.

CHICAGO.—Col. I. L. Ellwood, the barbed wire magnate, at breakfast Christmas morning in the old homestead at De Kalb, handed each of his five children a check for $100,000 as a "surprise" present. Then because the banks were closed and they could not cash the checks that day, he gave each five $10 gold pieces for "pin money." The children are William L., Perry, Puss Ellwood Mayo, Mary Ellwood Lewis, and Jessie Ellwood Ray.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 24, 1920.

PARIS—Holland has flatly refused the demand of the allies to give up the ex-kaiser for trial.

LONDON—The news that Holland definitely refused to give up the kaiser was received in London's official circles without surprise and with some satisfaction.

CHICAGO.—Charged with conspiracy to cause an armed revolution in the United States, eighty-five leaders of the Communist Party of America were indicted by the special Cook county grand jury investigating radical activities. Heading the list handed down by Chief Justice Robert E. Crowe of the Criminal court are: Rose Pastor Stokes, wife of J. G. Phelps Stokes, millionaire settlement worker; Nicholas I. Hourwich, "the little father of the Russians" and editor of the largest Russian paper in the United States; Charles E. Ruthenberg, Cleveland, secretary of the Communist party; Louis E. C. Fraina, the "second Trotzky" of the Communists; and Isaac E. Ferguson, chief counsel for the party.

CHICAGO—"Flu" and pneumonia piled up 101 deaths in the twenty-four hours ending at 5 o'clock last night. The figures establish a record for the present epidemic. Of the deaths, 48 were from influenza. There was 2,193 new cases of "flu" and 341 new pneumonia cases reported.

AMEN.

Brookfield, Ill., Jan. 19.—I read recently of a California printer who claims to have found a solution as to who wrote the works of Shakespeare in some peculiar hieroglyphics he dug up in London. It is a shame he should have spent his all on such a notion.

I want to settle once and for all the question as to who wrote the works of Shakespeare. As a matter of fact no one will ever really know.

While I was, 25 year ago, serving my time as a printer in a town in Scotland, my employer sent me up in the attic to bring down a lot of books and stack them in a new addition of the building. While occupied with this duty, I looked over the books.

Not knowing at the time there was a controversy as to the authenticity of Shakespeare, I naturally do not remember the name of the journal I read from, but do recall it was a volume 100 years old, and the theme of the story was that a man by the name of Ben Jonson, who had already made a name for himself in the literary field, published his own works under his own name, but took the works presented to him of less fortunate authors, paid them a stipulated sum, rehashed their works, and published them under the name of Shakespeare. So, the story I recall, ended up with these words:

"The man we sometimes Shakespeare call was really, truly, nobody at all."

PART OF THE FAT.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—During the process of trimming the budget, why not eliminate the appropriation that has been made during the recent administration for the door bell pushers? These men do nothing more, it seems, than push door bells during election time and tell the people to keep the same city wreckers in office. For this they draw a good salary from the city treasury.

Money spent for this sort of graft would increase the number of policemen, firemen, city nurses, etc. Why do the taxpayers have to pay political deadheads for promoting their own selfish, grafting interest, while the people suffer for the bare necessities, such as garbage and trash removal, clean streets, and other things which are needed for the preservation of health and the protection of life and property?

KATHRYN M. JOHNSON.

A FEMALE OGRE.

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 22.—Why do all writers and cartoonists persist in representing the prohibitionist as a male instead of a female? The wet and dry question is almost a tight drawn female versus male issue.

America brought these 10 years of hell upon its own head by having saloons sacred to men and not giving women the same privilege. No wonder they revolted!

In London and other European cities you see on an average more women than men in the saloons or pubs. Therefore the women will never send their country down for 10 years in prohibition. CHARLES M. WILSON.

THERE, THERE TO STAY.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Prohibition's birthday party, staged by the W. C. T. U., seems to have been a gala affair. The good women are so confident of the permanence of the noble experiment that they broke into song about it:

"It is there to stay, it is there to stay
Till the stars shall sink in silence
And the sun and moon decay,
Till the souls of men assemble in the final judgment day.
It's in the constitution, and it's there there to stay."

There may be more truth than poetry in that (the percentage of truth wouldn't have to be very high). "It" is certainly there to stay as long as our lawmakers jump through hoops at the crack of the reformer's whip.

But there is another thing of a permanent nature that the ladies fail to reckon with. It is man's spirit of personal independence. Thinking people recognize it to be not only the right, but the very function, of law to regulate their actions as they relate to other members of society. But they maintain that there is an inner zone of thought and personal action that must ever bear the warning "Hands off. This means you—the law and you busybodies."

May I follow the example set at the party and dedicate a simple ditty to that spirit of independence:

"It is there to stay, it is there to stay
Till men shall turn to jelly-fish
And their backbones all decay.
Till the souls of men shall tremble at what old maid ladies say.
It's in man's constitution, and it's there, there to stay."

QUESTIONNAIRE.

Winnetka, Ill., Jan. 15.—Your editorial on the cheering ministers prompts me to ask you a question.

What would you do if you were charged with the responsibility of stopping smugglers? Would you send them a copy of THE TRIBUNE? Or would you resort to argument and reason? What rules and regulations would you promulgate to enforce the laws against smuggling? Are smugglers criminals? Are they armed or do they carry on their work with Bible texts and sweet smiles?

If THE TRIBUNE will answer these questions it will do something toward clearing up the vexed questions now arising out of the fact that a special grand jury has completely exonerated the coast guardsmen involved in the use of machine guns aboard the Black Duck.

AN AMERICAN.

AT THE BOK FUNERAL.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Permit me to correct a slovenly error made by your special correspondent in Lake Wales, Fla. He spoke of bells tolling a requiem mass for Mr. Bok.

No bells can toll a mass. Only a priest (and a Catholic one at that) can say a mass. Even the dictionary defines it as "the celebration of the Eucharist or the Lord's supper," and gives no other or freer definition.

The bells could and did toll a requiem, but no bronze or iron can do what ordained manhood alone can solemnize.

In this day when words are used loosely and tend to lose entirely their own exact meaning due to carelessness or ignorance, it behooves newspaper men to hold the fort for exactitude.

NAVAL ENVOYS OF "BIG FIVE" FEAST IN OLD GUILDHALL

Scene Ablaze with Rich Jewels, Colored Sashes.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—In the five centuries old Guildhall—the huge, cathedral-like structure whose blackened rafters recall the great fire of 1666—the corporation of the city of London tonight entertained the delegations to the five power naval conference and 800 other guests at a formal reception and an official banquet.

Ancient customs and traditions, harking from medieval pageantry and still preserved, gave glamor and color to the staid formalities and made a deep impression on the overseas guests witnessing such an affair for the first time.

Parade Historic Uniforms.

The lord mayor, Sir William M. Waterlow, with an ostrich feathered hat and a black velvet gown encrusted with gold braid, and the scarlet coated sheriff, whose robes were trimmed in costly furs, welcomed each guest as he marched into the hall, announced by clarion voiced introducers.

Representatives of the ancient guilds of London—grocers, drapers, fishmongers, goldsmiths, skiners, tailors, salters, ironmongers, and vintners, were present with bailiffs carrying long halberds.

Uniforms were barred as not befitting the peaceful aims of a disarmament conference, and also because the Japanese forgot to fetch them. But the conventional black tail coat and glistening shirt fronts, livened up by decorations, medals and sashes, made a brilliant assemblage.

Riot of Color and Light.

Even Peggy Hopkins Joyce and Mabel Boll never wore as many huge, glittering baubles as did the diplomats, ambassadors, generals, admirals, and titled heads who were invited to the banquet tonight. With chest ablaze with rows of multicolored bits of ribbon denoting the possession of decorations from nations scattered all over the entire globe, the big shots also wore huge gold and silver plaques pinned over the heart, and giant pendants and crosses hung from vivid ribbons around their necks.

The Roman Catholic Cardinal Bourne arrived early in his scarlet hat and robes; then came the archbishop of Canterbury in a plum colored coat and knee breeches, with silk stockings and massive silver buckles on his pumps.

Decorations were conspicuously absent in three cases—those of American, French, and German ambassadors. The last named had no marks of orders anywhere since the reich has abolished imperial insignia, and iron crosses anyway are out of place here.

Secretary of State Stimson had two tiny bits of ribbon on his coat lapel, but Ambassador Dawes, Senator David Reed, Ambassador Hugh Gibson, who walked with a cane, and Col. Lindbergh's father-in-law, Dwight Morrow, were unadorned.

French Premier Tardieu, Foreign Minister Briand, Minister of Marine Georges Leygues, and Minister of Colonies Louis Pietri, also walked quietly in without a vestige of orders or medals.

Rear Admiral Hilary J. Jones was the first American to appear. He had five medals across his chest. Then came Rear Admiral William A. Moffett with ten medals, and then the first lord of the British admiralty, Albert V. Alexander, wearing only one. Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Berne, had no medals

Grandi Kisses Cardinal's Ring.

The Spanish ambassador, Merry del Val, dean of the diplomatic corps, arrived next with the world's highest collar. Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, appeared next with a brilliant green sash across his shirt. He kissed the ring of Cardinal Bourne. Fanfares then sounded for the appearance of the chief Japanese delegate, Reijiro Wakatsuki, and yellow coated buglers with long peaked caps, like jockeys, blew three long blasts.

Prime Minister MacDonald came next, and the Labor chief received a big reception from the capitalist leaders of London.

"The guests are prayed to make their way into the great hall and take their seats," bawled the assistant master of ceremonies, and the huge throng jammed the banquet hall.

The principal guests paraded from the room behind the demon buglers, two by two, the lord mayor and Premier Tardieu, Mr. MacDonald and the archbishop of Canterbury, Cardinal Bourne and the Spanish ambassador, Mr. Stimson and Sig. Grandi, and M. Briand and Mr. Wakatsuki.

The menu consisted of turtle soup, filet of sole, vol au vent sweetbread, baron of beef, roast chicken, watercress, orange jelly, iced pudding, and fruit, all washed down with sherry, sauterne, champagne, and port. Brandy and benedictine were served as liqueurs.

Yanks Call for Water.

Many of the guests—particularly the Americans—sent a hurry call to the waiters for mineral water. But none could escape quaffing the loving cup of spiced wine from the enormous silver flagon that was handed from one to another after coffee. The ritzy ones wiped off the rim of the cup with napkins before they drank.

Following an ancient custom, the lord mayor's private servitor handed him food and drink instead of the waiter. This is a relic of the old days when it was feared that the city governor might be poisoned.

Toasts were drunk to the king and the royal family, to President Hoover, to President Doumergue of France, to the king of Italy, and the emperor of Japan. Then the gentlemen lit up their cigarets and cigars.

The lord mayor, in introducing Premier Tardieu, emphasized the desire of big business to check naval competition and alleviate taxation in order to divert funds to furthering commerce.

The French premier stressed France's desire for an agreement, but he also reminded the audience that France has a colonial empire to protect.

Mr. MacDonald thanked the corporation of the city of London, and expressed hope that the conference might reach a successful conclusion.

The keen eyed Fascist delegate, Signor Grandi, made a striking appeal for Italy which could only be interpreted as Italy's resolve to have naval parity with France.

LONDON PARLEY IS 'HELL ON THE FEET' TO AMBASSADOR DAWES

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—As Ambassador Dawes returned to the American delegation's headquarters from a conference at St. James' palace, he was noticed to be limping.

"What have you done to your leg?" asked a newspaper man.

Mr. Dawes regarded the questioner a moment, then replied, "Diplomacy is not too hard on the brain, but it's hell on the feet."

Both Mrs. Stimson and Miss Isbel MacDonald were at the city's dinner to the conference delegates tonight at Guildhall. The dinner was for men only, but the premier's daughter discovered a small gallery from which she was able to peer down on the assemblage. Mrs. Stimson sat with her.

Although Ambassador Dawes abstains, he does not object to participating in a loving cup ceremony, such as that held at the Guildhall dinner tonight. When the cup came to him he took it, bowed, waved it under his nose, and passed it on without drinking. A Guildhall official said he doubted whether one guest in three actually drinks, adding "although the cup is wiped when passed from guest to guest, many are not sure that custom is altogether hygienic."

75 PARIS BANKERS JAILED IN GRAND SCANDAL EXPOSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Seventy-five Parisian bankers are spending the winter in La Santa, the famous prison here. "La Santa" means health in French, but the presence of so many big financial names on its register is not due to its pretention as a health resort as much as to the activity of the police in nosing about the capital's financial world.

One scandal has followed another during recent months, and more bankers are in jail now than ever before. Profiting from the tolerance of French prison officials for white collar clients, at least half of the imprisoned financiers are carrying on operations on the stock market from their cells. Reports that a ticker has been installed in La Santa have been denied.

Your physician will say

"Yes, give them Bottled Sunshine"

Your physician will tell you of a simple but very effective way to help children keep up to par in weight, vitality and endurance during the years of most rapid growth.

Child specialists find that Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil—given daily, builds up depleted vitality and increases general resistance to infections. It helps the underweight child to put on flesh and grow as he should.

The factors that make cod-liver oil such a valued health-builder are Vitamins A and D. Vitamin A promotes normal growth and nutrition, and increases resistance to infections. Vitamin D is the "sunshine vitamin" which growing children particularly need, since modern ways of living give them so little sunshine.

In prescribing cod-liver oil, thousands of physicians specify Squibb's. They advise it because it is tested and guaranteed to be very rich in the vitamins that protect, Vitamins A and D.

Ask your physician about Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil as a health-builder for your child. You can now get Squibb's Mint-flavored Cod-Liver Oil which appeals to older children especially. All good drug stores have it, as well as Squibb's Plain Cod-Liver Oil.

7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes of Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

You go to bed dog-tired, but the minute you hit the pillow all sleepiness vanishes. If you do sleep at all it's only in snatches and you wake out of these "stupors" with a strange, startled feeling, sometimes in a cold sweat. Morning finds you a rag, gaunt and hollow-eyed and barely able to crawl out of bed.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating habits, our excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes acid-indigestion with gas and heartburn. It causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal, which frequently results in ragged nerves, sleeplessness, loggy days and general loss of strength and vitality.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100 year old pharmaceutical house in Germany. As an acid corrective it begins where bicarbonate of soda leaves off. This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids, which do not have to be chewed, but which may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen! Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity, and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfect natural manner.

5-Day Acid Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this 5-day acid test. Get a bottle of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores and Economical Drug Stores or any other druggist on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal for five days. Mark the change in your physical condition—note how much more sound and restful your sleep and how much more cheerful and active your days. If you don't sleep better and have more "pep" and power, return the balance of the Magnesia Oxoids to the druggist and he will refund your money.

"BIG 5" MUFFLE VIEWS ON NAVIES AT FIRST SESSION

Speak of Generalities, Nothing Specific.

willing to go as low as any one else, and the lower the better.

After him Reijiro Wakatsuki of Japan spoke, but it is not known what sacred word he used, inasmuch as he spoke in Japanese. It was translated into relativity, so orthodoxy was preserved. He spoke of the relative character of naval armaments.

Even the five representatives of the British dominions, who were allowed only a few minutes each, gave the password. After that the conference adjourned.

The next plenary session, it was announced, will be held as soon as there is something for it to do, probably next week. It will be called by Mr. MacDonald.

Long Parley Looms.

This afternoon the "big five" with a few members of the secretariat sat for nearly two hours at 10 Downing street. According to a communique issued afterward, all signs point to a long conference. Mr. MacDonald asked delegation chiefs to consult him about collection, selection, and arrangement of questions which will be brought before the conference. After brief discussion of methods of procedure, the "big five" adjourned until Monday at 10 a. m.

Immediately after the plenary meeting, Mr. MacDonald held a press conference, at which he repudiated the idea of any effort to make it a "hush, hush" affair. He explained that it would be quite impossible to hold all discussions in public.

"If we did that the conference would be wrecked by the end of the week," he said.

He promised the utmost possible publicity, including submitting himself to interviews, with as many public sessions as possible.

Mr. MacDonald explained the difficulties of the negotiations between the powers, with their interconflicting claims and interests. He said that before anything could be done at plenary meetings, privats differences must be ironed out first among the nations themselves. He declared the first meeting was a friendly, businesslike gathering, with no hostile desire manifested by any delegate on the question of another's claims.

Italy Bargains with France.

It is learned tonight that naval bargaining has begun, Sig. Grandi having discussed with the French a proposal to support their viewpoint if France agrees to discuss with them the questions of Tunis and Tripoli.

It was discovered today that before any progress can be made some common standard of measurement on guns must be agreed upon. For instance, it has been found that the British six inch gun and the French 105 millimeter gun are different weapons, as are the British twelve inch and German 240 millimeter guns.

Five Chief Naval Envoys Outline Needs at Sea

LONDON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The first plenary session of the five power naval conference today was marked by speeches by the "Big Five"—the leading delegates from the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan, and Italy—giving general outlines on the needs of their nations. Following are the views they expressed.

We Want Equality with Great Britain—STIMSON.

Henry L. Stimson, the American secretary of state, said that he would not expand at the present time upon American naval needs, as it was well understood that the United States was looking to the conference for as much actual reduction as possible. The secretary said:

"After careful consideration and consultation with my colleagues I have decided not to make any statement today as to the naval requirements of America. I do not think that to do so would particularly assist our deliberations. These requirements are well understood.

"They have been cheerfully recognized by the nation which is our host, which has, through its prime minister, agreed with us that equality in naval power between us is the basis upon which we can best promote the beneficent purposes of this conference.

General Reduction First.

"We also believe that the requirements for national defense on the part of the various nations of the world are necessarily largely relative on the general condition of the world, and therefore, if this conference can find a way by which general reduction can be secured, our own navy can likewise be reduced.

"While this is our attitude, we shall gladly listen to any statements which may be made by others, as we are anxious fully and cordially to understand the difficulties and problems which may confront our sister nations, and for ourselves I shall not make any statement."

World Must Be Open for Food and Life—MACDONALD.

An official communique on today's conference session gives the following paraphrase of Prime Minister MacDonald's statement of Great Britain's naval needs:

"The prime minister said that his government was fully alive to the difficulty of relating national need to national defense, but sooner or later the conference must face its difficulties and resolve them.

"While a statement of needs was an important element, a claim for naval strength must always be related to risk. To build up a navy merely on need is an exceedingly foolish undertaking. Naval force and military force are required not because a country has certain economic needs and certain lengths of coast lines, and so on, but are based upon an estimate of how far there is a threat of deprivation of those needs, a threat to the security of those coast lines."

"Need and security must always be related. As figures, so far as the United Kingdom is concerned, had often been published, he did not quote them but confined himself to observations on three heads.

Why Britain Needs a Navy.

"First, he emphasized the insular position of the United Kingdom, which could not maintain its own population and therefore required access to the whole world without limitation, except for the ordinary legitimate limitations imposed by a sovereign authority outside, such as tariffs, and so forth.

"Therefore the British government's problem was to satisfy the will to live which lay at the foundation of our naval problem. The world must be open for food and life.

"Emphasizing the peculiar status of the British commonwealth, he added that British naval strength was required 'to enable our own kith and kin and the members of our own family to keep interrelations with the motherland.'

British Ships in All Seas.

"Secondly, he emphasized that the British naval forces are and must necessarily be dispersed in every sea in the world. They must be divided into three groups at the very least, with various subgroups not for fighting purposes, but for police and peace purposes.

"The navy could not be concentrated. It must be on the Pacific and on the Atlantic. Not, he repeated, for war purposes, but for peace and ordinary commonwealth purposes."

France Must Guard Its Widely Scattered Colonies—TARDIEU.

Premier Tardieu's statement emphasized the great extent of the coast line of the mother country and the vast extent of her colonies and other possessions for which France is responsible and which are widely scattered throughout the world.

Tre premier particularly stressed the fact that France's immense overseas possessions are second only to those of Great Britain. He spoke of the urgent necessity of always assuring communication between the mother country and the colonies and of protecting also by suitable forces tradal exchanges between the colonies themselves.

He refrained from any mention of naval requirements in terms of figures in his opening statement, but gave his hearers to understand that, from the viewpoint of absolute needs, they would have to be sufficient to take care adequately of France and her international position.

Premier Tardieu emphasized that from a military standpoint two duties devolve upon France, the gravity of which it would be superfluous to underline. Being obliged to keep a considerable strength in her overseas territories, France must first be able at all times to depend on her navy to assure her possibility of transporting necessary forces from or to any point of her empire. In the second place, France must be able for the defense of the mother country to use at any time her total resources.

Reduce Arms Compatible to Defense Needs—GRANDI.

Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy said that regarding the connection existing between the armaments requirements and security of a country, armaments should be reduced to the extent compatible with the defense needs of each country.

He said he could not state the Italian requirements in absolute figures because they were determined by the armaments of other countries.

"But Italy favors reducing armaments to the lowest level possible," he continued, "and therefore the Italian delegation is willing to leave it to the other powers to determine the size of their armaments, reserving to itself the right to regulate its own requirements by theirs.

"All our land communications must cross the barrier of the Alps and our maritime communications lie through straits situated a thousand miles from our ports.

"Italy is exclusively dependent for nearly all supplies essential to her existence on ocean-born imports, which therefore must come through the straits of Gibraltar or Suez, therefore being placed in a particularly unfavorable situation."

Lift Growing Tax and Aim at Peace—WAKATSUKI.

Reijiro Wakatsuki of Japan declared that it was desirable for the powers to reach an agreement about auxiliary craft on a new basis, but did not definitely outline the technical needs of his country in naval power.

His reference to an agreement on auxiliary craft on a new basis embodied his recent statements that Japan would demand seventy per cent of the maximum cruiser strength of the strongest naval power.

He said that the conference aimed at world peace and at relieving peoples from growing tax burdens. Affirming that international suspicion must be done away with, he declared that Japan was no menace to any nation and consequently would not permit herself to be menaced.

BRITISH CAPTURE NAVAL PUBLICITY; STIMSON SILENT

MacDonald Seizes Ear of World by Radio, Press.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The naval conference got down to business today with the British once more stealing a march on the United States in the manipulation of publicity. British statesmen, who are past masters at presenting their cause attractively to the world, plausibly and impressively repeated the methods by which they succeeded in capturing the limelight at Washington, Geneva, and other conferences in the past.

To begin with Prime Minister MacDonald, at the secret session of the conference, outlined Britain's national defense needs at considerable length while Secretary of State Stimson contented himself with uttering six sentences, stating that he would withhold the presentation of America's naval requirements pending the disclosures to the extent to which other nations were willing to reduce armaments.

Talks to 50 Correspondents.

Immediately following this session Mr. MacDonald executed the second British publicity coup. He appeared before more than 50 English speaking correspondents at St. James's palace, gave an account of what had taken place in the secret session, and answered questions. At the same time French Premier André Tardieu, in an adjoining room, was performing a similar function for French correspondents and for any other newspaper men desiring to question him on the French government's position on naval disarmament.

At no time during the day did Mr. Stimson receive American correspondents, although they sent him an inquiry through Hugh R. Wilson, minister to Switzerland, publicity officer for the American delegation. They asked whether he was going to accord the American press the same privilege of an interview as granted by the heads of the British and French delegations. The only answer obtainable was that Mr. Stimson would see the American correspondents whenever he deemed it necessary.

The British publicity operations today followed hard upon Mr. MacDonald's trans-Atlantic radio talk yesterday to the American public.

American Delegates Wake Up.

Awakening to the shrewd use the British are making of radio propaganda on the American public, so as to obtain a favorable attitude toward the British naval limitation program, the American delegation is now seeking to arrange a radio address to the British public by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams.

The inarticulateness of Mr. Stimson regarding the American aims at the conference and the needs for its national defense is in striking contrast with Mr. MacDonald's consummate skill in winning the sympathetic attitude of the American public during his visit to Washington last October.

Stimson Fails to Impress.

Within three hours after reaching Washington last fall Mr. MacDonald received American correspondents at the British embassy and talked so engagingly and with such apparent frankness on the British defense necessities and peace aspirations that the American press was virtually given over the following day to the presentation of the British cause in greatest detail and echoed for weeks with favorable comment on the visit of Mr. MacDonald.

In a similar manner Mr. Stimson received correspondents a few hours after he reached London. But there the similarity ended. He proved strangely inarticulate. He haltingly uttered a few commonplaces and, after parrying questions regarding the American conference position, he terminated the interview.

YANKEE NAVAL PARTY PLACES WREATH ON CENOTAPH IN LONDON

LONDON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The American delegation to the five power naval conference, led by Secretary of State Stimson, paid homage to the British war dead this afternoon by laying a wreath on the cenotaph in Whitehall.

Accompanied by all the delegates and two marines, bearing the wreath, Secretary Stimson placed the wreath at the foot of the monument.

Secretary Stimson, Ambassador Dawes and the other members of the delegation silently stood with bared heads before the cenotaph. Traffic was stopped during the ceremony.

Counterfeiter Suspect Held; Police Hunt Pals

Joe Miller, 37 years old, 1250 South Michigan avenue, was held at the detective bureau last night while the Chicago police and federal authorities were searching for members of a counterfeiting ring of which Miller is believed to be a member. When arrested yesterday at Washington street and Wabash avenue by Lieut. William Cox and his detective squad, Miller had $1,700 worth of counterfeit $50 and $100 bills in his pocket, and was armed with a revolver. He was questioned by secret service agents and then held incommunicado.

QUESTION TWO AS SUSPECTS IN $42,000 ROBBERY

Two men, known to the police as wagon thieves, who were arrested on suspicion yesterday, were being questioned at the detective bureau last night about the theft of a truckload of men's suits and overcoats, valued at $42,000, earlier in the day. The two men are Frank Pauley, 935 East 55th street, and James Radecke, 1500 West 17th street, who were arrested by Sergts. Frank Freemuth and Frank Starr at 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Last night an anonymous phone call to Lieut. Richard Barry informed him that the police could solve the clothing robbery if they found Pauley and Radecke. The pair were already in a cell at that time, and Barry immediately started an investigation.

The clothing was stolen from Dennis Kenny, 5545 South Lincoln street, by four men who boarded his truck at Taylor and Canal streets. They forced Kenny to enter their automobile and one of the gang drove the truck to a deserted garage at 510 Harrison street, where Kenny, an employé of the Illinois Tunnel company, was locked in a vault with four men who were at work repairing the vault. The bandits transferred the clothing, the property of the Hart, Schaffner & Marx company, to two smaller trucks and drove away. The imprisoned men released themselves.

CRIMINAL COURT.

James O'Brien, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Bernard Burgess and Harry Ford, robbery [changed to larceny], sentenced to 1 year in the House of Correction by Judge John J. Sullivan.

SOL BLOCH BEGINS TERM.

Sol Bloch, once a wealthy realty dealer, began serving a two year sentence in the Bridewell yesterday. He was convicted last July of pandering and keeping a disorderly house and was subsequently released on bond pending an appeal.

RAILWAY GIVES SIX DAY WEEK TO 3,000 WORKERS

A six day working week for nearly 3,000 Pennsylvania railroad shop employés who have been working seven days was announced yesterday by W. C. Higginbotham, general manager of the Pennsylvania's western region. The six day week will become effective on Feb. 1.

Because their work in connection with the operation of trains has necessitated a force on duty every day in the week, the shop employés have been on duty a full week in the past, Mr. Higginbotham said, but the cut in working hours was taken to provide an opportunity for rest and recreation. At the same time, he pointed out, the move will give employment to an additional number of men, in line with President Hoover's policy.

Working regulations under the new relief days plan were negotiated under the Pennsylvania's employé representation plan between the elected shop crafts committee of employés of the western region and the management of the road.

ASK TAX CASE HELP FOR NEW CANAL INQUIRY

As a preliminary move to an expected renewal of the investigation of sanitary district contracts and graft charges, First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northrup yesterday asked Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for permission to examine records of the U. S. A. company, electrical equipment dealers, which have been impounded.

George L. Chamberlain and other officials of the company have been indicted on income tax evasion charges and pending the trial the federal court retains the records, which are available only to attorneys for the prosecution and defense. Mr. Northrup's request was not granted immediately but he was required to give notice to attorneys for the company who will have an opportunity to argue against the state's having access to them.

State's Attorney Swanson returned home from Florida yesterday, but he had no comment to make regarding prosecution on indictments already voted in the inquiry.

How about yourself?

What makes you think that you haven't got halitosis (unpleasant breath), the social fault no one forgives?

One person out of three has halitosis—and doesn't know it. It never announces itself to the victim. It is prevalent because caused by common daily conditions (many of germ origin), arising in the mouth. If you wish people to like you, keep your breath beyond suspicion by rinsing the mouth with full strength Listerine which ends halitosis.

Kills germs — destroys odors

Listerine, used full strength, is an effective germicide which kills even the stubborn Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) in 15 seconds.

Therefore it combats odor-producing conditions in the mouth. Furthermore, being a powerful deodorant, it destroys the odors themselves.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

"It's our fourth Atwater Kent"

EVERY one of our Atwater Kent sets has been a thoroughbred. Every one a family friend.

We got the first one in 1923, seven years ago. It was one of those "open models." It would look funny now, like an old Cadillac, or the Wrights' first airplane. But it was the best radio in the world at that time.

Then we got an A. C. set when that came out two years ago, and regretfully we packed up the old battery set and sent it to my father, who lives on a farm without electricity. It works just as well as ever, after seven years. That's the way Atwater Kent builds them.

The A. C. set was a corker. I suppose we'd still be using it if we hadn't read that Atwater Kent had perfected the Electro-Dynamic speaker. We went right down to the store to hear it.

For the first time we heard on a radio the whole range of an orchestra—the high notes and the full, rich bass notes. It was a new delight, and we had to have it.

But now, Atwater Kent has revolutionized everybody's radio ideas again by bringing out the Screen-Grid set. When we first heard it at a friend's we were speechless. Such power and such tone! Then more power! Our friend astonished us by bringing in stations 'way out on the fringe of things—stations so far away that we hadn't even known they existed. Not thin little squeaks, either, but clear and true, with wonderful warmth of tone.

That was all we needed. Next day we had the man in the store send up this Screen-Grid cabinet set. We couldn't bear to part with our old one. It had served us too well. So we put it upstairs in a bedroom as second best.

Let me show you how this new one works. I'll turn on the big local station. Oh, a band! Hear all the instruments? Every one! No blurring! Ta-ta-tah! Ta-ta-tah! Can't you see the leader waving his baton? And listen while I turn down the power. There! You can scarcely hear the band, but it's just as true as when it was loud. That's control, isn't it?

Let's try another station. See, I hardly turn the dial at all, but the big local station is out, and another is in. I don't know what it is.

There's the announcement. Why, it's KMXL! That's 1500 miles away, and wouldn't you think it was right here in town!

Of course, you've noticed this cabinet! It's hard to tell which is more beautiful, the cabinet or the tone. And yet the price was not high. Every time we have bought a new Atwater Kent, we have been pleasantly surprised at the price. It wasn't the price that sold us, though. It was the radio.

URGE RODENBERG AS G. O. P. WET IN SENATE PRIMARY

Plan City Headquarters as Bid to Race.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Efforts to bring a wet candidate into the Republican primary battle for the United States senatorship, it was reported yesterday, have been concentrated largely upon William A. Rodenberg, former congressman from the Twenty-second or East St. Louis district.

Rodenberg has not consented to run, it was said, but plans have been made to open a Chicago headquarters for a definite movement to bring him into the race. The exact degree of his wetness in the event of his candidacy has not ben disclosed, but the effort to get him to run is said to be supported by German-American groups who predict he would receive the solid German vote even on a mere modification plan.

Hope to Get Consent.

His name has been mentioned in this connection for several months and the reports during that period have been that he would not consent; but the proponents of the present plan are said to be confident that if they can make a strong enough showing of his chances of winning they can persuade him to make the race.

Both the major candidates for the senate opening this year, Senator Deneen and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, congressman at large, have dry records, and a third candidate, Newton Jenkins, has made no public declaration on the prohibition issue.

Former Congressman Rodenberg is a Washington veteran. He was first sent to congress in 1890, but served only one term at that time. He was United States civil service commissioner in 1901 and 1902, and in the latter year was elected again to congress, this time serving five terms for a total of ten years. He was sent to Washington by his district once more in 1915 and served another eight years, retiring voluntarily in 1923.

Jenkins Claims Economic Issue.

In a formal statement issued yesterday Newton Jenkins disagreed with the general opinion that the present campaign will turn largely upon personalities. He insisted that issues will control, the most important being the economic, particularly the agricultural question.

Cook county Democrats were given a new topic to talk about when it became known that Sheriff Traeger is backing his son, John E. Traeger Jr., to succeed him in office.

Efforts to run down rumors of a substantial effort to establish harmony among all the Republican factions of the county brought expressions of skepticism from the leaders of the principal groups in that party camp.

ILLINOIS MINER UNION DEFEATS LEWIS IN COURT

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—(AP)—While State President Harry Fishwick of the United Mine Workers of America and other Illinois officers were expressing elation over a Circuit court victory in their battle with International President John L. Lewis this afternoon, the national head of the union was quietly perfecting an appeal to the Appellate court of the state.

In a decree issued here this morning, Circuit Judge Norman L. Jones upheld the legality of the actions of Fishwick in resisting Lewis' effort to oust state officers and set up a provisional government for the state union. Judge Jones refused to dissolve a temporary injunction restraining Lewis from evicting the state union chiefs, holding that the international president was without power to summarily discharge any of the elective officers.

West Suburban Car Line Authorized to Run Buses

The Illinois commerce commission at Springfield yesterday issued orders for the installation of bus service by the Chicago and West Towns Railroad company. One order authorizes service in 25th avenue from Madison street to Bellwood on the north and to Roosevelt road in Broadview on the south, and in Roosevelt road from 25th avenue to 17th avenue, Broadview. The company is authorized to abandon surface car service and substitute buses in St. Charles road between 8th and 19th avenues, Maywood.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bruins took a second step on the title path last night, defeating the Brooklyn Visitations, 22 to 21. Not only did the victory sweep the Brooklyn series but the manner of its accomplishment predicted many more.

The pair of Nats, Hickey and Holman, the newest star in the Bruin lineup, led in the smooth working offense which came from behind in the second half to earn the scant decision. Even so, all five of the Chicago players contributed to the victory, particularly in handling the ball. There was slight waste of effort and the ball moved from hand to hand with greater speed and accuracy than in any game this season.

Nat Hickey scored four field goals, three of which came in the first half to aid in establishing a 12 to 8 lead at the intermission. Nat Holman counted twice in the second half after registering a penalty toss in the first period. Holman's first field goal—his first since he has joined the Bruins—sent his team into the lead. A minute later Brooklyn again jumped to the front, but the two Nats scored in succession to assure the final triumph.

Eighteen Fouls Called.

That last twenty minutes was thrilling basketball. It was cleanly played. Only six fouls were called on Brooklyn, and while Chicago was penalized 11 times, none of the fouls resulted from the holding and pushing which had caused several hundred fans to riot on the floor Wednesday night.

The lead changed six times in the half. Pat Herlihy, Brooklyn center, was the scoring ace. Taller than his mates, he utilized height not only to get possession of tipoffs, but he took the ball off the Bruin back board in faultless fashion.

Pat was the sharpshooter, scoring six field goals. Five came in the second half and produced ten of the 11 points Brooklyn made. Three times he sped under the basket a step ahead of his guard, Al Kellett, to loop in short tosses. The others were shots from center court.

Williams' free throw, a basket by Herlihy and then a one hand toss by Red Conaty reduced the Bruins' half time lead. Kellett dribbled under and scored, and Chicago led, 14 to 11. Again Pat scored and repeated almost immediately to establish a three point margin for Brooklyn.

Holman's Goal Spectacular.

With eight minutes remaining, Roney Russell shot from close in, after taking a bullet pass from Holman. Then came Holman's first field goal, a spectacular one hand effort topping off a series of lightning passes with Russell.

But once again Herlihy was equal to the occasion and his short shot gave Brooklyn a short lived 19 to 18 count. It was short lived for the Nats cut loose, Hickey scoring in a quick dribble to the goal, and Holman duplicating the maneuver, although Williams clung to his arm as he shot.

Three points in front and less than four minutes to play was the setting for the Bruins' delayed offense. This attack opened up the Brooklyn defense but the Chicagoans failed to add to their lead.

Then to cap the game Herlihy dropped in a long, arching shot from a step back of the center circle. The remaining ten seconds found the ball in the Bruins' possession.

In the preliminary games the Taylor Trunks defeated the Lincoln A. C. girls, 36 to 9, and the Athas five won from the Progressives, 22 to 10.

WISCONSIN WINS OVERTIME GAME FROM INDIANA

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Wisconsin tonight whipped Indiana, 23 to 21, in the most exciting game ever played in the Indiana field house. An overtime period was required for a decision. The score was 19 to 19 at the end of regulation time.

Wisconsin, with a 19 to 17 lead, attempted to stall the last two minutes of the game, but Capt. Branch McCracken knotted the score with a beautiful under basket drive. Indiana gained possession of the ball on the next tipoff, but stalled the last half minute to try for a win in the overtime period.

Cheimelewski, who had been playing a good floor game, sank a one handed shot from the corner of the field to put the Badgers in the lead. McCracken brought the crowd to its feet with an under the basket shot to tie the score at 21-21. Matthusen buried Crimson hopes for a victory with a beautiful basket back of the foul line. The Badgers then went back into a huddle to stall out the remaining minute.

Failure to make good its chances from the foul circle played a big part in Indiana's defeat. Only three tosses in nine attempts were made good. Wisconsin made good on five out of 10 tries. The Crimson connected with nine field goals while the Badgers counted the same.

The score was tied five times during the regular period and once in the overtime session. Score:

Mrs. Melvin Jones Gains Pan-American Golf Final

Edgewater Park, Miss., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Melvin Jones, Olympia Fields champion of Chicago, today defeated Mrs. Ralph W. Connors of The Dells, Wis., 6 and 5, in the 18 hole semi-final of the Pan-American women's amateur golf tournament here. Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake of New Orleans and New York won her round from Mrs. Ruth Reymond of Baton Rouge, La., 4 and 3. Mrs. Lake and Mrs. Jones will play the 36 hole final tomorrow.

Michal Wins Indoor Tourney Over Real Greens with 72

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Tales of golf tournaments at this season of the year usually bear a date line of somewhere in the sunshine belt of the south, but this piece concerns a golf tournament played on real grass in Chicago yesterday. While the winds drove snowflakes against the glass walls and the mercury outside flirted with zero, members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery association played golf on bent greens in shirt sleeves.

The answer to the paradox is an experiment by Peter Pierson, a florist, and his son-in-law, Ray Daniels, golf professional, who have built a miniature golf course in a greenhouse at 7700 Gunnison avenue. Bordered with tiny pines and poinsettas in bloom they've brought a bit of Florida to the north, the first real grass winter course in Chicago and probably in the country.

The course, an innovation in winter golf, is a full 18 holes, ranging from six to fifty feet in length. The entire course is sodded with Washington bent, giving a golfer the same conditions under which he would putt in midsummer. At present it is not in perfect condition, but it was installed only five weeks ago and it compares favorably with outdoor greens in May.

The course was begun as an experiment but it has worked out so successfully the owners are planning a winter country club. Driving nets have been built and they are considering the practicality of installing "sunshine" lights to further the illusion of summer.

John A. Michal of Olympia Fields won the Florists' tournament with an even par total of 39—33—72 for 36 holes. He had seven aces but lost three shots to par one of the tricky holes, with a five. That was only one shot in front of Eric Johnson of Medinah, 37—36—73, who spoiled five aces by adding six 3s. R. D. Stephan of Delavan was third, with 38—36—74, also with seven 1s, but six 3s and a 4.

The leading scores follow:

John A. Michal	39	33	72
Eric Johnson	37	36	73
R. D. Stephan	38	36	74
Frank Lewis	38	37	75
Homer Lange	38	38	76

Fields Fights Sturdy Foe; Unveil Carnera Tonight

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago fight fans who carried a slight grouch out of the Chicago Stadium the last time they were there, all because Welter weight Champion Jackie Fields hadn't been supplied with an adversary able to smack him on the nose a bit, have a chance to sweeten their dispositions tonight.

VINCE DUNDEE.

Tonight Mr. Fields will be provided with no setup when he throws off his robe and goes to work in the Stadium ring. Sig. Vince Dundee will be on the same platform, and this Vince already has shown a willingness and an ability to pop Champion Jackie with persistence.

It will be the champion's last appearance in Chicago for a long time, and he naturally will want to leave the town with all the ringside boys thinking well of his artistic attainments.

Fields Gets Himself a Fight.

The fight should be a good one, even if it doesn't carry the important quality of being a championship encounter. It would seem that Fields, who has been putting Chicago in a tank town class with his insistence upon matches that have been less than gym workouts, has been wise in getting himself into a real fight before he leaves town. When he comes back, it is hoped, there will be some plan in vogue which will preclude the booking of pushover exhibitions under the guise of actual fights.

It is possible that before Jackie gets back to town the Stadium will have a system of "Stadium championships." A world champion may not be willing to risk his world championship, but if he fights in the Stadium he'll be fighting for the "Stadium championship," according to the suggested plan.

This won't mean so much to world champions, perhaps, but it will have a bearing on the men who fight champions in what otherwise would be nontitle bouts.

Demands Title Go if He Wins.

Those who have suggested the scheme point out that if Dundee were to whip Fields tonight, weighing 152, it would have little significance, generally considered. With the "Stadium championships" in vogue Dundee would go down as the institution's champ and future matchmaking and purses would be arranged with that bit of prestige in view.

Although Dundee will be five pounds over the welterweight limit, the bout will have a championship tinge, for Vince says that he can get down to 147 in the summer time and that if he whips Jackie tonight he'll make the weight and ask for a championship fight for the summer season after Jackie completes his visits to Great Britain.

The semi-windup, like the main bout, is a return engagement. Irish Jack Pilkington and Tony Herrera have the spot, and each thinks he some day will be the lightweight champion. Insofar as the two boys' mutual affairs are concerned, Pilkington to date has the edge.

Primo Carnera Tonight

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 23.—Primo Carnera, the large Italian pugilist who eats so much that he thought it his patriotic duty to leave Italy, will make his first appearance in America tomorrow evening, after three weeks on Broadway, during which he learned such American words as goneff, kibitzer, and kishkis.

PRIMO CARNERA.

His adversary for his inaugural performance at the Garden will be one Clayton [Big Boy] Peterson, a chap who wears horizontal creases across his anatomy, wrought there by his habit of folding up. Clayton [Big Boy] Peterson was picked to oppose Primo by the New York prize fight commissioners, after a thorough canvass of the applicants for the assignment, on the ground that he would not be likely to hurt Primo and would be reasonably certain to fold himself away like a disappearing bed before Primo could hurt him.

Carnera Supposed to Win.

It seems that Big Boy is supposed to fold at the first touch on a sensitive spot, and the gossip of the trade has it that he is sensitive all over. Whether this is accurate information or not—and Mr. Peterson says it is greatly exaggerated—the fact remains that the New York prize fight commissioners deemed it so when they chose Clayton [Big Boy] Peterson.

The prize fight commissioners seemed to realize that their nominee, Peterson, would not be likely to entertain the customers for any extended time, so they stipulated that the Garden corporation must not charge any customer more than $5 to witness the unveiling of the mastodonic circus hand whose managers state that he lost his job with the circus for slapping the elephants around.

Primo has been taking boxing lessons in private from Honest Abe Attell, the old featherweight champion, and Mr. Pete [the Goat] Stone, one of his domestic managers, states that he has been stepping about with feline grace and agility.

"He is only a big, good natured kid," Mr. Stone reports, "with just enough of the tiger in him to make him dangerous when aroused. We have been calling him names to arouse him but, personally I have had nothing to do with this because I do not drink, smoke or swear, and anyway Stanley Ketchell was a killer, too, and when I went to arouse him about 11:30 one morning to do his road work he shot me in the foot."

The Great Feet Mystery.

The finger of suspicion has been pointed at Primo's shoes since he came here and it is now alleged that they are exhibition shoes and not entirely filled with feet. Mr. John Broderick, the lieutenant of detectives regularly assigned to see that the boys do not inscribe any coarse mottoes on the Tunney memorial monument in the lobby of Madison Square Garden, investigated the report about Primo's feet when he entered the lobby

Freeman Brothers Lose 8 Rounders on Mullen's Card

Chuck Heffner of Denver and Chip Freeman of Buffalo last night supplied Promoter Jim Mullen and 1,000 customers at the Jai Alai fronton with a lively windup, which resulted in an eight round decision for Chuck. Johnny Freeman, brother of Chip, also lost, dropping an eight round verdict to King Levinsky of Chicago.

The results of the other matches on the card:

Danny Delmont [Chicago] beat Ted Henry [Chicago] in 8 rounds.
Charley Retzlaff [Duluth] stopped Art Malay [Chicago] in first round.
Al Jerome [New Orleans] beat Wilbur Chevalier [Bay City] in 6 rounds.
Bud Hodge [Chicago] beat Joe Lunette [Chicago] in 4 rounds.

Retzlaff's victory was his third knockout in the first round in his last four fights.

WHO'RE LIKELY DERBY WINNERS? CONROY, SATLER?

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Out of a field of 3,000 boys and girls who will compete in THE TRIBUNE'S fourteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies in Garfield park tomorrow and Sunday, three stand out as prospective winners.

Art Conroy is favored to win the men's senior race. He is one of the country's leading class A skaters. Conroy has won two pairs of Silver Skates. In 1927 he took the junior event and was first over the line in the boys' intermediate last year. If he wins the feature race Sunday, he will be the first contestant in the history of the races to capture three Derbies.

Last year Priscilla Richey won the girls' junior. Miss Richey is bent on winning the girls' senior, and if she is successful again she will be the third girl to win two pairs of skates. Lois Littlejohn won the junior skates in 1923 and senior in 1926. Elizabeth DuBois also won twice.

Satler in Boys' Junior.

Francis Satler, winner of the juvenile last year, will compete in the boys' junior and will try to win his second pair of skates. This youngster stands a chance to win four pairs of skates. He will go to the mark one of the favorites in the junior Derby.

While nearly every race has its favorite, allowances must be made for dark horses in any athletic competition. Some of the best skaters may be boxed on the turns. They may even be left at the post.

In the longer races a special award will be made to the skater who sets pace for the greatest number of laps While finalists are jockeying for positions, an unknown trying for the lap prize may get out in front so far that the favorites may be unable to overtake him. Bob Reed almost did it four years ago.

Fast Track; Sharpen Skates.

Many of the entrants competed in the board of education finals last night at Garfield park to tune up for THE TRIBUNE races. The ice is lightning fast, and all contestants should see that their skates are sharpened. The surface will be scraped tonight and flooded tomorrow morning.

Trials in the boys' juvenile and boys' junior will be held tomorrow afternoon starting at 2 o'clock. Numbers must be called for half an hour earlier. The number to qualify for Sunday's finals will be announced by officials. The Sunday program will open promptly at 1 o'clock and all numbers must be obtained half an hour earlier. Trial heats in the boys' intermediate Derby will open the day's racing.

HARRISON HANDS CRANE QUINTETS DOUBLE DEFEAT

[Other prep news on page 23.]

Harrison Tech heavyweights produced a triple tie for the lead in the west section of the City league yesterday by defeating Crane Tech, 17 to 16, on the former's floor. The league champions' loss put them in first place with Harrison and Marshall, each with three victories and one defeat.

The Harrison lightweights continued to set a sectional pace by handing the Crane ponies a 28 to 18 defeat. It was the Hornets' fifth consecutive league victory.

The Harrison heavies were forced to come from behind to tumble the champions. Crane led, 6 to 4, at the end of the first quarter; 10 to 9, at the half, and 15 to 13 at the end of the third period. Gene Godina opened the last quarter by sinking a pair of free throws to tie the score. Walt Osty then put Harrison ahead with a stepin shot. Milt Bocek made Crane's last point on a free throw. Capt. Stonz Melino had an opportunity to tie the score on a free throw in the last fifteen seconds but missed. Lineup:

$10,000 FOR TWO STROKES

GENE'S 68 ON LAST ROUND IS COURSE RECORD

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Ten thousand dollars was pocketed by Gene Sarazen, of New York, tonight for four days of golf here. It was the biggest money purse ever offered in tournament play. He galloped into leadership of the Agua Caliente open, just as he broke into fame in 1922.

Coming from behind he established the course record here with a 68, but instead of taking a one stroke lead as he did in the 1922 national open from Bobby Jones and John Black at Skokie, today he passed up Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., and Al Espinosa, of Chicago by two strokes.

52 Pros, 6 Amateurs Play.

The jingle of the $10,000 first award may have jangled the nerves of the fifty-two professionals who were playing with six amateurs in the most colorful of all golf tournaments. The winnings came high. They were:

Gene Sarazen	$10,000	B. Cruickshk'k	375
Al Espinosa	3,750	Charles Guest	375
Horton Smith	3,750	Paul Runyon	235
Olin Dutra	1,250	Johnny Farrell	235
Mortie Dutra	1,250	Abe Espinosa	200
M'Don'd Smith	750	Harold Long	200
Al Watrous	650	Harry Cooper	200
Joe Kirkwood	550	Neil Christian	200
Henry Ciuci	450	Leo Diegel	200

That's what some people get for playing golf. There are those tonight who feel that Dame Luck has just turned against them. Take Walter Hagen of Detroit, for instance. He came here with the record of $80 won in tournament play this year and failed to change that record.

This is the way the stocky little winner of the biggest prize yet offered came in today to collect his $10,000:

Par—Out	443	444	453—35
Sarazen	433	443	443—39
Par—In	435	443	454—36—71
Sarazen	645	442	344—36—80

On the three preceding days he rambled through the rain soaked course Monday and the driving wind Tuesday and Wednesday with a 75—73—79.

Horton Smith, the best money winner in golf, had to be satisfied with $3,750 today.

Smith—Out	443	443	453—34
Smith—In	645	443	454—39—73

Smith went through the four days as follows: 74—73—77—73—297.

Al Espinosa of Chicago split the second and third money with Horton Smith by a card of 73 today.

Von Elm Makes 70.

Low cards bring up the other matter of this tournament, the amateurs. There was the blonde, George von Elm of Detroit. He played a brilliant game, four birdies today helping him to card out 70, one under par. He and Sarazen were the only ones to break par on this new course.

George was among the six high with his 298, and had he been a professional he would have taken about $833 home instead of the silver fitted traveling case.

Johnny Dawson, Chicago amateur, also placed himself in the playing range of money winners, making the 72 holes in 306, bracketed with those who got a $200 check each.

The leading scores follow:

Gene Sarazen, New York	286
Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo	297
Al Espinosa, Chicago	297
Mortie Dutra, Tacoma, Wash	298
*George Von Elm, Detroit	298

In the Wake of the News

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Thirty years ago when Grand boulevard was covered with deep snow, racing was the main sport on Saturdays and Sundays. There were many cutter brushes along this speedway from 35th street to 51st, and later regular matinée programs were held.

Appearance of Dr. William E. Hull of 35th and State behind a pair of beautiful bays always was the signal for a brush with W. D. O'Brien, famous "boss contractor," who drove the pacer Mary Taylor to a red cutter. Others, many from the "yards," joined the sport. Among the neighbors watching the races were D. Harry Hammer, Huntington Henry, Sid McHie, Dr. Watkins, and Thomas Wickes.

The Academy of Music, then and still located on Halsted street, once was known as the largest and most elegant "Temple of the Drama" in Chicago. All the recognized popular stars played on its stage to a refined audience. Patrons were given pretentious entertainment nightly and on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. Reserved seats were on sale at all principal hotels [1872]. F. R.

Stopping Rasslin'.

Placing a ban on heavyweight wrestling in Illinois is not so important in itself because heavyweight wrestling is not important, but it indicates that the present state athletic commission purposes constructive action and intends to protect a public which often is unwilling to protect itself.

The Wake, for years, has attended wrestling matches only for the spectacle. We did not know, although we suspected, whether or not we were seeing an honest contest. Once when we advanced that argument to a promoter seeking publicity, he replied, "Well, what of it? Doesn't the public see a show? The best man nearly always wins, doesn't he? The exhibitions, as you call them, are better to watch than bouts on their merits. Why, the public would walk out on most square bouts."

Wisconsin Basketball.

Dear Harvey: THE TRIBUNE story of the Wisconsin-Illinois basketball game last Saturday, which, of course, Wisconsin won, spoke rather razzingly of the Badgers' stalling methods in the last half.

Wisconsin is a defensive team. It rarely piles up large scores. Stalling by a team with a comfortable lead in the last half is good defense. Illinois had five men on the floor. If Wisconsin held the ball for 4½ minutes, why didn't the Illini take it away from the Badgers? R. H. M., Wisconsin '25.

The Wake has observed stalling in basketball for several years. We have discovered that when it is done by the home team it is clever, but when perpetrated by the visitors it is unsportsmanlike.

Becker Puts an End to That "First Robin" Myth

BY BOB BECKER.

It won't be long now before some keen eyed bird fan will report the so called "first robin" of the season. Some forlorn bird that will gratefully accept a handout will be seen and instantly it will be put down as a migrant, the first to come north.

However, as thrilling as the first robin of the season is, to weary snow shovelers and others who do not care much for middle western winter the "first robin of the season" reports in late January or February are not to be taken seriously. Birds seen are merely those that elected to stay around all winter instead of going south to more hospitable and warmer localities. A migrating robin may come north early in the spring and great flocks of them do every year but they don't show up the last week in January or early in February, not in northern Illinois or adjacent country.

The winter residents (first robins) usually have some source of food for the winter or they won't attempt to buck the heavy snow and low temperature. During the severest weather these birds do not range much. When a warm spell comes along they step out a little and then, as a rule, are seen as "first robins."

Even the mocking bird has been induced to stay near Chicago by interested bird fans who maintained a feed station for it. Up our way close to the shore of Lake Michigan cardinals are apt to stick around all winter.

Last year some red headed woodpeckers spent the winter along the north shore and fared very well. There was an ample supply of acorns on the oaks, so the red heads scorned to make the trip south.

So it goes with several of our common species of song birds. Give them a break on food and some will stay around through the winter.

JOCKEY HERO REDEEMS SELF IN STABLE FIRE

New Orleans, La., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The heroism of Jockey Joe Cavens returned him into the good graces of officials of the Louisiana Jockey club here today. The boy endangered his life early this morning to save some of the thoroughbreds from the burning stables at Fairgrounds race track.

Jockey Cavens was indefinitely suspended for whipping Film over the head on Jan. 2. In the flames that burned to death seventeen horses, destroyed two barns, and injured three men, the jockey's heroic efforts redeemed him in the eyes of the stewards, and he was restored to good standing.

Oil Heater Starts Fire.

Three men—Wilfred May, apprentice jockey, and J. W. Smith and Phil Chartman, stablemen — were badly burned before they could be rescued. The fire is believed to have originated in the explosion of an oil heater which Smith was attempting to light. The men were taken to a hospital.

Horses which were saved were let loose and trainers and stablemen were busy for hours after the blaze was extinguished rounding them up. Only four horses stabled in barn 24 were led to safety, and one of these, Yours Truly, was so badly burned it was expected to die.

15 Thoroughbreds Die.

The thoroughbreds which perished and their owners were:

Maj. R. Nicholas stable—Pik-quik, Flapjack.
E. Hinton stable—Dude Girl.
Pellettrie stable—Counsellor Connelly, Ms Fol.
J. R. Clark stable—Coreopsis, Bloomtonia, Rogues' Gold.

ANGLO-AMERICAN GOLF MATCH FOR WOMEN PLANNED

LONDON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A decision on the question of Anglo-American team golf matches among women similar to the men's Walker Cup series is expected Feb. 13 at the annual meeting of the British Ladies' Golf union. England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales will be represented.

If the plan is approved a match between an American team led by Glenna Collett and an English aggregation is likely to be played in England in May when the United States champion again seeks the British title which has barely escaped her three times.

PLASTERERS TOP AURORA BOWLING; FLORALS SECOND

Auroda, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The Henderson Plasterers of Chicago rolled into first place in the interstate bowling tournament here tonight with a score of 3,195. They staged a duel for the lead with the Duffy Florals, also of Chicago. The Florals collected 3,194. The five rolled side by side and the lead was not determined until Hank Marino, anchor man for the Florals left the No. 10 pin standing on a perfect hit in the last frame. The Plasterers replace the Plankintons of Milwaukee, who had been leading with 3,117.

French Players Take Own Wine for Irish Game

PARIS, Jan. 23.—(AP)—With one hundred liters of good red wine in their luggage, France's international rugby team left Paris this afternoon to play Ireland at Belfast on Saturday.

The French players always complained in previous years that they missed their own wine when they played in Ireland, Scotland, and England, having trained on a particular brand of it. This year Jules Cadenat, former French international who is handling the team, took along four eight-gallon kegs of Bordeaux's best "Vin Rouge." The wine will be passed free by British customs officers

Loyola Comes from Behind to Win, 18-13

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 23—Overcoming a 3 point margin in the second half, Loyola university of Chicago tonight scored its thirty-third straight basketball triumph, at the expense of St. Xavier college, 18 to 13.

As in their previous engagement at Chicago, which was won by Loyola by the same score, the Ramblers had difficulty in breaking through the St. Xavier defense until late in the final period. St. Xavier led by 8 to 5 at the half, but Durburg, who replaced Schuhman at guard, dropped in two field goals in quick succession to put Loyola in the lead.

St. Xavier came back with a quick assault and with but four minutes to play had a 13 to 11 margin. Here Loyola again took charge of the situation and while the Musketeers were being held scoreless, Murphy, Waesco, and Flynn accounted for 7 points.

End Such Troubles!

HE THOUGHT HE WAS SAFE. His radiator was muffled, and it didn't seem so cold. Besides, he had been lucky and hadn't had any serious trouble before. But along came a sudden cold snap, a heavy snow, and when he went to start his car, he found it frozen solid. Here he is trying to thaw it out. Had he been really careful, he would have avoided such trouble. For the instruction books of every automobile manufacturer tell motorists to use Denatured Alcohol for complete protection. It's safe, won't "gum-up" expensive motors, and costs so little you can afford to use plenty of it. This motorist won't take a chance next time. LYONS FIGHTER ENTERS GOLDEN GLOVES TRIALS

Cecil Bud Goodrich, heavyweight from Lyons, Ill., yesterday sent in his entry for THE TRIBUNE Golden Gloves amateur boxing tourney, trials for which will be held in three sections of Chicago Feb. 11, 14, and 17.

Goodrich is prominent in local amateur ranks. He has won most of his fights by knockouts. He will compete in the southern section trials at White City.

Willie Wolcott, south side colored fighter, will compete as a lightweight in the White City trials. Wolcott has had two years of experience. He will represent the South Side Boys' club. Terry Groark, south side light heavyweight, also will box at White City. Wilbur Zoller, a welterweight, will fight at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium trials.

Although individual entries arrive daily, no nominations have been received from club captains and managers. Every association conducting amateur shows, it is expected, will be represented by full teams. Frankie Mastro is building a strong team at the West Side K. of C. He plans a few more trials before picking his team. The Belle Plaine A. C. is rounding up a squad. Johnny Coulon, former worlds' bantamweight champion, who has a gymnasium on the south side, also is developing a team entry. Dave Barry will have a squad to represent his gymnasium, as will Kid Howard, owner of the Arcade.

Boxers should remember they must be registered with the A. A. U. Many entries have been received, but no registration numbers appear on the blanks. Registration may be made with Roy E. Davis, 538 South Clark street.

NORTHWESTERN, C. A. A. SWIMMERS IN MEET TONIGHT

World swimming records as well as several intercollegiate marks will be threatened tonight when the strong Chicago Athletic association aquatic team meets Northwestern university's swimmers at Patten gymnasium. Both teams possess stars of record breaking caliber.

The Cherry Circle splashers nosed out the Purple in a recent dual meet. Following the swimming meet the water polo teams will clash.

The Northwestern team defeated the C. A. A., 3 to 2, in their last encounter, which was regarded as something of an upset, since the club team holds the National A. A. U. championship.

Five members of the Cherry Circle team are former Northwestern swimming captains and will compete against their alma mater. The Purple stars are Dick Howell, Ralph Breyer, Wally Colbath, Paul Corbett, and Harry Daniels.

One of the feature races on the program will be the 160 yard relay in which the C. A. A. quartet holds the world record. Northwestern held the former mark at 1:14.4, but the club swimmers stroked the distance in 1:14 flat in their recent clash with the Purple.

SCOTT ARRIVES FROM ENGLAND; GOES SOUTH SOON

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Phil Scott, British heavyweight champion, who is scheduled to fight Jack Sharkey at Miami, Feb. 27, arrived today on the White Star liner Homeric from Southampton. The fighter was chaperoned by his British representative, Charles Rose, and was greeted at the dock by Jimmy Johnston, his American pilot.

Scott and his entourage of managers and trainers are expected to leave soon for Florida where the English heavyweight contender will start training for his bout with Sharkey.

Hitchcock's 10 Goals Top Polo Ratings

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Tommy Hitchcock Jr., with a perfect ranking of ten goals, and Winston Guest at nine goals, still head the list of American polo players.

TOMMY HITCHCOCK.

Numerous changes in the handicap list of the United States Polo association were announced today for 1930, but this hard hitting, hard riding pair of internationalists retained their 1929 eminence.

The California contingent registered a decided advance, led by E. J. Boeseke Jr. of the Santa Barbara Polo club, who was the only player to be added to the eight goal ranks.

Three players, on the other hand, were reduced from eight goals to seven. They were: J. Cheever Cowdin and W. A. Harriman, Sands Point, and Harry East, Hunting Valley.

An unusual feature was the presence of two British players in the high ranking group—Gerald Balding and Aiden Roark—both of whom were boosted from six to seven goals. Roark is affiliated with the Del Monte Polo club.

Chicagoan's Handicap Raised.

C. C. [Tex] Crawford of the Oakbrook Polo club of Chicago was raised from five to six, while S. B. Iglehart of Yale and Stephen Sanford of the Westchester Polo club, moved down from seven to six. Iglehart and E. T. Gerry of Harvard, who was cut from six to five, were members of the sensational Old Aiken team which won the junior championship.

Maj. C. C. [Square] Smith, a member of the Fort Leavenworth (Kas.) four, was among those raised from four to five. Maj. Smith competed in major tournaments at Chicago last summer, there adding to his reputation by hard, accurate hitting and expert riding.

The High Ranking 16.

The charmed circle of 16 players ranked at seven goals or more follows:

Ten goals—Thomas Hitchcock Jr., Aiken (S. C.) Polo club.

Nine goals—F. W. C. Guest, Meadowbrook club, Westbury, N. Y.

Eight goals—Malcolm Stevens, Meadowbrook club; J. Watson Webb, Meadowbrook club; Eric Pedley, Midwick Country club, Pasadena; A. P. Perkins, Midwick; E. A. S. Hopping, unattached; E. J. Boeseke Jr., Santa Barbara Polo club.

Seven goals—J. Cheever Cowdin, Sands Point club; Harry East, Hunting Valley Polo club; W. A. Harriman, Sands Point club; Aiden Roark, Del Monte Polo club; Gerald Balding, unattached; E. W. Hopping, Bryn Mawr, Pa.; R. E. Strawbridge Jr., Bryn Mawr, and Cecil Smith, Austin (Tex.) Polo club.

SENATORS SIGN INFIELDER.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Elmer Peters, third baseman of the North Platte [Neb.] State league club, was purchased today by the Springfield Three-Eye club.

WAUKEGAN BEATS KENOSHA.

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Waukegan High school carers defeated Kenosha here tonight, 17 to 15.

Austin Trims Medill, 27-21; Fenger and Parker Divide

Austin lightweights scored their second victory in the west section of the City league yesterday by defeating Medill, 27 to 21, at the Austin Y. M. C. A. Capt. Milt Rosenfeld became one of the league's high scorers by dropping in eight field goals and four free throws. Capt. Cohen, Lerman, and Yacilla featured for Medill. Lineup:

SENN IN THREE OVERTIMES.

Lindblom of the central section and Senn of the north divided a practice double header at the south siders' gym yesterday, the home heavies winning, 32 to 29, while the Senn lights took away a 12 to 11 battle in three overtime periods. Capt. Sherman, Don Reid, and Steve Karac led the winning heavies, while Fogel starred for Senn.

The lightweight game ended 9 to 9. Free throws by Deskovich and Ritter made it 10 all. Neither team scored in the second overtime, but in the third Gasper sank a free throw to put his team ahead. Ritter's basket then brought victory for Senn. Gasper sank a basket at the final whistle, but officials ruled that he had taken too many steps. Lineups:

Bruins Defeat Americans in Overtime, 2-1

Boston, Mass., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins closed their season's account with the New York Americans here tonight by defeating them, 2 to 1, in an overtime hockey contest. These teams have clashed four times, three games ending in victories for the Stanley cup champions.

The Bruins' winning tally came during the last half of the overtime going. Gainor gained the puck inside of his blue line, passed to Weiland who slapped a fast shot into Worter's net.

RANGERS, 6; SENATORS, 3

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—With the Cook brothers and Frankie Boucher passing and shooting in their best form, the New York Rangers defeated the Ottawa Senators tonight, 6 to 3. The victory tightened the Rangers' grip on second place in the American group of the National Hockey league, making their margin over Chicago three points.

The second period, in which Bun Cook scored three times on passes from Brother Bill, virtually saw the production of Rangers' victory. Bill tallied once in the first frame and Boucher counted in the last.

MAROONS, 2; COUGARS, 2

MONTREAL, Can., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Showing improved form, the Detroit Cougars held the Montreal Maroons to a 2 to 2 tie in an overtime hockey game tonight. Detroit twice forced the international group leaders to come from behind to tie the score. Montreal's heavier team had the better of the overtime play but could not get through the Detroit defense. The play was fast and rough, 24 penalties being handed out.

SAVAGE UNFAIR AND INACCURATE, AIGLER WRITES

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The controversy between Dr. Howard J. Savage, head of the Carnegie foundation athletic investigation, and Prof. Ralph Aigler flared anew today when it was made known that the Michigan professor had written an open letter to his critic.

Prof. Aigler said he did not anticipate that he could convince Dr. Savage of anything and that newspaper accounts merely have furnished evidence that the Carnegie head had no intention to be fair and accurate.

The letter branded Dr. Savage as guilty of prevarication in his reply to Prof. Aigler's remarks about Bulletin 23. It also sets forth that misleading or deceitful language was resorted to in the bulletin.

N. Y. to See Primo's U. S. Debut Tonight

attended by his managers last Friday evening, and he is inclined to credit the rumors. He engaged Primo in conversation for 15 minutes, addressing him in a patois which he learned while serving with the bomb squad, and he reports that when Primo prepared to move away he looked down and said, very politely, "Excuse me, lieutenant, but you seem to be standing on my feet."

"Perhaps he was just being courteous," the gallant officer states, "but I must say that I have stepped on a great many feet in the course of my duties among the leading sportsmen of our city, and have never felt such lifeless toes before. It felt as though his shoes were stuffed with old rags, but I am still investigating. If Carnera has been deceiving the public it will go hard with him."

Plenty for Peterson to Hit.

Mr. Peterson is in a fine situation for an out of town boy with a previously unsuspected punch, for Primo presents such a large target that it is almost impossible to miss him. Honest Abe Attell has been prodding his knee caps with wicked left jabs all week, sometimes following by a well timed right uppercut to the ankle. Students of pugilism who visit the cauliflower beds of the old world, extending their knowledge, advise your correspondent that Primo's wrath under fire has been overstated, insisting, in fact, that he has a tendency to advance rapidly to the rear when poked anywhere on the great vacant acreage of his countenance.

Chance for Chin Test.

I recall seeing Mr. Peterson one day a few years ago inflicting furious abuse on a mildewed derelict of the roped arena who seemed to be in a permanent state of coma. The bout was a practice exercise and the comatose sparring partner did all his blocking with his chin, so I may have received an exaggerated notion of Big Boy's right hand punch when the unfortunate stray finally succumbed. But Primo's chin is very inviting, and even common customers in the Garden lobby have been eyeing it longingly as though fascinated by the idea of trying one punch to see if he can take it.

However, this has been left for Clayton (Big Boy) Peterson, and there will be the utmost confusion among Primo's board of managers, imported and domestic, Friday evening if he lets one fly and renders the guest artist insensible in first American appearance.

CHICAGO STOCK PACE SET BY RADIO GROUP

Grigsby Up 2 1-8 Points; Wextark Gains 4 1-2.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Radio shares set the pace in a strong session on the Chicago exchange yesterday.

Active issues, including Grigsby, Atlas Stores, CeCo and Wextark, registered gains ranging from two to more than five points. Strength was not confined to the radios, however. Investment and automotive shares were moderately higher.

CeCo was the most spectacular performer, spurting 5⅛ to close at 20. President Ernest Kauer reported that net income for the year ended Dec. 31 amounted more than $300,000, equal to approximately $3.50 a share on the stock outstanding. Sales doubled 1928 volume, it was stated.

Falls Into Line.

Grigsby got into line as the movement developed and was carried up 2¼ points on heavy sales. Wextark sold up to 15½ and closed at that figure with a net advance of 4½ points. Atlas Stores improved two points.

Bendix was easily the leader in the automotive group, advancing to 37⅛ on sales of 21,600 shares. Vincent Bendix, president of Bendix Aviation, confirmed reports that the company had closed a large order with the Stimson Aircraft corporation. Borg Warner and Muskegon Motor Specialty shared the advance, each registering gains of about a point. The annual report of the Muskegon firm, which is to be issued shortly, is expected to show net profit of approximately $550,000.

Down Twenty Points.

The investment group showed uniform strength. Insull Utility was up 2¼. Gains of a point were made by Burnham, Continental Chicago and Manhattan Dearborn corporation. Among the general shares Quaker Oats crashed 20 points to 275 on sales of only 23 shares.

George A. Yanochowski has been elected president of the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company to fill the vacancy created by the death of W. L. Jacoby. Mr. Yanochowski has been associated with the company for the last eighteen years and served as assistant to Mr. Jacoby for three years.

Chicago Board of Trade Stocks

A turnover of 3,500 shares featured the Board of Trade stock market. Sundstrand broke 1½ with trading at 15½, U. S. Cold Storage was unchanged, Wrigley gained ½.

BANKS GET SET TO HELP OUT IN TRADE REVIVAL

Brokers' Loans Are Off $24,000,000.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Because of the present slack demand for credit for commercial purposes and in spite of relatively easy call money rates, corporations and wealthy individuals are putting their spare funds to work in stock market loans. And this movement is enabling the banks to withdraw funds and further strengthen their position in anticipation of improvement in trade and industry which will bring a larger demand for credit.

These facts are evidenced in the weekly report on brokers' loans and the weekly statement of the federal reserve system, both of which were issued by the reserve board yesterday. The first report showed a decline of $24,000,000 in brokers' loans during the last week, bringing the total down to $3,341,000,000 and more than cancelling last week's expansion of $13,000,000. The current total also is $2,102,000,000 below a year ago.

Corporations and individuals increased their loans by $17,000,000, but still are lending $926,000,000 less than a year ago. The New York banks reduced their own loans by $39,000,000 and are now furnishing $196,000,000 less than a year ago, while the interior banks cut their loans by $3,000,000 and now are lending $979,000,000 less than a year ago.

Borrowings Decline.

The statement of the federal reserve system shows a decline of $9,113,000 in member bank borrowings, bringing this item down to $433,223,000. There also were respective declines of $24,958,000 and $2,398,000 in the reserve banks' holdings of bankers' acceptances and government securities. Deposits expanded $11,099,000, but note circulation dropped $43,130,000. Gold and total reserves increased $14,163,000 and $17,001,000, respectively, and the ratio of total reserves to liabilities rose to 76.3 per cent, compared with 75.4 per cent a week ago.

The principal changes among the individual reserve banks occurred in the New York and Chicago districts. At New York member bank borrowings expanded $19,029,000, bringing this item up to $89,655,000. But the reserve banks reduced their holdings of bankers' acceptances by $33,440,000. Deposits receded $14,648,000. Reserves remained about stationary, but the reserve ratio improved to 73 per cent, compared with 71.6 per cent last week.

Retain Money Rates.

At Chicago member bank borrowings declined $13,160,000, bringing them down to $73,704,000. Holdings of bankers' acceptances by the reserve bank declined $2,696,000. Deposits increased $7,110,000. Reserves expanded $30,496,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 77.7 per cent, compared with 74.9 per cent a week ago.

Apparently both the New York reserve bank and the Bank of England are satisfied with the level of money rates in the respective countries. Neither institution made any change in its discount rate yesterday, the New York bank retaining its 4½ per cent rediscount rate and the English bank maintaining its 5 per cent rate. There had been rumors that the Bank of England would reduce its rate and that the New York reserve bank would follow suit.

Stabilization in the international gold movement was about reached in the last week.

Tells Part New Devices Play in U. S. Prosperity

BY SCRUTATOR.

It is a truism that all the betterments we have made in living in the past decade or so have come through new devices that fulfill wants which the people of the earlier days did not know they had.

The automobile is the classic example. More than four million persons, it is estimated, gain their livelihood directly by work in the motor industry. Some statisticians have asserted that, counting in their dependents, the total supported by the gasoline engine on wheels reaches twenty-one millions, or more than one in six of the whole population of the country.

A group of appliances that have bulked large in the last few years and seem destined to grow still further are designed to convert electric current into directly useful work in the household. There are at hand several estimates of what the public paid for such things in 1929 and what will be paid in the future.

Household Appliances Bill.

Last year's bill for household electric machinery was placed by Electrical Merchandising at 925 million dollars, as compared with 813 millions in 1928. Included in the total were 630,000 refrigerators, valued at retail at 181 millions. Vacuum cleaners sold nearly 100,000 more than in the previous year for a total above sixty-five millions. There were fourteen million dollars' worth of electric irons and somewhere between 115 and 129 millions' worth of washing machines; the second estimate is by Silas Altorfer, a manufacturer of this product, who ventures the opinion that there will be 150 millions of sales in this line this year.

Americans like to take their exercise without exertion. Otherwise why should they pay nearly two million dollars for machines that shake the liver and stir the circulation. There were two and a half millions invested in dishwashers of the mechanical type and the same amount for violet ray machines. It hasn't been so long ago that every one of these conveniences was unknown.

Supply Creates Demand.

The list of things once unwanted and now in large demand could be extended almost indefinitely. It is this multiplying of wants that explains the puzzle of how this civilization has been able to keep unemployment as low as it has while progressively reducing the number of men needed to do the same amount of work. Because housewives want more leisure and easier ways to do their work we have an electric appliance business that probably supports one-tenth as many people as the automobile industry.

Prosperity can be had if the flood of new things to supply wants and even to create them continues. It could almost be said of such things as the labor saving devices mentioned that the demand was created by the supply; wants remain latent until the desired thing appears.

Something new that would sell as automobiles have sold might guarantee prosperity for twenty years.

I. C. C. HEARS LAWYERS ARGUE REVALUATION OF O'FALLON RAILWAY

Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Five hours of argument before the interstate commerce commission today left the question of evaluating the St. Louis and O'Fallon railway apparently as unsettled as when a value was first fixed upon the small road five years ago, despite the intervening decision of the Supreme court, designed to clear the way for valuation.

Fred H. Wood, attorney for the nine mile road which has assumed national importance by reason of the test case centering on it, demanded that the commission attach "dominant and controlling" importance to cost of reproduction of the road new in establishing its value for purposes of recapturing excess incomes.

Taking the opposing view, on behalf of the national conference on valuation of American railroads, Donald H. Richberg contended that effective regulation of railroad rates and recapture of excess earnings is impossible under the present law. He urged further legislative enactment by congress to indicate the extent to which original costs or cost of reproduction now is to be considered.

He argued that rate regulation on the basis of the present value of the property is "impractical, unjust and unconstitutional," and added that use of such valuations "will result in the gradual, but sure, enforcement against the public of monopoly prices for public service."

SEES 1929 GAIN OF $3,000,000 FOR BURLINGTON

F. E. Williamson, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, stated yesterday that preliminary figures for 1929 indicate a gain of approximately $3,000,000 in net income. In 1928 the road showed net of $26,278,252, equal to $15.38 a share.

The Burlington and the Rock Island intend to take the Trinity and Brazos Valley railroad out of receivership, Mr. Williamson said.

Bethlehem Steel Reports Net Income of $42,242,980

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 23.—In announcing record peace time net earnings for the Bethlehem Steel corporation of $42,242,980 in 1929, a gain of $23,657,058 over 1928, Eugene G. Grace, president, today said general business in the United States was improving daily.

There is nothing spectacular in the improvement, but the pendulum has definitely swung upward, Mr. Grace said, adding that the Hoover business conferences had been a very helpful factor in the recovery.

"The steel business has picked up better than I expected," he continued. "The demand is good and our bookings are ahead of present production schedules. I do not know of a better barometer for business in general than the steel industry. We cannot expect a year like 1929, but if we have a reasonable percentage of the 1929 record we will have a good year."

Sees Broader Demand.

Construction business will require more steel than in 1929 and shipbuilding activity is the best since the war, he said, and the demand for steel in shipbuilding will offset to a large extent the decline in orders expected from the automotive trade. Bethlehem's plants are operating at 74 per cent of capacity compared to 86 per cent a year ago.

Total earnings in 1929 equaled $15.50 a share on 2,273,333 common shares outstanding during the year, compared to $6.52 a share on 1,800,000 shares in 1928. Earnings in 1928 amounted to $18,585,922.

Net income for the fourth quarter amounted to $10,046,197, after all charges, equal after preferred dividends to $2.75 a share on 3,200,000 common shares outstanding at the close of the year, compared with $11,384,720, or $4.01 a share, on 2,400,000 shares in the previous quarter, and $6,399,348, or $2.58 a share, on 1,800,000 shares in the corresponding three months of last year.

On two occasions last year—May and September—the company issued rights to stockholders to purchase additional shares at prices below market levels at the time of offering, resulting in a substantial increase in the number of shares outstanding.

Orders on Hand.

The value of orders on hand at the close of the year was $86,060,883, compared with $61,067,997 at the end of the previous quarter, and $59,040,202 on Dec. 31, 1928. Gross sales and earnings for 1929 aggregated $342,516,207 compared with $294,778,287 for the previous year. Total amount of new business booked during the year amounted to $369,536,888, compared with $295,209,483 in the previous twelve months.

New York, Jan. 23.—Excited shouting covering in a handful of recent bear favorites jazzed up proceedings considerably on the stock exchange today.

The activity centered around Fox Film and the gyrations in the price of these much buffeted shares furnished the street with a spectacle the like of which has not been seen since the big headlong crash of the market last fall.

From around its opening level of 22 the stock bounded to 34, jumping a point or two between sales before

ENTHUSIASM IS ABSENT IN WHEAT PRICES DECLINE

Foreign Weakness Is Factor in Selling.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

British enthusiasm in the wheat market vanished overnight, and prices yesterday dropped 1⅝@1⅝c from Wednesday's finish, with the local element and commission houses on the selling side.

Buying against bids checked the break, but the close was within ½c of the inside figures with net losses of ⅞@1¼c, with March $1.23¾ and May, $1.27⅝@1.27⅝. Commission houses sold July in small lots, but it gained ⅝c on the May and closed at $1.29@1.29¼.

Weakness in foreign markets was largely responsible for the selling here, and the break was helped along by the lack of export demand. Liverpool closed 2@2¼d lower on general selling, estimates of exports of 4,224,000 bu from Argentina for the week being a factor. Latter compared with 2,729,000 cu the previous week, and 5,592,000 bu last year. Profit taking was on in Winnipeg, which closed ⅞@1⅛c lower, while Buenos Aires was off ½@⅝c and Rosario ½c for the day.

Outside Trade Limited.

Failure of foreign demand to follow the upturn in wheat prices on Wednesday was distinctly disappointing to the trade. Sales in all positions during the day were estimated at 200,000 to 300,000 bu. Basis at the Gulf remains firm, and No. 2 hard for January loading at Galveston sold at 1⅛c over Chicago May, the best premium of the season.

Reports of a further betterment in flour demand were received from the southwest, with more interest taken in export kinds. There is only 1 to 2 inches of snow in western Kansas and high winds have blown the snow off many fields. Apprehension of damage exists and a few complaints are being received from the northwestern and southwestern sections.

Country Sells Cash Corn.

Increased country offerings of cash corn to arrive, mainly from Illinois points, with 70,000 bu reported as booked, had a depressing effect on futures, and prices dropped over 1c from the finish of Wednesday to a new low on the crop on the March, and the finish was at net losses of ⅝@1⅜c, with March 88¾c, and May 92⅜@92⅝c. Buenos Aires finished with net losses of ½@1c, with February leading the decline.

Cash interests bought March and sold May oats at 1¼c difference, but the general trade was light, and the finish was at net losses of ⅛@⅜c with March 46⅝c and May 47⅛@47⅝c. Local shipping sales were 36,000 bu.

Leading holders were credited with supporting May rye while the other futures were under pressure, especially the July, which declined sharply on selling by a local operator. The finish was ⅝@1⅛c lower, with July leading. March closed at 95½c; May, 95c, and July, 93¼c.

HOG REPORT BULLISH

Provision traders construed the government report of hogs on farms as of Jan. 1, which showed a decrease of 4,280,000 from last year, as bullish. Figures, however, did not appear until after the close and may have some effect on the provision market today.

Interest in bellies was light, with May 5c lower at $13.05 at the close. Packers reported a good trade in side meats in the south and the ham market was ½c higher. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

FRESH EGGS OFF SHARPLY

Declines of 1½c in January fresh egg futures, equal to $195 a car, and of 1½c in January butter, equal to $216 a car, featured lively trading on the Chicago mercantile exchange. Opening was strong in all deliveries and in some cases improved on good spot and warehouse news but the breaks were sharp at the finish. Short selling and profit taking were apparent during the day. The butter market for the last week was bullish but was ignored. The output was reported as 650,000 less than a year ago.

Egg future sales were 170 cars and receipts 4,176 cases. Butter futures sales were 176 cars and receipts 5,052 tubs. Prices follow:

LIVE STOCK ON FARMS

Number of cattle on farms in the United States on Jan. 1 as shown by a report from the department of agriculture, increased 1,500,000 head as compared with a year ago, while swine decreased 4,280,000 head. Sheep and lambs increased 1,404,000 head. About half of the gain in cattle was in milch cows and heifers kept for milk.

The result of the prevailing low prices for live stock was reflected in the total valuation which is placed at $5,864,965,000 this year, compared with $6,393,598,000 a year ago and $5,514,426,000 two years ago. Cattle are valued at $3,320,104,000 this year, and swine at $717,306,000. Details follow, last three ciphers omitted:

Wheat increased 5,500,000 bu over the November figures, and oats 2,800,000 bu. Heavy reductions, however, were shown as compared with the previous year due to drought, with wheat off over 267,000,000 bu and oats nearly 170,000,000 bu.

Wheat crop of the three prairie provinces is 276,664,000 bu against 544,598,000 bu in 1928, while the oats crop is 141,620,000 bu, a decrease of 156,000,000 bu from the previous year. Yields for all Canada compare as follows:

METAL COMPANY BUYS LEASEHOLD IN SOUTH KEDZIE

R. Lavin & Son to Move from 21st Street.

BY AL CHASE.

R. Lavin & Son, metals, have purchased from the Scott-Weiss Steel company the leasehold interest in the manufacturing property at 3426 South Kedzie avenue for an undisclosed consideration. The ground comprises approximately four acres and is improved with three buildings.

One building is 603x85 feet, another is 263x82 feet, and the third is 131x40 feet. The first two are used for manufacturing purposes and the third is a combination office building and warehouse. The buyer of the leasehold expects to move from its plant at 2511 West 21st street to the new location in about a month and a half.

Plan Improvements.

The Lavin company, which produces brass and copper ingots, expects to spend about $20,000 on improvements. The firm was founded twenty-five years ago. The original lease was made to Francis M. Barton of the Barton Steel company by the sanitary district of Chicago for 99 years from March 1, 1919. Hopkins, Starr & Hopkins were attorneys for the sellers and Ira Straus and Sol Roderick acted for the buyers.

Christ P. Hatzis has purchased the 132x115 feet of vacant at the northeast corner of Lawrence and Springfield avenues from George W. Prassas for an undisclosed consideration.

North Michigan Avenue Lease.

The entire second floor and half of the third floor of the Story & Clark Piano company building at 173 North Michigan avenue have been leased by the R. W. Farmer company, tailors, who have been at 16 West Jackson boulevard for a number of years. The lease is for five years, at a term rental of $27,000, according to Mark Levy & Brother, who represented all parties.

The same brokers report having leased the store at 6352 Broadway, in the building now under construction, to the Alliance Finance corporation for five years, at a term rental of $17,700. A. Trostler represented the lessor, John Biggio.

Waveland Corner Sold.

The sixteen flats and three stores at the southwest corner of Waveland and Crawford avenues, lot 57x120 feet, have been conveyed by Henry R. and Charles E. Wurst to Samuel M. Aronson. Mr. Aronson in turn conveyed the property to Arthur R. Stanford of Indianapolis.

Abraham A. Klein has purchased residential property on the north side of Ainslie street, just east of Broadway, consisting of a number of two story brick homes. One parcel, 48x90 feet, was purchased from William Davis, and the other, 72x90 feet, was acquired from Charles Retzky.

EARLING SELLS HOTEL AT LELAND AND WINTHROP

The property at the northwest corner of Winthrop and Leland avenues, improved with buildings containing a fifty room hotel, seven stores and offices, has been conveyed by Sherburn M. Earling to the Foreman State Trust and Savings bank as trustee for an undisclosed buyer. The lot is 83x150 feet. Mr. Earling took lake front property in Porter county, Ind., in part payment. The Chicago property was conveyed subject to a first mortgage of $110,000. Thomas D. Bell was the broker. Perlman, Goodman and Scolnik were attorneys.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A recession in wheat prices was disappointing to those who had bought on Wednesday in expectation of foreigners continuing their liberal purchases. Action of the market, however, showed that it cannot be depended on to move steadily in either direction for any length of time and the disposition to take profit and to limit losses is so keen that traders do not stand long on either purchases or sales when the market turns against against them.

Official weather reports from Hungary and Rumania say there is an absence of snow covering, but that temperatures are mild and crops are in a satisfactory condition. They add that weather conditions will now warrant close watching. In Europe generally temperatures are above normal so far this month.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 3,000 cattle, 34,000 hogs, and 17,000 sheep.

Brisk competition for hogs was a feature of the live stock trade again yesterday and boosted the general average price to $10.00, within 10c of the highest point in 17 weeks. Prevailing quotations are mostly 60c above the low spot early last week, both the top and general average prices showing that much gain in 10 days.

A steady opening brought all interests on the market earlier than usual and gains of 10@20c were general in mid-session, with larger houses taking nearly 5,000 at $9.90@10.00 mostly. An advance estimate of only 34,000 for today, against 46,662 a year ago and 45,492 two years ago, added zest to trading at the finish, the high point of the day. Only 6,000 were left.

Halts Cattle Break.

The second smallest Thursday cattle receipts in more than three months halted the disastrous break in prices yesterday. Strength appeared soon after the opening and some classes recovered a small part of the recent sharp loss.

Quality was lacking and few load lots of cattle were eligible to more than $14.00. Some prime 1,265@1,531 lb steers sold at $15.00, the day's peak for full loads. Seven steers averaging 1,214 lbs, however, reached $16.00. Cows and heifers ruled stronger again and showed gains of 25@50c since last week's close, in face of the big slump in steer prices. Calves ruled steady to lower, considering the better quality available. Stockers and feeders were scarce and steady.

Lambs Slump Sharply.

FOX FILM BULLS HAND TRIMMING TO BEAR CROWD

Covering Operations Give Traders Thrill.

enough offerings began to appear to halt its dizzy climb. Then it fell back to around 28, where it lingered for some time, finally closing at 27½, a net gain of 4¾ points on the day.

Fire Heavy Orders.

The squeeze which made yesterday's bull demonstration in the stock look tame and colorless in comparison was prompted by news of the move to appoint a new board of trustees to administer the affairs of the corporation during its present financial difficulties. Bull traders began to fire heavy orders into the market as soon as the word had had time to get around, and for a time the bear covering movement was so violent that transactions in the stock virtually monopolized the tape.

String after string of orders came out during the fourth and last hours of trading, the total for the day amounting to nearly 494,800 shares, or more than half of the entire number outstanding.

Refuses to Yield Control.

William Fox refused today to give a board of trustees control of the great film system he built up, and as co-defendant with the Fox Film corporation and allied enterprises he must answer an order to show cause why a receiver should not be named. Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman issued the order today, making it returnable on Monday.

The film concern president spent some time in Judge Coleman's chambers this afternoon in a conference having for its aim the appointment of trustees to try to straighten out the concern's tangled affairs.

But Mr. Fox was obdurate. He would not place his shares, which control the company, in trust, but elected to fight for control of the company.

Three groups have asked a receivership. On Saturday attorneys for Henry Gast, a holder of class A nonvoting stock, filed a petition. On Monday Isidor J. Kresel, counsel for Mrs. Susie Dryden Kuser, who controls about one-fifth of the class B or voting stock, filed another.

Today it was learned that even before the Gast petition was filed Arthur Berenson, representing Abraham Rudnick and Benjamin Snider of Boston, holders of class A stock, had presented such a plea to the clerk of the District court. It was not and has not yet been docketed.

The squall in Fox started a covering movement in Radio, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, and other recent favorites for short sellers. Traders turned to the bull side and the market, generally aroused from its apathy, became increasingly active on the upside as the session drew toward a close.

Shares Work Higher.

Final returns showed a total of 1,229,290 shares traded in, with prices up from 1 to 5 points throughout the list.

United States Steel performed with its old time brilliance and its run-up of nearly 5 points did much to hearten the constructive element. The farm implements continued to work higher as a group, while the tobaccos, most of the food shares, and chemicals advanced.

Business machine issues also had a good day, their sponsors making much of the current reports that buying has improved on the impetus the business recession has given to substitution of machinery for manual labor.

Copper stocks moved up on failure of the price cut bomb to explode. Anaconda, Kennecott, Magma, Granby, and other issues of the group registered net gains of from 1 to more than 3 points generally on the day.

In the farm implement group, J. I. Case, which set such a pace in yesterday's small time trading affair, bettered its position by more than 7 points today. International Harvester and Advance Rumely were each up about 3 points at the close of trading.

Numerous pool favorites rode the crest of the wave, among them being Kreuger & Toll and Raybestos, each of which worked into a new high ground for the year.

Move Up in Sympathy.

Bethlehem, Crucible, Transue & William and other steel shares moved along in sympathy with the leader. Strength in the group foreshadowed a better showing in the Bethlehem report, due later in the day, than the specialists had anticipated.

Allis Chalmers advanced briskly to a new top for the year, helped by a report of a $3,500,000 order for tractors from the soviet government. The street also heard that negotiations are under way for Allis Chalmers for the acquisition of Advance Rumely and this helped the stock—both of them.

A Statement to the People of Chicago about Licensed Small Loan Companies

THE present emergency confronting City and County employees has emphasized the necessity for the relief offered by those Small Loan Companies operating under the Uniform Small Loan Law of the State of Illinois.

This law was enacted for just such emergencies to provide the average family with funds, which they are unable to obtain from banks on the security they can offer.

There are licensed Small Loan Companies located at convenient points throughout the city, and there is no necessity for any family, borrowing up to $300, to pay a rate in excess of 3½% per month on unpaid principal balance—which rate the legislature has fixed as a fair and equitable maximum rate.

All loan companies authorized by the State are required to display their license for the current year. To protect themselves, applicants for loans need only insist on seeing the license which the State has issued.

Licensed companies will be glad to advance up to $300 to City and County employees or any family which is entitled to credit. The service is prompt and business-like.

This civic emergency simply illustrates a situation which, without being called to public attention, repeatedly confronts more than three-fourths of the families of America.

Because of the recognized need for extra banking facilities, twenty-five states have enacted a Uniform Small Loan Law providing facilities which are now being used by more than four million families, tiding over emergencies and maintaining their credit with the business community.

SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg, heir to millions, asks Barbara Thornton to marry him. She agrees, but not very graciously. When she hears that he has just lost his job she scolds him and calls him a playboy. He calls on his attorney, David Craig, who tells him that he will never inherit the money his father left if he doesn't prove himself capable of managing his life in a sensible way. He tells him that since he has lost one job after another he will have to double five thousand dollars in thirty days or live on an income from a trust fund for the rest of his life. John Andrew telephones this to Barbara and she offers to give him five thousand to turn over to Craig. He refuses and tells her he is going out to Hollywood. She is furious with him and breaks the engagement. He decides to go to San Francisco and starts for California. On the train he meets Anne Ames, who is on her way to Hollywood with a letter of introduction to a movie producer. They become interested in each other. Before saying good-by in Utah, John Andrew tells Anne that he will see her in Los Angeles in a few days.

Arrived in San Francisco, John Andrew meets an old school friend, Peter Merriam, on the street. Pete is selling Mercury cars and tries to sell one to John Andrew. They go for a trial spin and with John Andrew at the wheel have a slight smashup. In order to keep Pete from losing his job, John Andrew buys the custom built roadster for $4,950. He also gives all but a hundred dollars of his expense money to an old man with an invention without asking what the machine is. He drives to Los Angeles in the Mercury and sees Anne at the Consolidated studio, where she is being tried out. He makes an engagement to take her to dinner. Before starting out he looks at the old man's plans and learns they are for a noiseless camera. He sells the patent rights to Consolidated for twenty-five thousand, the money to be turned over to him on the receipt of the signature of Blake, the inventor.

In the meantime the hotel people become suspicious of John Andrew and ask him to pay his bill. He decides to pawn some belongings. He receives a telegram from the inventor's attorney asking for five hundred additional or lose the contract. He tries to sell the Mercury and offers it for two thousand dollars. Before the deal is completed he is arrested by order of the Mercury Motors of San Francisco. Their attorney calls on John Andrew in jail and explains that it was all a mistake. John Andrew agrees not to sue them and they pay his hotel bill. Fitzgerald of Consolidated lends him the five hundred to send to Blake. John Andrew wires Craig in New York that he has put the deal over and asks for an introduction to a bank in Los Angeles.

INSTALLMENT XLI.

UNHAPPINESS.

At last Anne could stand it no longer; the dam burst and words poured forth: "The last chance I might have had is ruined," she said bitterly. "That reporter will go out to the studio; they won't even let me do silent pictures now. Anne Ames, the girl with the golden voice—that sounds as if it came out of a barrel when it is reproduced! And you . . . the man with the golden dreams! How they'll laugh. Laugh! Like you did at me in jail. Your laughing meant, 'It's all a joke; the promises I made you were a joke.' You were so glad at getting out of one mess that you showed me how much your promise to me meant to you——"

"I wasn't laughing at you, Anne; I was trying to tell you that you're wrong about . . . valets and things——"

She went on as if he had never spoken, "And all our life it would be that way. I'd never know when you'd be arrested. I'd live in fear as to what my gentleman-crook husband might be doing, because I couldn't trust your promises. Money today . . . a big time with it . . . not a cent tomorrow. John Andrew, I don't love you. I never did. I can't. I won't. I don't."

"You have an appointment, Sir?"

"Is that all that's wrong?" Kellogg asked. "Why——"

"All? It's everything. How do I know you didn't . . . steal the invention, or forge the poor old man's name? You heard what the reporter said. 'Never been arrested before' . . ."

"He only meant——"

"And do you think that I'd be willing to live all my life . . . fearing? O, you'd promise me to go straight. Now that you're to get money from Consolidated, you would keep out of trouble until you've spent it. And I know I've failed; I know that my voice is useless . . . but that isn't what hurts me so. I could have stood that." She slid lower in the Mercury's soft cushions. "I'll have all my heartache at once, now, instead of having one all my life, John Andrew."

Not at any time had Kellogg loved her more than at this moment. He saw her fear and doubts; he recognized, with a curious flush of happiness, that he meant vastly more to her than anything else, and resisting the wish to cover her unhappy hand with his own, said soberly, "I don't blame you, Anne, thinking what you do. You love me a lot, don't you?"

"Let's not talk about it any more," Anne said wearily. "We might have been so happy, but . . . take me home."

Some inner thing took possession of John Andrew's words: "Consolidated are paying me, for my share in the camera, twelve thousand dollars, Anne. Think of the fun we can have——"

Earnestly, "I don't want money. You know I don't. Did you think talking wealth . . . valets . . . society people . . . would make me love you more than I did? I've never had it; the girl at Consolidated who helped me dress was the nearest to a maid I'd ever had or ever will have. You kept telling fairy tales, but I loved you, anyway . . . I don't know how to say it, John Andrew, but love isn't only love; it's trust, too, and so many other things . . ."

John Andrew sighed, but not unhappily. "You just keep on loving me a little while longer, sweetheart, and——"

"Don't try to explain," said Anne. "You can't talk me around again. After all you've told me——"

"I won't say a word," Kellogg promised.

Regardless of traffic regulations, he swung the Mercury at the next corner in a complete circle, and started back along the street they had come; once Anne said, miserably, "This is the street——" but Kellogg continued driving ahead. For many blocks she sat upright in the seat; John Andrew (wisely) gave no sign when she finally slipped her hand through his arm. His throat throbbed a little; he knew that Anne must be saying to herself, "This is the last time . . . the last time . . . the last time . . ." but (wisely again) he said nothing.

Once, stopped at an intersection while crosstown traffic surged past, he asked the directing officer the way to the California Southwestern bank, and then drove as silently as before. Only the automobiles on either side, the noise and rumble of the city, the eyes instinctively drawn in admiration toward the shining custom built roadster, Kellogg realized, kept Anne's lovely little head high. As for himself, his throat had constricted painfully, and more than once he swallowed with difficulty.

* * * * *

The California Southwestern bank, founded by pioneering railroad men, by owners of thousand acre wheat fields and hundred thousand acre ranches, still has on the directorate descendants of de la Cuestas and del Valles and de los Santos Miramontes who, in the days of splendid California, could not ride across their holdings in a day's time; nevertheless, the building which houses the bank is stern and austere.

Three times the jade green roadster circled the block in which the bank was situated without being able to find a parking place; in desperation Kellogg sought Park All Day for Fifty Cents, and ran the car into a lot containing many other machines.

"Why?" Anne asked.

"Ten o'clock. Bank's open." John Andrew took his ticket from an attendant, and, stepping out, opened the far door for Anne. "Come along," he urged.

She was, he saw, about to refuse; the attendant, however, said, "I got to get th' car out of th' runway, lady . . ." and, rather than argue, Anne (evading Kellogg's hand) climbed to the ground.

When they were in the street, she said, "I have some things I can do downtown. I'll go home later——"

John Andrew took her arm. "Only take a minute," he said. "You've got to come, Anne."

"If I don't——"

"But you will."

They were walking slowly along the street; Anne did not look up, but shrugged her shoulders slightly. "I suppose you're going to cash your check," she said. "And then you think you can . . . that the money . . ."

Kellogg knew how completely unhappy she was; he had not received the check in payment for the Blake-Kellogg camera yet, but said vaguely, "I may need some one to identify me." Anything, any excuse, to get her into the bank. "Please come with me."

Her "Very well" was like cold water frozen about the edges.

John Andrew gave his card to a blue uniformed floor man. "I wish to see Mr. Dobson," he said.

"You have an appointment, sir?"

"No. Please take my card in to him."

The California Southwestern functioned easily; the floor man said, "I am sure Mr. Dobson is engaged, sir, but I will take your card to his secretary, and tell you when he will be free."

Light from a huge window haloed Anne's head; although she did not know what might be expected of her, nor what Kellogg intended, she held it proudly high. John Andrew's heart missed a beat. He did say, "Dear Anne——" although she gave no sign of hearing, but seemed intent on the majestic simplicity of the bank, the money changing hands, the somber, heavy atmosphere of importance and wealth . . .

"If you will follow me, sir——"

John Andrew said "Good" to the attendant, and, touching Anne's arm with fingers which were, curiously, trembling—since Kellogg did not know how Anne would feel, nor how she would react—took her along with him.

GASOLINE ALLEY—HERE'S THE DOPE SHEET

AH, A CHAIN LETTER! COPY THE MOTTO "KEEP OFF THE GRASS" NINE TIMES AND SEND IT TO NINE ACQUAINTANCES WITH INSTRUCTIONS TO THEM TO DO LIKEWISE. GOOD LUCK IF YOU DO AND BAD IF YOU DON'T. IT IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE COME DOWN A "CHAIN" INCLUDING SHAW, LINDBERGH AND DAWES. CAN'T YOU—IMAGINE 'EM AT IT?
THERE ARE EIGHTEEN NAMES ON THE LIST FROM ONE TO ANOTHER BEFORE IT GOT TO ME. NOW IF EACH PERSON HAD DONE AS REQUESTED THE FIRST ONE WOULD HAVE WRITTEN TO 9 AND THEY TO 81. THOSE WOULD HAVE SENT TO 729 AND THEY TO 6561. GOLLY IT MOUNTS UP FAST!
HERE WE HAVE IT—IN ONLY 10 STEPS OUT OF THE 18 IT WOULD HAVE GONE TO 3,908,072,460 PEOPLE OR FOUR TIMES AS MANY AS THERE ARE ON EARTH! THEY DON'T ALL HAVE STENOGRAPHERS, SO COUNTING AN HOURS COPYING FOR EACH THAT WOULD HAVE TAKEN 488,000,000 WORKING DAYS OR OVER 27,000 AVERAGE LIFE TIMES WASTED.
THINK OF WHAT GOOD LUCK EVERYBODY MIGHT HAVE HAD! AT LEAST IT PROVES THAT THE ONES WHO BROKE THE CHAIN ARE TO BLAME FOR THE WORLDS BAD LUCK.

Good morning!

That popular musical comedy "Hit the Deck" has had its photograph taken. The result is a mighty good picture. The high lights are:

1. JACK OAKIE: If there's anything this boy hasn't got [save pulchritude, which he doesn't need] show me! He can sing, he can dance, he can love, but apparently all he needs to do to make everybody happy is just to show his smiling face. I'm asking myself today—IS he my favorite actor? And it seems to me that the answer is "Yes."

2. POLLY WALKER. Her screen debut in the feminine lead is a success in every way.

3. Sailor choruses; scenes in technicolor aboard the flagship; dancing interludes; the music—lovely; the famous "Hallelujah" number. This last is excellently rendered and effective, but it is sort of dragged in by the heels.

4. Direction by Luther Reed who made "Rio Rita" and has done a better job by "Hit the Deck." The action moves with verve and ease under his deft, sure guidance.

5. Photography. Excellent throughout.

The film is an adaptation of the Belasco stage play "Shore Leave" and the story is light and slight. A sailor [Mr. Oakie] is greatly desired by one Looloo, who owns a coffee shop. She sells a family heirloom in order that she may buy him his heart's desire—a freighter. Which makes her darling mad. He won't take nothing from no dame, see? And so, and so and so. . . .

The men in the supporting cast are all in fine form. The women satisfy but fail to arouse enthusiasm. Marguerita Padula does surprisingly little with the rôle which proved such a fat one [yes, literally as well as figuratively] under the expert ministrations of Trixie Friganza and Stella Mayhew.

Never mind. The good things in "Hit the Deck" completely wash away your memory of the faulty ones. Here is ONE GOOD SHOW—and I don't mean maybe.

See you tomorrow.

Elect Miss M. E. True Y. W. C. A. Treasurer for the 45th Term

For the forty-fifth time Miss M. Elizabeth True was elected treasurer of the Chicago Y. W. C. A. last night at the 53d annual meeting. That session was in the Harriet Hammond McCormick memorial residence. As far as any one knows her record exceeds that of any one else in the association. Before becoming treasurer Miss True served on the board of directors. Her affiliation with the Y. W. C. A. exceeds 50 years.

Need of a new loop building to give adequate space for a continually growing membership of girls was stressed in the report of Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, president. That cited the increased demands of the World's Fair of 1933.

Mrs. Hodgkins was reëlected president, and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, who presided in the absence of Mrs. Hodgkins, was reëlected first vice president. Other officers are Miss Ruth Matz, second vice president; Mrs. Robert de Golyer, corresponding secretary, and Miss Elizabeth H. Webster, recording secretary.

The story of the Chicago Y. W. C. A. from 1870 to the present time was told by Juliette Barker and Louise Rance.

A series of skits were given by the Girls Reserves, Industrial Girls, students and business and professional women, all departments of the organization.

Pauline Manchester Plays with Symphony Orchestra, Applauded

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Pauline Manchester's appearance as soloist of the piano in the popular concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra last night classified both as a public introduction and a reward. She had been pronounced the winner in the competition for piano students sponsored by the Society of American Musicians several weeks ago, and the prize was the opportunity to play her contest piece with the orchestra on this occasion.

So immediately after the intermission she took her seat in front of the keyboard, Mr. Stock signaled, and the orchestra struck the first notes of the fourth piano concerto composed by Camille Saint-Saëns, that work in C minor which sooner or later produces many complex variations on some comparatively simple melodies. Miss Manchester played it brilliantly and effectively, making use of a firm tone throughout, and apparently not greatly concerned with the tricky show-off passages of the work. Her performance was much liked, and the audience called her back to play an encore, Godowsky's arrangement of the Strauss "Serenade."

It was an evening for encores. After Mr. Stock had finished the Haydn "Surprise" symphony, he, too, was induced to present some extras, which ran all the way from some of the "Lohengrin" music to his own orchestral transcription of a waltz composed some years ago by Kreisler, and for several seasons in the repertoire of most of the violinists and a good many pianists. All of which goes to indicate the high regard with which these popular concerts continue to stand in the public mind.

Rudy Hille, tenor, who has been appearing in some Chicago performances in the German language, appeared in a song recital at Kimball hall last night. He sang groups in German, French, and English and an aria in Italian, all obligingly labeled as to language as well as name, in a way that won the full approval of the audience and was the occasion of his being invited back to sing other numbers. He was assisted by Zinaida Aleskovskaya, one of the talented pianists of the younger set, and a soloist last season with the Woman's Symphony orchestra. She gave a brilliant performance of a polonaise and ballade by Chopin, and later appeared in a group by Bortkiewicz and Liszt.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Robert Van Houten, 3411 Schubert avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

If you were convicted of a murder would you prefer the electric chair or prison for life?

The Answers.

Charles Segal, First National Bank building, bond salesman. — The electric chair, and have it over with; not life in prison, in preference to death. A life of mental inactivity would drive one crazy. The burden of the guilt of murder would be unbearable, and I would want it over with; we have to die some time anyhow.

J. J. Goldman, 1066 Glenlake avenue, salesman.—It is only natural to the average person in good health to want to live, regardless of the conditions of existence. I should prefer life in prison of course, though a person having to spend the rest of his life in prison would have a lot of time to think about the things he should have done.

Arthur Park, 809 College avenue, Wheaton, Ill., postal clerk.—I don't want to be sent to either one. I probably should prefer to take my chances on a prison existence, even if it were necessary to associate with the human discards to be found there.

Alexander Balascas, 732 Bittersweet place, salesman. — I would say the electric chair. We don't care for people like that. They are useless to the human race; they are worse than no good. The world can't use persons of that type, so why bother with them? Why maintain prisons, guards, and superintendents to take care of them? Get rid of them.

C. R. Tindall, 4257 Broadway, decorator.—I would take the chair. If I thought that I had to spend the rest of my days in the penitentiary life would not be worth while. The thought of having to live within prison walls all my life would be enough to drive one insane.

You May Enter More Than One History of U. S.

Only 500 Word Limit Goes for Each.

By their words ye shall know them—when it comes to the winners of THE TRIBUNE'S 500 word American history contest. The best account, by any manner of word portrayal, of the origin and progress of this country, set forth within the word limit, is destined to earn $1,000 for the writer. Other prizes totaling an additional $1,100 will be awarded to the papers judged to be the nine next best. The deadline for receipt of manuscripts is Feb. 15.

Already numerous entries have been received by the history editor of THE TRIBUNE, but the rush is not yet fairly started, especially as there is no limit to the number of forms one competitor may enter. If you wish to submit two or three or five different arrangements of your facts, you are permitted to do so.

Announcement that former President Coolidge has contracted to pen the salient points of the history of this country in 500 words, to be carved on the side of the Mount Rushmore memorial, in South Dakota, inspired THE TRIBUNE to inaugurate this competition among its readers. No one is barred from the contest except employés of this newspaper and their families.

Requests received for further information about the contest, especially about the regulations for counting the words involved, have made it clear that further details are necessary. Contestants are advised to follow these rules in preparing their papers:

Count the numerals of a year, such as 1776, as one word, but if you write a date like Oct. 12, 1942, you must count it as three words. If you use a name, such as John Q. Adams, it will count as three words. Initials of states will be considered as one word. The name of a city or other location will be counted as two words if it contains that many—as Kansas City, New York, or Mount Rushmore.

In composing your narrative it would be well to remember that the history President Coolidge has been called upon to write will be graven in stone, to be read by world travelers of this and future generations—not merely for Americans of 1930. So it is not best to take for granted that your readers know the facts and to make merely sketchy reference to important events in this country's past.

THEATER

FEBRUARY 17 is the date for the return to Chicago of the players from Stratford-upon-Avon: they will be housed in the Garrick. Harry Lauder, due there the 10th, will remain but a week. . . . And, after a first night of Shakspere, Miss Jane Cowl will appear in "Jenny" in this theater; her date is March 3.

The Chicago cast of Preston Sturges' "Strictly Dishonorable" will, February 10, be placed in the Adelphi. Mr. Woods, who owns that theater, is the producer of Mr. Sturges' new play, "Recapture."

Miss Constance Collier, star of "The Matriarch"; Hesketh Pearson, who is with her in that play; Miss May Dowling, director of the Dramatic League of Chicago; and Miss Eleanor Markell, of New-York, will be the special guests next Thursday of the Drama Club of Evanston. And the Drama Club of Evanston is the body from which came the far-flung Drama League and all its activities. Miss Markell is to speak about Shaw and other modern dramatists.

"The Women Have Their Way," something from the Spanish, is to be made known next week in New-York by Miss Eva Le Gallienne.

And next week will be marked down there by the revival of "Sari," "The Chocolate Soldier," and "General John Regan." . . . The last-named is a light comedy by Canon James Owen Hannay, known better to Americans as George A. Birmingham, the novelist. The play was acted in 1914 in New-York with Arnold Daly in the principal rôle, and failed; and E. H. Sothern, reviving it about three years ago, also failed to make a go of it.

"He Couldn't Say Yes" is the name of a piece by B. M. Kaye; and it is my recollection—although it may be faulty—that B. M. Kaye wrote a play called "She Couldn't Say No," wherein Miss Florence Moore performed here.

Harry Mervis, Miss Bess Kathryn Johnson, Mrs. Anna Robertson (the widow of Donald Robertson), Roman Bohnen, and Miss Bernard Ostertag will be in "The Field-God" next week in the Goodman. . . . This play by Paul Green is without Negro characters — a circumstance specified because the author is known to theater-goers here only by his piece named "In Abraham's Bosom," wherein nearly all the characters are Negroes.

Gov. Emmerson Plans to Attend Jubilee of the Boy Scouts

When more than 15,000 Chicago Boy Scouts assemble at the Chicago Stadium, Feb. 1, for their achievement jubilee, Gov. Emmerson will be their special guest. That was made known yesterday in a letter of acceptance from the governor to Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the special executive committee of the Chicago council.

"I am very appreciative of your invitation to attend the meeting of the Boy Scouts, and I am pleased to accept," Gov. Emmerson wrote.

In addition to giving the main address the governor will present to various troops and individuals their achievement badges and honors. More than 1,000 boys will become Tenderfoot Scouts in a ceremony at the jubilee.

Gov. Emmerson will be met by a committee composed of Mr. Strawn, Walter W. Head, president of the national Scout council; R. Douglas Stuart, Alfred W. Stern, Laurence B. Robbins, James H. Douglas Jr., and E. Urner Goodman, chief Scout executive for Chicago. A special detail of Boy and Sea Scouts will act as guard of honor, escorting their guest from his hotel to the Stadium, and aids will attend him during the evening.

A series of pageants will trace the evolution of rewarding merit from the bay wreath of the early Olympian games down through Robin Hood and the American Indians to the Boy Scouts of today. Present scouting will be demonstrated.

Field Museum Birds at Harvard University for Classification

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Mysterious birds gathered for the Field Museum of Natural History have been turned over the Agassiz Museum of Comparative Zoölogy at Harvard for identification.

This work of classifying more than 4,000 specimens is directed by Harold J. Coolidge Jr., Harvard '27, who was with the Kelley-Roosevelt expedition in French Indo-China.

The birds were sent to Harvard because the Agassiz museum has the finest collection of Chinese birds in America. It is believed the work will take almost a year.

Premier's Son Visits Chicago, Sees Buildings

Alister MacDonald Also Going to Hollywood.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Alister MacDonald, son of England's prime minister, but preferring to be identified as a British architect on business bent, spent the first of four busy days in Chicago yesterday. Information, rather than politics or social diversions, is the object of his visit and, purposefully intent on making the minutes count, he maintained a rapid pace in his first day's program.

Hundreds attending the luncheon of the English Speaking union at the Blackstone at noon looked with a bit of surprise at the almost Latin coloring of this young man, and listened with relish to his brief but spirited account of his father's reception in the house of commons on his return from his recent visit to this country.

"The whole place was packed out," he declared animatedly. "Members were sitting on each other's laps in the galleries. There wasn't a bit of floor space left. They were so enthusiastic they waved their orders—in fact, they almost clapped their hands, right in our house of commons."

His filial pride in Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his description of the lengths to which their interest and approval had carried these decorous English dignitaries won the immediate liking of the luncheon crowd. He was instantly popular and heartily applauded.

MacDonald the younger is not unlike the moving picture star, Ronald Colman, in appearance, though slightly heavier. He has deep brown eyes, wears a fairish sized mustache and tiny goatee, and his crisply curling hair is worn short. He is bound for Hollywood on leaving Chicago, not to enter the movies, but to learn how to build theaters to house them.

He breakfasted yesterday with Miss Jane Addams, who was hostess to his parents when they visited Chicago on their honeymoon thirty-three years ago. After inspecting the famous settlement house and chatting with Miss Addams, he met and talked business with a bevy of prominent Chicago architects—John A. Holabird, who will be his host at noon today for a luncheon at the Tavern club; Hubert Burnham, of the World's Fair architectural commission, and John W. Root.

This trio accompanied the visiting Britisher for a tour of inspection of the Tribune Tower and plant, in which he was especially interested. From the observatory atop the tower they pointed out to him the landmarks of the city.

"I've come to Chicago to learn as much as I can about how American architects build skyscrapers, and how they operate their offices," he explained. "Not that I expect to build skyscrapers in England—I don't believe I shall ever get used to a view from the top of one. But I can utilize some of the features they have developed. And I have a client who is interested in building theaters—so I'm going to Hollywood to look them over."

MacDonald exhibited keen interest in the architectural plans for the World's fair, and intends to examine them in some detail. He is, he said, anxious to come back in 1933 for the centennial, but "it will depend on how business is."

Business Victories May Overstrain Hearts, Men Warned

Masculine egoism was linked yesterday with the increase of heart disease cases by Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, secretary of the Chicago Heart association.

"The American business man realizes too late," Mrs. Britton declared, "that he cannot dominate nature as he does a directors' meeting. The successful surmounting of economic barriers year after year in business makes any physical impairment appear equally surmountable to the man of forty-five.

"The pace of modern life forces him into the belief that any discomfort is purely transient. Fatigue, heart palpitation, chest discomfiture and breathlessness are ignored when the market is fluctuating, a new building under construction, or a directors' meeting at hand."

Mrs. Britton urged routine physical examinations and established vacation periods as guards against early heart collapse.

1930 Cabbage Furnishes a Delicious Dish

Its Jade Green Leaves Cook Quickly.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

The year 1930 so far is a good year for cabbages. Dealers are cleverly labeling the new product "1930 cabbage." These are, surely, strictly new, and those with which I have made acquaintance are as lovely a jade green, almost to the very heart of them, as cabbages ever were, and they are also jade green when I get them cooked. It pleased me, and I had no ulterior motives then nor now to see them, by their own and sole selves, occupying a nice square of attention last week on this page—advertisement. It was an unusual thing and to me greatly refreshing. Cabbages are fascinating vegetables in uncooked presentations, and then, when cooked quickly to a silken smooth and butter-like green—no color cooked out nor suffering transformation—they can be finer than any cauliflower, broccoli, kale, collards, or "sprouts"—the star member of their family, in fact.

And speaking of jade, and then of the quick cooking, let us say at once that this new 1930 cabbage, when pulled apart leaf by leaf, these leaves washed and dropped into boiling water for a five minute scald, rinsed instantly thereafter with cold water—the colder the better—will, when in perfect condition or when almost as fresh as a rose bursting into bloom, cook to buttery softness in five minutes.

This cooking should be with the least fire that will keep up a head of steam and the cabbages sheltered, or the steam all retained by a cover. If you have kept the cabbage in your house a day or two, or its sale had been delayed until it had wilted, it may take ten minutes to cook it in this fashion.

Process of Preparation.

I picked up a 1930 cabbage the other day from a crate that was standing in the rain and had but a little before been unloaded from a truck, and by just the feel I could tell that it would go almost to butter with a little cooking, as it did in the five minutes set. In fact, the cooked product, chopped a little first, was easily whipped up smooth with some creamy mashed potato—made a colcannon—and, even so mixed, the product was a jade green, or like a beautifully colored pistachio cream.

Let us review the whole process of preparation. Pull the 1930 cabbage apart leaf by leaf, wash the leaves, drop them into boiling water and scald for five minutes, rinse with chilling cold water, put over the fire in enough—a little only—cold water to start steam, after which put on the pot cover and lower the flame. Test with a fork in five minutes, and hope for softness then, but cook no longer than ten minutes—in the case of any new cabbage.

Vegetables in Their Juices.

Vegetables can be almost or often stewed in their own juices. Sometimes we help them to get started one way (butter) and sometimes another (water). This is a thousand times better than drowning and hard boiling them, and they are as much superior so as roast and broiled meat—singed meats boiled in their own juices—are to boiled meat.

It is highly important to remember that vegetables are usually from four-fifths to ninety-five hundredths juice. Their flavor or taste elements are dissolved in the juice, and since these are not strong, like lemon juice, it does not take much to dilute them to insipidity, while they may be condensed to the great satisfaction of the eater. The rest of a vegetable is framework, which is of the nature of a stick, and it can harden with strong heat just as it can be hardened by strong and continuous sunshine.

And while the stick in the vegetable is being wrongly cooked or stiffened by too great cooking heat, we are losing the juice by evaporation—two things which make the cooked vegetable a poor thing, poorer even than this suggests, for with the evaporation goes certain volatile elements that are as precious in a vegetable as odor is to a rose. It is the greatest pity to lose these, because they have an enormous practical service as promoters of appetite and digestion.

1666 Cabbages.

For naive, lovely, historic, and literary things about the cabbage, we can go to French literature, adult and juvenile; or for interesting facts of a various nature we may go to Egyptian history; but fewer people know about how much the cabbage was esteemed and also often disesteemed than Englishmen of old.

John Evelyn, early member and defender of the Royal society, a traveler, writer, most famous for his diary, perhaps, but a writer of lovely things about trees and gardens and how to make cider and salads, gives us an interesting description of the cabbage in his "Acetaria; a Discourse of Sallets," in which he lists in what is often an enchanting style and with rich content eighty-two different salad plants. At the end he justifies the title "Acetaria" by telling us about vinegar and oil and other salad seasonings.

Latin Name Is Brassica.

Evelyn starts his description by giving that Latin name of the cabbage family which every gardener knows—brassica. Then: "Pompey's beloved dish, so highly celebrated by old Cato, Pythagoras, and Chrysippus as the only panacea." Until recently many a modern doctor has believed that to eat cabbage—as is, or was, usually cooked, they were not so far wrong—was a short cut to trouble. And from Evelyn we find that some of the doctors of his day thought it afforded a "crass and melancholy juice." He says the Dutch ate it raw. Cooked moderately, he says, it is "loosening," but when hard cooked it is astringent.

It is lovely to run all through Evelyn's writings, across these touches on the subject of cooking, which show that enhanced common sense has always supplied sound ideas about the cooking of foods. He tells us in this article on cabbages how cauliflower is steeped by some people in milk and by others in beef broth, and of the "broccoli from Naples" he says that it is "perhaps the Halmyridia of Pliny."

Of the Savoy cabbage, which some of us know can be more buttery and soft when it is new and gently cooked than any other, he says that it is commended because not so rank, "but agreeable to most palates."

Evelyn mentions a number of items of lore about the cabbage, and then speaks of matters concerning it that learned men have been at odds on, and perhaps we today would not care for cabbage juice and honey, which some ancient worthies liked and some did not.

Winter Green Beans.

What we used to call string beans when they were green, and pole beans when they were ripe, when brought in from the home garden and cooked at once, were among the most savory and delicious of green vegetables. We must say this with a proviso, because we have known people who put these into a pot and cooked the dainty things, which are so largely water, for two or three hours, because that time was needed to cook the piece of pork or bacon considered necessary for their taste.

And we have known of country women after mistreating beans in this fashion, saying of green beans that the men folk "did not seem to like them." Other fresh vegetables so much needed in everybody's diet have often been left out just on this account. When wretchedly cooked, nobody seems to like them.

Market green beans, and especially the market beans of winter, present quite another problem. We can say of the material that in general it is not first class, and therefore it is imperative that the cooking be good if these are to be served acceptably. If cooked in an excess of water all their solubles, and these are what make for flavor, are leached out of them. We may use considerable water for the blanching, dropping the beans into this for five minutes, then rinsing them in cold water, which makes them appear marvelously green, and sets a model for their final appearance, when they should be grass green and not olive green. After the blanching a pound of beans may be cooked in half a cup of water, if after the water boils the fire is turned very low under them in a covered pot. They are but lightly salted.

The most enthusiasm I have been complimented with recently from any one was when I served beans cooked in this fashion with a bacon dressing of the exact type used to make wilted lettuce. For a pound of beans—there was considerable waste—I used two rashers of truly fat bacon, cutting them into thin little bits with the shears, put them into a cold frying pan and stirred them over a medium fire until the fat was cooked out and the little bits were well crisped. To this I added a teaspoon of sugar and less than a tablespoon of vinegar. In adding the vinegar to the hot fat the water part is instantly cooked out of it, and we have simply the essence left to season this dressing for the beans.

BOTTLERS HEAR OF BIG BUSINESS IN BEVERAGES

Americans last year consumed 812,500,000 gallons of bottled carbonated beverages or enough to float seventy-three of Uncle Sam's largest warships, according to figures submitted yesterday by Charles P. Nevin of Butte, Mont., to the convention of the Illinois Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages at the Morrison hotel.

Nevin said approximately 300,000 tons of sugar are used annually in pop and kindred beverages, more than a million gallons of extracts, 3,250 tons of fruit acids, 110,000 tons of acid gas and 427,500,000 gallons of carbonated water.

According to Nevin about 12,000 establishments now manufacture beverages, which give employment to 120,000 persons, while the capital investment is $200,000,000. Last year's business amounted to $650,000,000, he said.

Waukegan Launches Plan to Halt Fire Alarmists

All persons who turn in fire alarms in Waukegan in the future will stamp themselves automatically and carry the record of the alarm on their persons as a result of steps taken yesterday by Fire Chief Sars O'Farrell to stop the wave of false alarms which has kept the fire department busy in zero weather. Chief O'Farrell said he intends to paint all fire boxes with a blue chemical which fire alarmists will not be able to remove from their hands for several days.

When turkish towels become worn, I make of them into soft, easily handled wash cloths for the children. I cut nine inch circles and blanket stitch the edges with colored yarn. Junior League Girls Help Cut Infant Death Rate

Helpers in reducing the infant death rate in Chicago are members of the Junior league who volunteer their services at the district stations of the Infant Welfare society. Yesterday one of the helpers at the station at 1830 West 22d street was Phoebe Logan, daughter of the Stuart Logans. The Infant Welfare society has aided materially in cutting the baby mortality rate in the city, and maintains stations all over the city, where mothers in congested areas are taught how to care for their children.

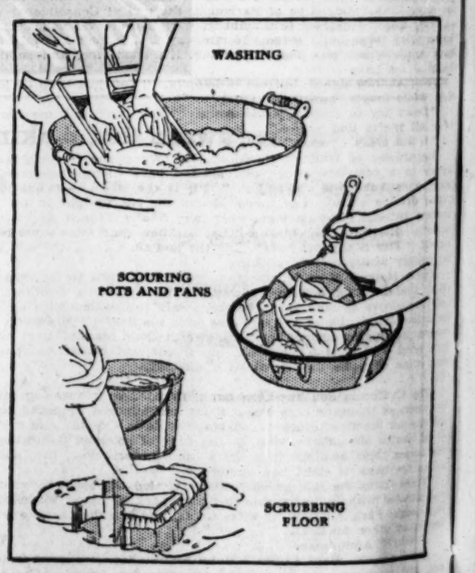
Absurd to Say,

"Such Exquisite Hands Ever Touch a Scrubbing Pail"

—Yet—All Day Long They Do Heavy Work Like This!



Women Who Did Heavy Washing and Housework Wanted Lovely Hands, Too

JUST DROP THIS IN YOUR SCRUB OR LAUNDRY WATER ... AND YOU'LL HAVE THEM A NEW WAY

THE woman who does heavy work for others, the woman who does ALL her own work; heavy work, laundry work, scrubbing and cleaning—both, now, thanks to this discovery, have their inning.

They, too, like the woman who does only lightest work and "wash basin laundering," wanted the caressing allure of lovely white hands. And found them!

What To Do

Use any kind of soap—even ordinary laundry or household soap.

BUT—to the water add one tablespoonful of Climalene. That is all.

That instantly takes the harshness out of harsh water—makes it soft and gentle as rain-water.

Then, you use just ONE-FOURTH or LESS the amount of soap you now use. And thus do your work, NOT with skin eating, harsh suds, but with the MILDEST of all cleansers.

You do your work in ONE-HALF the time—dishes, floors, laundry work. For it DISSOLVES grease, dirt and grime instantly. And thus saves bruising skin-fabric with rubbing and scrubbing. Saves fine fabrics, too, from soap-fade and ruin.

When you take your hands out, they are smooth and white—soft as a child's. For this preparation contains incomparable beautifying agents for the skin.

Believe it or not; but try it. What happens will amaze you. Hundreds of women will tell you so.

Remember—Climalene is what you ask for. Your grocer has it in 10c and 25c packages.

Game Helps You Set Pretty and Attractive Table

Try Choosing Everything at Once.

BY SALLY LUNN.

If you are taking advantage of the January sales to replenish your stock of table equipment, and if you do not consider yourself too mature to indulge in imaginative games, I suggest a diverting occupation for the next time you have a few extra minutes on a shopping tour. Stroll into the linen and china section of the store in which you are making purchases, and give your fancy free rein to set tables with any of the materials you see at hand.

Not only is this an enjoyable method of constructing mental pictures, but it is distinctly stimulating to your critical faculties. After all, it is only by such an imaginative process that any of us can enjoy an unrestricted selection of materials.

No Limit to Choice.

Here is an example of how this game without rules works. Let your glance stray over an entrancing array of china until it pauses on some particular ware that appeals to your individual taste. Now, think of a color or kind of linen that you think will combine artistically with the china. Then send your gaze over to the glassware, if it is in range, to spy goblets that will complement the scheme your mind's eye is constructing, and then fancy a centerpiece that will set off the hue and the character of your layout. Do you see the possibilities of such a harmless and pleasant preoccupation?

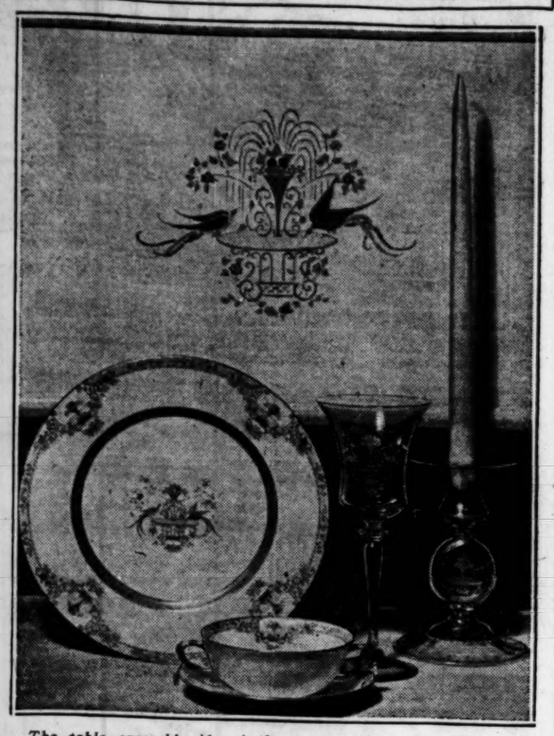
The colorful qualities and the wide variety of new things now available are equally gratifying to the actual shopper or the woman who is "just looking." It is possible to match linens and china with a similar design. In fact, it is possible to purchase an entire ensemble of china, glass, and linens, if you so desire. The colored damasks are still reigning in popularity, with greens, mauve, ecru, and the peach and apricot shades finding the greatest favor. Pastel shaded voile with modern designs of animals or flowers appliqued in white are dainty for informal table wear.

Pink and Blue Table.

In a recent ramble through one of the department stores, I glimpsed some lustrous pink china that inspired me to imagine a table set with it in combination with a shadowy blue cloth, pewter candelabra with blue, rose, and pale pink candles, and a centerpiece of vari-colored posies. Some fairly large swans in tan crackled ware with bright vermilion beaks presented an imaginative problem. One or a pair for a centerpiece might be filled with persimmons, and then, again, the fruit might be too orange for the bright red in the swans.

A cream colored or tan tablecloth would be nice and, perhaps, amber glasses. One of the advantages of this pastime is that one doesn't have to suffer from mistakes.

China and Glass in Ensemble



The table ensemble idea is here illustrated. The Lenox china, Steuben glass goblet and candleholder, and the painted tray are ornamented with a motif designed by Frank G. Holmes, and inspired by the gates at the entrance to the exposition grounds of the Paris exposition in 1925.

Signs Point to Drop in Present Price of Eggs

Market Will Be Glutted by Spring.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Surplus, that trite word which causes such commotion in the ranks of producers and spells easier prices for consumers, is nowhere more dreaded than by the food producing farmers of the middle west.

Last fall the poultrymen were detailing their woes of overproduction; grain farmers have faced this situation frequently for years; and just now the dairymen of the nation are caucusing their sudden precipitation of an extra 40,000,000 pounds of butter on an already amply supplied market.

Leaders in the poultry industry, meeting in Chicago this week in their third annual fact-finding conference, seemed to agree that signs of the times point to at least some degree of a glut in eggs during the coming months. At which information the city consumer who has been paying from five to ten cents per "aig," this winter, becomes wreathed in smiles.

Farms Source of Supply.

"Between 30 and 35 billion eggs were consumed by the nation during 1929," according to Paul Mandeville, secretary of the United States Egg society. "Yet the industry supplying this huge order has been undergoing many radical changes. The garage has displaced the henhouse in town backyards, and farmers are now the main source of supply."

Even so, but 40 per cent of the nation's egg production passes through marketing channels, the balance being consumed in the farmhouse or nearby villages. This transition from small home to large-scale egg production is likened by Mr. Mandeville to the change from home baking or sewing to the commercial bakeries and textile factories.

This note of heavy egg production which is expected to break rather abruptly throughout the rural areas in a few months was sounded by Harrison F. Jones, of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg association. He quotes leaders in the industry as reporting practically no sales of pullets from farms last year, due to favorable egg prices. This carryover of millions of egg-layers will be augmented by an unusually heavy hatch this spring.

Pullets Best Layers.

The egg business means about two-thirds of the poultry business, estimated to total a billion dollars annually, according to eggmen at the conference. Every hen of value exceeds her own weight yearly in eggs laid, while record breaking layers produce over 42 pounds of eggs, ten times their weight, in a year.

Since a year old pullet lays about 36 per cent as many more eggs than a two year old hen, the poultrymen are carrying on an intensive educational campaign to rid farms of older hens, both for economy sake and to bring stronger, fresh flocks into production. Rapid strides are also being made to perfect a nation-wide system of grading and standardization, as well as improved refrigeration facilities. This will assure the people that more eggs leaving the farm fresh will pass into consumers' hands as fresh as they should be, says Mr. Jones.

Have you ever tasted real Philadelphia Pepper Pot?

"Pepper Pot, smoking hot," rang the cry of the picturesque cooks through the quaint streets of old Colonial Philadelphia. They were magic words. They opened the doors of the fashionable and elite. The steaming, savory delicacy graced the glittering boards of the leaders of society in those gay times.

From one of the most famous of these Pepper Pot cooks, who numbered the distinguished belles of the hour among her patrons, Campbell's derive the recipe for the Pepper Pot you can enjoy today. It is a soup which even the French, with all their admitted culinary skill, do not possess the secret to blend.

For Campbell's is the real Philadelphia Pepper Pot, which has never been successfully imitated.

Pepper Pot has a charm and a flavor all its own. No other soup is like it. Whole black pepper gave it its name but in the blend are marjoram, thyme, sweet pimientos, diced potatoes, a generous supply of macaroni dumplings—all combined with the subtle "touch" of Campbell's Special Philadelphia Pepper Pot Cook!

Serve this unique and "different" soup today. We promise you a treat that you will often repeat. 12 cents a can.

All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts Has Show at Revell's

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts recently has opened a permanent gallery for the showing of paintings and sculpture by Illinois artists only at Revell's. This bringing of art into the department stores is a great step toward familiarizing the shopping public, particularly the women, with painting and painters. They become less of a mystery and more of a necessity.

There are galleries now which really stand for something at Carson Pirie Scott's, in particular, and at Marshall Field's and at Kroch's. Those are in addition to the regularly organized art galleries pure and simple.

The All-Illinois society exhibition is made up of the work of four artists. Richard A. Chase offers a group of portraits of children and young girls. A use of red and bright surface distinguishes them. To my mind Mr. Chase is not as successful in portraiture as he is in landscape and water color. There is a nagging quality of the hard and artificial in the figures that detracts from the spontaneity which his coloring leads one to expect.

Joseph Jicha is represented by a group of water colors of tropical places; Hawaii is the probability. Jicha is a modernist and his work is strong in color but restless in line. It sweeps one here and there, and there is no point where the movement stops and one can take breath to realize its beauty. Modernism has discovered perpetual motion and it is a distressing mishap. The paintings by Edgar Cameron, which hang beyond the water colors, give emphasis to the excitability of Jicha's work and also supply quiet in which to think. There is something gracious and soothing in Mr. Cameron's exquisite leisureliness of painting. He finishes his canvases; there are no rough seams. It is all beauty and thoughtful perfection. His are paintings to live with and by.

The sculpture by Genevieve Alexanderson is not up to the level of the paintings. She works chiefly with children, but to the critical eye it is the amateur and not the professional artist with whom we deal in the scattered pieces.

The exhibition will run through the month.

Leon Dabo of New York, American artist whose paintings hang in most of the leading galleries in the United States and in the Luxembourg museum in Paris, is coming here under the auspices of the Adult Education Council of Chicago.

He will give two series of three lectures each on "Social Implications of American Art."

German Expert Finds Traces of Sumerian Culture in So. Africa

BY FRANK BURTON.

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CAPETOWN, Jan. 23.—Prof. Leo Frobenius, German archeologist, has arrived at Durban from India with evidence, he says, that links Zimbabwe ruins with sailors from the ancient Sumerian and Babylonian civilization which once flourished in Mesopotamia about 4,000 years ago. He also found kindred of the Zimbabwe civilization at Hampi, Madras, 50 miles inland from Dharwar in southern India. There, he says, the same religion and culture that established civilization in Rhodesia still is alive, even to the worship of the black bull.

The professor with his eight assistants has been working two years with the assistance of the South African government, exploring forests, swamps, and mountains in Africa. They claim to have discovered in Portuguese East Africa a tribe that still sacrifices to the evening star, and the tomb of a king who was not a native of that region.

"There is no possibility," said Prof. Frobenius, "that such architecture as that found occurred separately and spontaneously in both southern India and Rhodesia. It is a peculiar expression of a certain form of civilization and mentality that was just as advanced as the cultures which are found in the expression of later civilizations. My answer to the riddle of the Zimbabwe will bear the closest scrutiny."

Marjorie Little Engaged to H. K. Gilbert Jr.

BY THALIA

There is another romance in the unusually large quota that have come to light this season. Mr. and Mrs. Alden H. Little of 227 East Delaware place announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie, to Henry K. Gilbert Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Gilbert of the Hotel Ambassador East.

The Littles moved to Chicago from St. Louis a few years ago, and the announcement is to be made there today also. Mr. and Mrs. Little and Miss Marjorie left yesterday for a stay in their former home town, and Mrs. Little's sister, Mrs. Tyrell Williams, is giving an announcement luncheon today.

Miss Little attended the Mary institute in St. Louis, went to Ogontz for a year, and studied in Europe for a year before making her debut in St. Louis. Mr. Gilbert is a Yale graduate. Their marriage is to take place in June.

The various smart clubs are now going in for annual meetings. Review of the activities of the last year, and plans for the future are in order, with elections of officers to carry on their respective projects. Many of the organizations go on from year to year with the same personnels directing their destinies.

The board of directors of the Woman's Athletic club held its yearly meeting this week, and the women's board of St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze was reelected president of the Woman's Athletic, and the other officers are Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley, Mrs. William Sherman Hay, and Mrs. Charles H. Morse, as first, second, and third vice presidents; Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, recording secretary; Mrs. H. Newton Hudson, treasurer; and Mrs. Frank P. Graves, corresponding secretary.

The only new member of the board is Mrs. Alfred C. Tyler, who takes the place of the late Mrs. Jule F. Brower, who carried on the work of the entertainment committee so ably for many years. The other board members are Mrs. Allan M. Clement, Mrs. Harry B. Clow, Mrs. Will H. Lyford, Mrs. William C. Pullman, Mrs. George M. Reynolds, and Mrs. Stanley Zaring.

The St. Luke's board already is planning for its next fashion show and will make public the date in the near future. Mrs. Walter B. Wolf is taking over Mrs. John W. Gary's duties as chairman, while she is on her trip around the world. There are few changes in the group.

Mrs. Moise Dreyfus of 3330 Sheridan road and her daughter, Marie Louise Dreyfus are at the Arizona Biltmore hotel at Phoenix, Ariz., for a winter visit.

Arthur T. Aldis entertained at dinner last night for José de Creeft, the sculptor, whose work is on exhibition now at the Arts club. Mr. Aldis gave the party at the Cliff-Dwellers because his apartment at 100 East Chicago avenue has not yet recovered sufficiently from the recent conflagration to permit entertaining.

Samuel Insull is to preside at the musical and tea to be given by the Chicago Civic Opera company for the Friends of Opera next Monday afternoon and the program will be given by Claudia Muzio, Alice Mock, Charles Hackett, Richard Bonelli, and Chase Baromeo.

Her Engagement Announced

MISS MARJORIE LITTLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden H. Little of 227 East Delaware place announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie, to Henry K. Gilbert Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Gilbert of the Ambassador East.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—President and Mrs. Hoover gave a dinner tonight in honor of the members of the Supreme court. The chief justice and Mrs. Taft are absent in Asheville, N. C., where the former is regaining health. Justice Holmes, nearly 89 years old; Mrs. Van Devanter, and Justice and Mrs. Brandeis were the only other absentees.

Among the guests were Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, Justice Van Devanter, Justice McReynolds, Justice and Mrs. Sutherland, Justice and Mrs. Pierce Butler, Justice and Mrs. Edward Terry Sanford, Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, Senator and Mrs. Overman of North Carolina, Senator and Mrs. Gillett of Massachusetts, Solicitor General and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wickersham, Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, and Miss Susan L. Dyer of New York, house guest of Mrs. Hoover.

Jews Consider Plan for New Home for Their Convalescents

The announcement was made last night that plans are being considered for the building of a convalescent home. Alfred K. Foreman, president of the Jewish Charities of Chicago, told of plans at the annual meeting in the Standard club. The Jewish Consumptive Relief society, which is expected to sponsor the hospital, already has voted $100,000 toward the project, he said.

"There is urgent need for such a home," Mr. Foreman added, "where a patient may be cared for after leaving a hospital and before going back to work or to his home. The proposed institution would be of great service in providing that care for persons who have been hospitalized, regardless of the disease from which they suffered."

The Jewish Charities during 1929 disbursed $1,451,871.53 to its affiliated organizations, Mr. Foreman said in a review of the year's work. The total income was $1,501,778.78, exceeding 1928's income by more than $9,000.

Bequests and gifts made to the endowment fund during 1929, the report stated, amounted to more than $352,000. The largest of these was $132,042 from the estate of Adolph J. Lichstein, the largest individual bequest the Jewish Charities of Chicago has ever received. Shortly before Mrs. Augusta Nusbaum Rosenwald's death she made a gift of $50,000 to the endowment fund.

Presbyterians May Get Lane Theological School, Cincinnati

Lane Theological seminary of Cincinnati may be merged with the Presbyterian Theological seminary here, according to reports yesterday which arose when the Congregational conference meeting at the Hotel Sherman agreed to yield one-quarter residuary rights in the Cincinnati institution. Three-fourths of the rights are held by the Presbyterians.

According to reports recently published in the Presbyterian Advance and in the Presbyterian semi-official organs of the denomination, it has been stated that Lane seminary had planned to merge with Princeton Theological seminary, provided that the Congregationalists' equity could be satisfied. The Lane equipment is said to be worth about $500,000, and was built on land given with the understanding that if the seminary should be removed from Cincinnati one-fourth interest in the property would go to the Congregational Educational society. Lane seminary was founded in 1832.

Survey for Child Betterment Is Wide, Inclusive

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bonans

A book on the care of babies by Miss Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom, a noted authority on the subject, can be had at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 50 cents, or by mail for 65 cents.

For those who may not have seen a plan of the tremendously comprehensive study for child betterment that President Hoover has set in motion, it may be of interest to know something about it. And certainly, when we are informed, we shall not be able to help feeling a thrill of pride as American citizens that our country is engaged in such a project.

Being an engineer, Hoover naturally organized the survey most carefully. It falls under four heads.

The first, medical service, covers three subjects: pre-natal and maternal care, medical care of children, and growth and development.

The second head has to do with public health and administration. This is divided, also, into three sections. The first concern is with public health work. The second concern is with the control of communicable diseases. The third concerns itself with milk production and control.

The third section of the work is devoted to education and training. This phase was so comprehensive that it had to be divided into six lines of study. They are:

Family and parent education.
The infant and pre-school child.
The school child.
Vocational guidance.
Child labor.
Recreation and physical education.

The fourth section is for the study of the handicapped child, and concerns itself not only with his maintenance and protection, but with prevention work.

Each division is manned by those who are authorities in their field.

When the work is finished and the reports are ready, President Hoover will call a conference and definite action will be taken. It will be something to see.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

Painful for Both.

The other day my sister and I were out walking. The recent snow had made the sidewalks extremely slippery and walking was difficult. My sister, who is gracefully inclined to tip over the 200 pound weight, was having trouble in walking.

Suddenly, while I was looking in a window admiring something, I heard a little screech and a plop! I turned and there was my poor sister modestly sitting on the hard, cold sidewalk.

"Help me up!" she demanded, in a dignified tone.

O, horrors! Of all the times human nature has to play a trick on me it had to be then! My sister looked so comical that I leaned against a building and burst into gales of laughter until the tears rolled down my face. Some kind stranger helped my sister to her feet. With blazing cheeks and murder in her eyes, she gave me the worst "bawling out" that I have ever received. And before all the laughing onlookers, too!

Embarrassing? I guess it was! And painful? Yes, for both of us—in different angles of looking at the matter though! M. S.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Johnny's mother got a note from his teacher saying that his deportment in school was poor—he talked too much. His mother admonished him and told him she wanted a good report the next month. The next month Johnny's mother got another note from the teacher about his poor behavior.

"Didn't I tell you not to talk in school, and didn't you promise you'd behave better this month?" his mother asked.

"But mother," Johnny said, "I was better this month. Last month I talked out loud and this month I only whispered." T. S.

Young Daughter Can Act as Peacemaker in Fractious Home

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"It is utterly impossible for me to get along with my family. I am willing to say the fault is partly mine. But my mother had a nervous breakdown several years ago because my father ran around with other women. She has been harping on it ever since. And my father, in turn, harps on expenses.

"I will not listen to the quarrels any more. I will not take sides, either. They're both unreasonable and I will not be drawn into their fights. But the thing that hurts is that my mother told me two years ago how bitterly disappointed they were that I wasn't a boy and this fact caused a great deal of trouble between my parents. Surely, I can't be held responsible for my sex. I wish, myself, I had been a boy. I would have beat it away from home long ago, as any boy would under the circumstances.—THELMA."

It's pretty obvious, Thelma, that your house needs a healer to help turn it into a home. And I think you could be the messenger of peace if you just made up your mind. At the present moment you think you are the most abused person in the world, I suppose. And, no doubt, your life has been clouded unfairly, too. But running away from home does not help matters much. You can't cast off ties of blood, no matter what ends of the earth you fly to.

As your home stands now, it entertains three rebellious souls with no one to try to iron out the ills. Your mother you must treat as a sick person. Your father probably is sick at heart, too, and you have your own private aches. Suppose, anyway, you make a try at being the peacemaker. If you make it go, I'll guarantee you a happier life than you can get otherwise.

Fathers are not such hard persons for daughters to get around, really. Listen to his complaints and give him a little sympathy. Mother, in her ill health, does not give him any comfort and you haven't been giving him any and perhaps just a few kind words from you would make a new person out of him. Then, with a new understanding between you two, there would be more patience toward mother and she would have to respond eventually to your new kindness.

Forget about the boy injustice. You're young and strong and life is ahead of you. Just try to remember you have two sick people with you and what they need more than anything on earth is an understanding little nurse who can heal that past breach of theirs and bring them happily together again.

High School Editors Plan Contest in Criticism of Play

Staff members of secondary school publications of the Greater Scholastic Press Guild will compete in a dramatic criticism contest next Wednesday evening at the Goodman theater during the second performance of "The Field God," by Paul Green. H. F. Harrington, director of the Medill School of Journalism, who will judge the contest, will speak before the performance on the development of criticism in secondary schools.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Mother Interfered.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a young man who loves me. We were to be married, but my mother interfered. She even objects to our friendship. I have returned my ring, but I still love him. Kindly advise.

"BROKEN HEARTED."

Sometimes mothers are selfish when it comes to parting with their daughters, so unless she can advance some excellent reason for her objection you'll have to make your own decision.

Be More Friendly.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 18 and have not been out with a boy friend yet. Everybody calls me bashful. Is that the reason? WORRIED."

You'll have to cultivate a friendly manner if you wish to attract the boys.

Shorter Jackets and Higher Heels Are Chic

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special.]—Fur jackets are getting ready for spring, and they are going to be worn in fashionable resorts right up to May in their present smart, abbreviated state. Paris has intentionally shrunk them so that they will be suitable for conservative climates, and also because they look too quaint and chic for words when they are no longer than the Poiret astrakhan jacket shown in the accompanying sketch.

Nothing is lost in nature or in fashion, so the few inches that are taken off the bottom of the chic fur jacket are added to the heels of the latest Perugia dancing slippers. Fortunately nobody does the Charleston any more, because it would be like dancing on stilts to try any such steps in these slippers with five and five and one-half inch heels. However, though they compel a certain subdued measure for dancing feet, these slippers are guaranteed to make any foot look small and high arched, which is the ideal of all feminine possessors of pedal extremities.

Women who like to wear something new and different are coming out to tea dances and other afternoon functions in the Poiret ensemble illustrated here, wearing on their feet the slippers shown in the circle at the bottom of our sketch. The little jacket is made of black astrakhan, and it has three-quarters length sleeves, made long by inside cuffs of black satin. The single rever of the jacket and the bottom of the sleeves are bordered with beige, white and red silk bias bands.

The dress is beige georgette with a high girdle made of beige, white and red bands, the ends of which fall to the hipline in front. The Poiret hat worn with this ensemble is made of black satin to match the cuffs of the jacket.

And now the feet, and the slippers made by Perugia of black antelope with super heels studded with rhinestones, and big square rhinestone buckles set erect in the front. These slippers are the last word in Paris fashions and are recommended to little grownup girls.

Smooth Away the Wrinkles of Fatigue with These Exercises

by Colonel Boyd

Maybe Christmas left your brow a bit lined. Maybe, if the bills are all in by now, perpendicular creases between the eyes greet an otherwise smiling countenance.

Anyway, it's a tough season for smooth countenances, what with Willie's ten dollar choo-choo already in pieces and the paint all licked off little Mary's grand planner toy. Of course, you could read over some of the cheerful greetings on the Christmas cards! It is nice to know a lot of people did think of you around the busy season, no matter how they neglect you and you them the rest of the year.

However, we mustn't go gooey on friendships, nice as they are. There's big wrinkle business to attend to. At least, I raised a couple and I expect I have sisters in need of consoling measure of relief, too.

I know a nice exercise for just these clouded brow seasons, easy to do and as the saying goes, worth doing. You can do it while you are reading a book; that is, if you can read with your eyes shut one minute and open the next. Or, while somebody else is reading a book. That's better.

Anyway, prop your arms on the table [that's why I thought about the book] and get your palms greased for action. Close your lids and begin by pressing the palms into the flesh lightly at the base of the upper lid. If your hand is average size it will branch over and take in the crows' feet.

With fairly firm pressure bring the palms up directly to the hair line, then send them in the opposite direction to the ends of the outer forehead. Go back and do this over and over again. It's a great little brow smoother, really it is.

And, if down around the mouth corners the spirit shows sagging a bit, do the same up and out palm pressure movement.

Did you ever try this when you looked in the glass and saw instead of the sweet little upturned corners a dour, grim and hard set line? Loosen up, just relax—nothing else. Gosh or golly or jiminy-crickets [not nice langwidge, but take your choice], but that simple mouth relaxing motion sure do shoo the stinging wasps away from the brain center! It's awfully hard to hang on to mads, pcevs or worries with the lever working loose and easy around the mouth corners.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The new sheerness at the neckline formed by the attractively shaped yoke of net with crystal beading makes this black Canton crêpe dress outstandingly smart. It rather suggests the princess silhouette with its molded bodice and graceful, flaring hemline that dips at the back. The skirt is cleverly cut with a circular flounce starting at either side of the front. A circular godet inserted at the center front places the fulness properly to balance the back, dipping hem. An interesting detail is the curved outline at the top of the flounce.

The pattern, 3226, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Model kitchen, where the Home Making Center tested G. Washington's coffee; the coffee made the modern way, with no pots or percolators, no strainers or grounds.

"THE lasting freshness of G. Washington's Coffee was a revelation to us," states Miss L. Ray Balderston, of the N. Y. Home Making Center. "We made numerous tests of coffee that had been packed from one day to six months previously. 'Cup quality' experiments conducted by our own staff showed that every cup of G. Washington's was deliciously fresh...as fresh as though just roasted and packed."

Naturally G. Washington's retains its original freshness and fine flavor longer, because it is made and packed immediately after roasting.

G. Washington's is literally the coffee part of the coffee bean. Before it reaches your table, the grounds and water have been completely removed. That's why the smaller can contains just as many cups of good coffee as a large can of ordinary ground coffee. One cup of good coffee is as easily made as six cups, without the least bit of waste. That's why it is so economical. G. Washington's is pure coffee, good coffee...nothing but coffee. Sold at all good grocery and chain stores.

Write today for your sample tin of this fine coffee, price 10c. G. Washington Coffee Refining Company, 1302 Hanover Ave., Morris Plains, N.J.

The Staff finds G. Washington's so easy to make. A level teaspoonful poured into a cup of hot water ... and perfect breakfast or dinner coffee is ready to serve. This coffee fairly makes itself.

Testing for cup quality in the dining room. Here it was proven that the original flavor and freshness are retained in G. Washington's coffee, prepared from finest coffee beans. Uniform in flavor because every cup is made exactly the same.

SIFT CHARGE OF SINCLAIR GIFT TO JAIL'S DENTIST

Accused of Accepting an Auto from Day.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The dentist at the District of Columbia jail was charged today with accepting valuable gifts from Harry F. Sinclair and Henry Mason Day in exchange for favors shown the wealthy oil men during their terms at that institution.

Jail authorities have been investigating reports that Albert E. Kling, who cares for the teeth of prisoners in exchange for his room and board, had been presented with an automobile by Day and a watch valued at $150 by Sinclair. He was ordered to appear Saturday before a special board of inquiry. He has denied the receipt of any gifts from the oil men.

Capt. M. M. Barnard, superintendent of district penal institutions, said he had questioned J. R. Ellis, manager of a local garage, who declared Kling had bought an automobile from his firm. Ellis informed Barnard that the dentist had paid for the automobile in $100 bills.

Kling said today that he had performed no service for Sinclair or Day during their jail terms other than to clean their teeth.

Kling has been a resident of the district jail since last July. He is a senior at the Georgetown University Dental school. Sinclair was released from the institution last November, after serving several months on charges growing out of the Teapot Dome oil case. Day, one of his business assistants, was released last October. The sentences of both men were imposed as a result of convictions on contempt charges growing out of the notorious oil scandals.

Chicago Riot Story, Clown Thrill Elmer

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Chicago's Haymarket riot was reënacted with a musical background on W-G-N's 8 to 8:30 Chicagoland program last night. The program had vivid appeal and gave the listeners a real thrill. Quin Ryan was the narrator; Edward Barry the compiler of the narrative, and Alfred Wathall the composer of the incidental music. The production was especially prepared for radio presentation.

I believe that the "Jefferson" character on the W-G-N 8:30 to 9 program has by this time become a favorite with the radio audience. His story telling antics, with his characteristic "yes, sir," when his story is cut short to permit the entrance of a musical number, is as amusing as it is original. And last evening I am sure he made a hit with his antics in a song number.

The Metropolitan church choir, WLS, 9:30 to 10, presented an excellent program. There seemed to be fewer of camp meeting songs and more of the serious, musical, concert type.

WALL ST. SEES SMALLER NET IN 1929 FOR G. M. C.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 23.—Reduced net income is anticipated for General Motors in 1929, compared with 1928. Estimates offered in Wall street today placed last year's net income at about $5.40 a share on the 43,500,000 shares of common stock outstanding, compared with $6.14 a share in the previous year.

It will be some time before the books of the General Motors corporation are closed finally, but it is expected that the report for 1929 will show net profit, including the undivided equity in earnings of subsidiaries not consolidated, of about $243,000,000. This would compare with $276,468,108 in 1928, but would exceed the net in any other year.
